horse has if anything more and better action than Conkling. It is more than probable that had Dexter been kept on the track he would have beaten what is now his best time, but his owner, Mr. Robert Bonner, preferred to keep the famous trotter for his own private use eek to make him a paying rather than peculation by allowing him to continue ley: In the Oxford edition we have the s turi career. Dexter was trained at Ins turl caregr. Dexter was trained at the Fashioneourse, by Hiram Woodruft, and his best, time was 2:16, which woodruft, and at best, time was 2:16, which was made when the trotted against Ethan Allen and rinning mate. This time did not go on theord because Dexter was beaten by Allen and mate. A horse with a history in some particulars like that of Barns was Flora Temple. The mare was thought mothing of in her cover was thought nothing of in her early youth, and was at one time the property of a butcher who either bought or sold her for less than $100. When Flora Temple first made a mile in 2:40 she gained the position now occupied by. Rarus, which was being the best trotter in a land of statter. The mare FOR BURNING CRANMER. For 100 wood faggots. For 100 and a half of fir faggots. in a land of trotters. The mare never beat 2:20, but she earned more money. with the exception of Goldsmith Maid.

with the exception of Goldsmith Maid, than any horse that has yet appeared before the public as a candidate for trotting honors. Rarns may not fear any rivalry from Goldsmith Maid, as the owner of the mare, Henry Smith, of New York, has retired her from the turf, and the Maid is now at his stock farm near Trenton, where she will be used near Trenton, where she will be used for breeding purposes. On the occasion of Rarus' first appear-ind railway, and that California earth-would have spored nothing but failures had they been compelled to trot under the saddle. Like men, there are, as a horseman styles them, level-headed horsees, who seem to understand what is wanted, and light-headed horses, who would be as trisky as the Irishman's flea, were they not kept close down to their work. With this last class drivers have on the class drivers have work. With this last class drivers have more perfect control when seated in a wagon than astride the animal's back. Barus is what would be called a level-headed horse. Of the troaters who have gone before, Barus more closely resem-bles Dexter in action than any of the other great ones, and there are some must have been a dash of Hambletonian blood in the horse's father. Dexter's gait is as good as Barus', and Bonner's gait is as good as Barus', and Bonner's borse has if anything more and better
