After years of quiet waiting to get some light on the Psalmist's words-words at nce so exquisite in beauty but so difficult interpretation-we found in Miss Whateley's volume the long-desired explanation ; and to us, as we trust to many official reports show that the ordinary who will honor us by reading this article this "thing of beauty" will henceforth b a "joy for ever." See the flood of light she throws upon this hitherto inexplicable passage! Speaking of the flat roofs of the houses in the East, she says : "They are ually in a state of great litter.
