The fruit grower should know the poculiarities of each variety; some must be marketed at once, some autumn varieties come into eating condition in a week or two after picking, while others keep into early winter. The latest or winter sorts should be left on the trees and the fruit has nothing more to gain by hanging. The importance of assorting is a matter that growth is complete and the fruit has morthing more to gain by hanging. The importance of assorting is a matter that cannot be too often repeated. No work of the missing expedition were lost until 183, when Dr. Rae, traveling overland fruit and after the missing expedition were lost until 183, when Dr. Rae, traveling overland fruit and of fruit as it comes from the rorthern part of Hudson's bay.
