

On last Friday night, Mr. Ammon, landlord of the Great Western Hotel, in Union county, fell out of the second story window into an open cellar stairs under-

LOCAL ITEMS.

STORE ROOM FOR RENT.

The undersigned offers the store-room, known as Hercher's old stand, at Centre Hall, for rent.

—Maj. Harry Foster will be the orator at the next meeting of the Centre county Veterans Club, at Howard.

—The Journal man, at Millheim, has been on the brain-cause, too much beer in the stomach, he has capacity for a kee full.

—S. Greeninger, of Tylersville, has already commenced erecting a store house at the Fouchersburg county waste an assistant law judge.

—Wm. Harter, of Harrison, picked two bushels of huckleberries in one day, in the mountains, last week. Must be plenty down there.

—Sunday and Monday last were rather cool, and reminded as that summer was nearing its end.

—The Lewisburg M. E. Sabbath school excursion to Spring Mills, on Wednesday last week, consisted of 18 persons, and was very successful.

—In a few weeks from this the telegraph will extend up to Spring Mills, putting our valley in telegraphic communication with Europe, Asia and Buffalo valley.

—The 2nd Quarterly Conference of the Evangelical Church will be held at Centre Hall, Pa., on the 16th of September.

—Communication on Sabbath morning, following, and services in the evening.

—We have received from the author, Prof. Wm. T. Meyer, two pieces of sheet music, "The Old Bachelor," comic song and chorus; also "Walking Down the Lane," humorous song, words and music, by Mr. M. Price 25c each. These pieces will be favorites with lovers of the art, as all the author's productions have proven.

—Many of the people in this valley talk of attending the Union Co. fair, at Lewisburg—they can reach it so handily now by rail.

—Go to Heiler's Bellefonte Marble Works if you desire to purchase the first class workmanship, and low prices.

—S. & A. Loeb's keep ahead for first class goods, and latest styles, and cheap.

—Farmers and physicians of Pennsylvania will find a complete stock of medicine, genuine and of best quality, at Green's drug store Bellefonte.

Henry Krumholz is having a 400 feet well put down on his ground at Spring Mills to connect with the grain house he is about erecting.

—Graham Bros, from Milroy, are starting up a weaving establishment, in the room formerly occupied by the Reporter office, and will soon be ready to do all kinds of work in the line of weaving.

—The managers of the Union Co. Fair have information from the Railroad Company that excursion trains will be run from Spring Mills, in Centre Co., and all intermediate points to Lewisburg.

—Walker, the fellow who stole Senator Peale's horse, was tried at Bellefonte, last week, and sentenced by Judge Orvis to ten years in the penitentiary. There is no fun in that kind of a sentence.

The Gallaghers, charged with stealing silverware from the residence of A. O. Mountain, 1 mile north of Centre Hall, prominent speakers will be in attendance to address the audience. Several concert bands will be in attendance to furnish music. The public generally are invited and urged to come.

The Legislature Term Democrat says that "Gen. James Burns is still brought out upon the street occasionally upon his wheeled chair for airing, and to appearances seems to be gaining rather than losing in health. We are told he pronounced the words "yes" and "no" very distinctly, and he apparently recognizes persons with whom he was intimately acquainted and extends his hand for a handshake to every one, although he craves another way to communicate ideas, if indeed he has any."

—A Tylersville correspondent of the Clinton Democrat says: "It is not generally known that we have in our town an insane man. But such we have in the person of Wm. Bierly. In a recent issue of the dwelling house of Samuel Bierly he is confined. An iron chain, about 10 feet long, fastened to a post dug in the ground, fastened around the right leg, below the ankle, holds him there. His object in making a hole about 5 feet 4 inches in height. His beard is white, heavy and silky, and he must have been in days gone by a fine looking young man. At times he is as gentle as a child, talking to himself and laughing as though in the gayest company. At other times he is angry and tears to pieces everything he can lay hands on. His bed is made of oak planks spiked together, and even this has been torn recently. His food is given him on a near him, lest in his fits of passion he might hurt them. He is generally fed by Mrs. Bierly, who can do almost anything with him, although she has made many attempts to get him out of the house. His health is good; has never been sick much. He is now about sixty five years old. He was just about graduating at school when his mental faculties gave away, a victim to his study. He is thick skinned, kindly cared for by Mrs. Samuel Bierly and wife.

—We print envelopes as low as $1 per thousand. Send us your envelopes. We print letter heads, and statements as low as $1.25 per 1000, when persons file the paper. This is lower than you can get it done for in the city.

—FOR SALE.—A new Golden Tongue Organ, warranted, will be sold very low, suitable for this office.

—A citizen of Dea county, N. C., told us a day or two since that one day last fall he made a haul with his seine in the ocean and caught 102 sharks. The seine was only 280 yards long, and he says that twice as many sharks get away as are landed.—Clinton Times.

AT BELLEFONTE ON MONDAY MORNING

A man by name of Kelly, from Snowshoe, let his team stand in the mill race below the depot. The passenger train soon came along which caused the team to start in the direction of the railroad, and as the horses passed over the track the engine struck the hind part of the wagon, which was completely wrecked and the front part, hanging on to the cowhook, was dragged up to the depot. The harness was jerked clean off the horses by the collision, and the animals were so badly jangled up that it was thought they would be unfit for further use.

ON SATURDAY LAST

Gregg and deputy sheriff Munson took seven Centre county prisoners to the Western Penitentiary. Our county now has 24 boarders in that institution.

