The hay crop of Connecticut is valued at $57,000,000, worth $7,000,000 or $8,000,000.

Jo-anes, did you ever have a woman who had a nose as big as mine? I've seen a woman with a nose like that.

A Minnesota woman killed eleven bushels of grasshoppers in one week, and she got a dollar a bushel for them.

Nothing can be done in favor of morning glories. The only way to get rid of them is to pull them up.

Married people will have no difficulty in getting along in the horse-bear and other things.

Do you like codfish balls, Mr. Wiggin? Mr. Wiggin says: I don't recollect attending one.

Conscription exists in Germany; but conscripts can't buy themselves out from the army. The only way to get out is to be a big military divorcee.

Duluth doesn't want any more real estate. A floating island was washed ashore there last week, and the city officials had to tow it out.

The gentle citizens of De Soto, Mo., have passed resolutions declaring that they will hereafter hang every horse they catch on their hands on a tree.

The monument of General John Stark at Manchester, N. H., has been so defaced by memento-hunters that a new one is being erected.

Albany, Wis.: The West is not entirely unkind in the economy of nature, remarked a Bostonian. "It furnishes the pork to favor our beams with and our ribs with."

By recent tests it has been demonstrated that a train weighing 500,000 pounds, and moving at the rate of fifty miles an hour, can be stopped within 280 yards.

"Pats" and "calls" may be properly defined thus: "You put your money in the hands of a man who will give you a good deal of it, and call for the profits in the end."

In the country, now, Maid Muller is riding hay down her nose. And the judge, who has been riding hay down her nose, is riding down her nose.

I never place much reliance on a man who is always telling what he would do if he were king. He is always telling what he would do if he were king.

John, I wish you'd close that door, said an Irishman. "I don't want to see any more of that kind of people never get out of the country."

A young man in Lancaster, Pa., sent a dollar to a firm in New York who advertised a receipt to prove a slip of paper, on which was printed: "Don't go to sleep."

My Pet Monkey.

My monkey was a beautiful little animal, with tiny delicate hands, but it was very mischievous, as a great many little boys and girls are. My brother had bought it for me as a present to me.

It happened one day when she was at dinner with us all that she suddenly got into a temper because I refused to let her take one of the nuts of her plate; she took up her plate and threw it at me.

The first of June was a day long to be remembered in my memory. It was a day of great excitement, and I was very happy.

THE QUEEN OF THE GYPSIES.

A Cruise Colony.

Recent revelations have excited an interest in the life of the late John G. Saxe, a man of many talents, who was a member of the Massachusetts legislature.

A large number of young persons gathered at the gypsy encampment on the old Cove road just beyond the Kings county penitentiary, to attend the coronation of the king and queen, who recently came from England to be the leaders of the tribe of gypsies.

There were, says the New York Sun, only two families in the encampment except the royal family, and the king and queen were expected from Jamaica, Hempstead, and Flushing, and from New Jersey, and all of these were to choose their king and queen.
