An Heroic Old Soldier. There was a private soldier named Gardieff who won fame and death in an heroic manner, writes a war correspon-dent in an account of a recent engage-ment in the Eastern war. He was an old soldier, but had, not long ago, fallen into disgrace. He had received severe punishment for disorderly conduct, and on being permitted to resume his place in the ranks, the commander of his squadron had said to him: "Gardieff, you had better get yourself killed, or do something now that will make us forget your past follies. The brave fellow was seen to dash wildly into the fight; slashing right and left he killed with his commendation of the fight; slashing right and left he killed with his commendation. It is fast superseding all other remedies. Sixty capsules cure in six or eigh days. No other medicine can do this. ing right and left, he killed with his own hand four of the Turks within five minutes, when he was surrounded and literally hewn and hacked to pieces. It was ally newn and nacked to pieces, It was the intention of his regiment to give the body a ceremonial burial on the following day, but the battle prevented this from being carried out, and brave Gardieff was committed to the earth among the ordinary dead.
