Evarts, Key and Schurz are spoken of as "anti-Republicans," "Greeley men," &c. while the latter is specially singled out for the most violent form of party and personal abuse. It is denied that he represents anybody, that he is a Republican, that he has a local habitation and a name, that in fact he is anything more than a Bohemian adventurer or a Hessian, who as Senator Morton has it, "will stand by the party which will pay him the largest price for his speeches in the canvass." The feeling against Mr. Evarts abates a little on his personal character but is quite as severe on his political record. Richard M. Thompson; of Indian na, is spoken of as an old fossil, thrown as a sop to Mr. Morton at the last moment, who passed the vigor of public life over twenty years ago.