—Farmers and housekeepers get better goods for their money, at Seiler's grocery, than at any other place in the county. They are the most careful grocers as regards fresh goods and such as are really fit to go into our families. Their stock embraces a full line of customers, and they sell at cash rates to regular customers. Take your produce to Seiler's, and give you the highest price for them, and they give you the choicest goods in exchange.

—Mr. F. O. Hosterman, of Haines, has an older silver quarter, than that of Mr. Bair, of 1776, of which we recently mentioned. Mr. Hosterman's dates back to 1772, and is four years older.

—Yone From brot a potato vine to this office, 7 feet 9 inches in length. Who beats?

WAGON FOR SALE.—A large road wagon, good as new, and which can readily be cut down to a plantation wagon, is offered for sale cheap, by JOHN WOLF, Centre Mills, Pa.

—"Mars will, on September 26, be only 25,000,000 miles from the earth." How to prevent a collision on that day between Mars and the fashionable shirt-collars is the problem now agitating philosophers.

A TRAIN RUNS INTO AN IOWA STRAW.

Eighteen Persons Killed and Seventeen Wounded.

Des Moines, Iowa, August 20.—The details of a railroad accident on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad at the crossing of Four Mile creek, seven miles from this city, are beginning to arrive. All the train but the sleeping car went down into the stream. The engine is completely out of sight. Barnum's show car went down among the rest, and it is feared that all of its eleven occupants but one were killed.

A special dispatch to the State Register from the wreck says there are sixteen killed so far as known; two bodies are out of the wreck, and four dead bodies are still seen in the wreck but cannot be got out at present. The accident was occasioned by the washing out of a bridge and occurred about 4 o'clock this morning. There are seventeen persons injured.

LET OPIUM EATERS READ!

More Terrible than the Sufferings of the Slaves of the Bow!

A sorrow-faced youth with tangled black hair, bearded head, and slow, dragging step, crept out of the prison pen in the General Sessions court room yesterday, supported by two officers, and led up to the bar. He is not 30 years of age, but is prematurely old and decrepit, and, as he was almost borne up the aisle, every one looked upon him with interest and astonishment. He is called the moribund man. He has been an opium eater habitually for many years; recently the stimulants ceased to produce the desired results. Then he resorted to hypodermic injections of morphia, and began a systematic course of stealing, entering drug stores and taking away overcoats, hats, coats, indeed anything valuable that was available. His body he pawned in the nearest pawn shop. Then he spent the proceeds in morphia. He injected it by the nostrils, holes through his skin with the point of a pair of scissors, and then with a small instrument throwing in the drug. In time he increased the dose, and his body larger and deeper in color. He is covered with half healed sores, and he becomes in his last days, his body emaciated, his eye dull, and his skin a deathly hue.

NEBRASKA.

Correspondence of the Reporter.

Oak Creek empties into Oak Creek from the North-west. It is of Oak Creek Valley, which I write now. I traversed it nearly 20 miles, and almost everywhere, I have seen through different parts of the West frequently. I have seen no part of the country that offers better inducements than this. The surface soil is black, a vegetable soil, about 2 to 5 feet in depth, accumulation of decaying animal and vegetable matter for thousands of years. As a recent writer has said, "Its composition of washings from the Rocky Mountains, during the period of the formation of the Corn Belt, is rich in nitrogen and phosphorus, therefore, a natural and effective system of under-drainage." When the soil is in excess, it is held in the soil until needed for the support of vegetation, when it is drawn up by capillary action, and hence the soil is so rich, that from drought not too much moisture. What I say of this valley will apply to a considerable portion of Lancaster county, and to many other localities in the state. The reason is divided into bottom land and rolling prairie. The bottom land is almost inexhaustible fertility, and entirely free from stones and gravel. When plowed it becomes very mellow and farm crops are raised in a heavy rain. There is no hard pan nor other impervious substance, hence farmers do not fear a failure of crops from unusual wet or protracted drought. At least it would be an exception to the general rule. Deep mud was on the surface of the soil, and it is well known here. The soil of the uplands is not quite so rich, but with very little labor, produces abundant crops, and some even contend that this land is better for wheat than the bottom. In this valley, 20 miles from Lincoln, there are two families from Centre county, Pa., Messrs. D. H. Zettle, H. A. Larimer and G. W. Kerlin. The first and last named lived a few years in Illinois and moved to Nebraska in 1850.

Mr. Larimer moved here last March, Messrs. Zettle and Kerlin planted 70 acres in corn, and had about fifty acres in wheat, barley and oats. Their crop is simply enormous, beyond all expectations, and if favored thus for two or three years more, would not exchange chances with many of the older settlers who are in good circumstances. They sowed wheat in February and in less than six months they had the fruits of their labor. They have no desire to return to the East. Mr. Larimer, wife, and five children left a good home in Centre county and moved to Nebraska, never having seen the country before. His object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the crop Mr. L. has. He said, 'You can understand the reason. I have never seen such a crop as this. Tell my friends, when you return to Pennsylvania, that I found some disadvantages here but have no desire to leave this country.'" What is the object in leaving a home, with all the modern conveniences a man could wish, to battle with the disadvantages of a new country was to get land for his children. He thought, with Paul, "If any provision shall be made for my children, they shall be well provided for." He had a large tract of land, he bathed the faith and it was worse than an infidel. "I never saw a larger crop of wheat gathered from as many acres than the