THE OLDEST EDITOR.

Death of the Oldest Editor in the State, at Uniontown. Jacob B. Miller, Esq., the veteran editor of the "American Standard," died at his residence in Uniontown on Friday night, 6th inst., aged eighty years. He was probably the oldest editor in the State, having written the first issue of the paper in 1810.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Cincinnati, Dec. 8.—A special dispatch says Joseph Stoddard, a wife and child, were found dead at their home in Pine Plains, Allegheny county, Michigan, on Saturday. The head of the wife and the child were found lying in the bed. It is evident that Stoddard had been sitting upright in a chair with a rifle between his legs, his hand tightly grasping the muzzle of the gun. He had then turned and fired, killing himself and his child.

FOREIGN NEWS.

A BRILLIANT VICTORY FOR THE BRITISH. London, Dec. 5.—A dispatch from Lahore says the battle at Peiwar Pass, between the British forces, under command of General Roberts, and the Afghans, has ended in the complete defeat and rout of the latter. Roberts has captured Peiwar and Kotul and all the Afghans killed or wounded. Among the killed are Captains Anderson and Keightley. Roberts has captured Peiwar and Kotul and all the Afghans killed or wounded.

MASSACRE OF BULGARIANS BY THE TURKS IN THE BULGARIAN VILLAGES.

Constantinople, December 3.—The British consul at Sofia confirms the reports that the Turkish troops have massacred 250 Bulgarians of Cherevitza and that the Circassians burned twelve Bulgarian villages in the district of Brestina. Insurgent Bulgarian bands are forming all through Macedonia and Rhodope. Refugees are going into the larger districts and murdering and robbing indiscriminately. Turkish troops have been sent to the scene.

PARDO'S ASSASSINATION.

Struck down in the Senate—An Alleged Act of Retribution. Panama, Nov. 24, 1878.—A private letter, dated in Lima, Peru, which was received in this city on the morning of the 19th, confirms the assassination of Don Manuel Pardo, formerly President of Peru and President of the Senate. The details of the tragedy received are very interesting. It is stated that on entering the Senate in order to discharge his important duties he was stricken down by an assassin. The great was not altogether unexpected. During his administration he was particularly severe on those who from any cause fell under his displeasure. Several officers he banished across the Cordilleras to a settlement on the head waters of the Amazon. The soldiers who conducted them and guarded them on their arrival there had carried orders to shoot any who attempted to escape. The severity of his condemnation, the sickness of the locality and its awful loneliness drove several of the prisoners mad. They attempted to escape, and were, according to orders, shot down. It is stated that the assassin was a man named Pardo, who was shot down by the assassin. Several officers he banished across the Cordilleras to a settlement on the head waters of the Amazon. The soldiers who conducted them and guarded them on their arrival there had carried orders to shoot any who attempted to escape.

ANOTHER GREAT SMASH.

London, December 9, 1878.—The directors of the West of England and South Wales District Bank, the head office of which is at Bristol, are very fortunate in having such an easy and luxurious home. Mr. Stewart now is favored by the attention of her brother, Charles Cline, to whom she gave an adjacent house or order to have the family near at this time of age and loneliness.

A FEMALE TRAMP.

Passing Herself Off as a Man—An Accident Reveals Her Sex. Elizabeth, December 8.—Yesterday morning a tramp named Frank Watson attempted to get on a freight train on the Pittsburgh & Erie Railroad, at Nelson station, but, missing his foothold, fell, and, as a result, was badly injured. The right hip was badly mangled, and the right hip very seriously bruised. Last night the passenger train brought him to this place, and he was taken to the boarding-house of Mr. W. D. Kennedy, a physician, and placed under his care. The fact was developed that the man was a woman, but the doctor nor none of those assisting him made known her suspicions to the patient. To-day, a correspondent, hearing the report, called on the physician, and found out from her the truth. She gave her name as Frances Watson, and her place of birth Lancaster, Louisiana, and her usual place of abode Toledo, Ohio, where she has a brother and sister. She is a fully developed woman, and is charged with the fact being her head, but finally said she adopted the garb of a man because she could better secure work. She is a passably fair woman, with round, smooth-cut features, small hands, which bear the marks of hard work, and is well dressed in the old-time popular style. She has her age about thirty, though she is probably older, and beyond the fact that she has had to work for a living (her father having been killed in the army), she is reticent as to her family and past life. She will be kept here until she is able to travel again, when kind influences, it is hoped, will cause her to assume the garb best suited to her sex.
