Premium Potatoes.

The New York Tribune says : We ately interviewed a practical farmer who for several years past has taken the first prize for his potatoes. In re-ply to inquiries as to his mode of opera-tions, he said that the largest and best shaped tubers are always selected for planting at digging-time the previous year ; and he finds that they have been adually increasing in size until his otatoes are now enormous. pround is chosen for the crop; it is very carefully and deeply plowed, and thoroughly pulverized with the spike harrow. Previous to breaking up, however, the whole surface is heavily red, and this manure raked into the furrow as the plow passes round. The tubers are cut into quarters a few days before planting, and dropped in rows sixteen or eighteen apart. The rows are struck out with plow about three feet distant, and the seed is covered with a good depth of soil. A roller passed over the round, leveling and smoothing the urface, to be followed in a short time by the spike harrow. As soon as the young plants appear above the ground the cultivator is started and kept going frequently throughout the growing sea-son. Every weed is rulled up as soon This is the only magic he employs. Careful choice of seed, thorough prepa-ration of the soil, frequent stirring of the surface, and total extinction of weeds-these are the searcts of his SDCCESS.

The Fattening of Sheep.

Mr. L. A. Morrell read before the American Farmers' Club a paper on the "Fattening of Sheep," in which he said : Quietness is indispensable to rapid fattening of sheep, cattle, and rapid fattening of sheep, cattle, and swine, and to contribute as much as possible to this end, regularity is re-quisite, not only in the quantity of the ad the music is quite as efficient as the appeal. He visited a mad-house the other day, and was shown a cell in surprising how quick animals, es-pecially when fattening, will learn the stated hours when their food is to be supplied; and if it is transgressed, they become restless, which, to a certain degree, retards the process. The ob-one's life was worth to approach him. He tore his clothes into ribbons, and food, is of paramount importance.

son. Every weed is pulled up as soon as it makes its appearance; for, to use his own expression, he is "too poor to grow weeds." As the plants wax strong, slight furrows are thrown up to them with a small plow, and these are still turther increased afterward by a repe-tition of the same process. In dig-ging, great care is taken not to skin or bruise the tubers, but to handle them all carefully, and this enables the owner to preserve them much better than the careless farmer who throws his potatoes about as if they were cobble stores. New Year's eve some thirty years ago New Year's are some thirty years ago --and we were keeping it right merrily at the old manor-house of Stor Aswan, the home of my childhood, as it had been that of my forefathers for many generations. The pleasantest spot in all the world, I theught, and still think, that concirct Norvergien homestand with custions, wraps, all went over to the hungry pack, each gaining us an in-stant's priceless delay. As the last fell from my hand, the foremost wolf bounded forward, just missing my arm, that quaint Norwegian homestead, with its buff walls and birch bark roof, which bounded forward, just missing my arm, whilst his strong, cruel jaws met with a painfully audible snap. Then Eric turned and looked at me-a long, loving glance-and began knot-ting the reins to the iron side of the driving-seat. Instinctively divining his purpose of giving his life to save mine, I sprang forward, and clinging to him frantically, whispered : succeeding summers had rendered verdant with an evergreen thatch of moss and lichens. Just now, however, this was not visible, for snow lay thickly upon it, as it had lain for weeks past, not only there, but upon all the coun-try round. We were in the midst of a from yellow fever, or been threatened with it, this fall, have, of course, resorted to a profuse use of disinfectants. Principal among those used has been carbolic acid, which, according popular consent, is the most effective of all the remedies against infection. Prof. Cochran, of the Alabama Medical College, condemns it as being condu-cive to the spread of disease rather than its suppression, and says, after watching the effects of its use in the hospitals of Mobile and New Orleans : Not only do the facts and examples ad-Not only do the facts and examples ad-duced in proof fail to establish the efficacy of carbolic acid as a prophylac-tic against yellow fever, but without any violence, and without any sophis-tical interpretation, they go very far toward the establishment of the sus-picion that its influence has been the very reverse of prophylacits, that if it very reverse of prophylactic ; that if it has not contributed to the extension of the disease, it has at least added to its malignity and increased the mortality to a fearful ratio. The experiment has been made, and it has failed.
