I was with his wife and collected his money out of my pocket and he will publicly expose them and bring them to justice.

OLD RABBER'S MURDERERS.

One of the Four Men under Sentence Tells the Story of the Crime.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 1.—The Lebanon Times, that has been reviewing the commonwealth attorney's report on the case received word from Charles Drew, one of the four men under sentence of death for the crime, that he was ready to make a full and free confession. Drew was very calm and collected in his manner and several times expressed the hope that his life might at least be spared, but when told there was no hope for him he appeared considerably moved. His confession was given in German and is substantially as follows:

I went to Brandy last summer, and he told me to be sure. We both felt the effect of it. He and others would make me a drink of it. When they told me to be sure. When they told me to be sure. When they told me to be sure.

SOLDIERS' REUNION.

The meeting and picnic of the Centre Co. Veterans Club at Centre Hall, Pa., on Saturday was one of the largest and best gatherings of the Club yet held. The people of the place had their houses decorated and the local committee built three handsome arches over the street. In the woods adjacent to the arches were stands and tables, for the occasion. An eloquent address of welcome was delivered by Rev. Yutz of that place, and responded to by Gen. Beaver, when an adjournment was announced to partake of the good things prepared by the people of Pleasant Gap. There were no less than a dozen long tables and all filled to overflowing with all kinds of meats and cakes, pies, fruit fresh, preserved, canned, pickled, in fact to an extent to set a Continental host bill of fare completely in the shade. Along side of these beautiful tables were baskets without number, as store houses replenished the board as the good things disappeared down the throats of a crowd of 3000 men, women and children. The picnic was a grand success. The good people of the vicinity. Every one that ate there went away feeling that the ladies of Pleasant Gap and vicinity know how to cook, bake and set a table. All was from the tables of the tables, and tendered with an open-hearted hospitality that proved how handsomely the people of Pleasant Gap can do things. Gib Larimer captured the writer and handed over to him a pair of his board rags. After dinner, there were addresses by Gov. Curtin, Col. James Gilliland, pension agent Allen and Gen. Beaver. The officers for next year are Gen. Beaver, President, Lieut. Gov. M. Boal, V. President, D. K. Keiser, and Capt. Austin Curtin, Treasurer. Unservice was fixed upon for the next meeting. Gen. Beaver in his remarks announced that the Club intended to raise funds for the erection of a lasting monument to the soldiers of the war. He said that the Club had a list of 100 names of every thing worn and carried by the soldier in the war—uniforms, gun, sabers, flags, pistols, etc., and we would suggest also a case of hard-wood. Four brass bands were present, viz: Zion Centre Hall, Pleasant Gap and Pine Grove. Good order prevailed throughout and all seemed to share in the enjoyments. The widow of John Ruhl, of Miles town, died at Lock Haven, on Saturday. Her husband preceded her about three weeks.

DESTRUCTIVE STORM.

Danville, N. J., Sept. 8.—A terrific shower of hail and rain accompanied by wind, thunder and lightning, swept over this city last night before midnight. The hail fell for ten minutes, many of the stones being as large as golf balls. Great damage has been done to the orchards, the buckwheat is flattened to the ground, and a large number of trees and several outbuildings were blown down and blown in every direction. The storm came from the southwest and passed on to the northeast.

RUBENSBURG AND ENVIRONS.

Delightful shower of Sunday night. Seeding over, next folder cutting. Walker twp. was well represented at the Veterans picnic, also many citizens present.

A Boy Kills his Mother, his Aunt and His Cousin, and Commits Suicide.

Cincinnati, Sept. 3, 1879. A tragedy was brought to the public notice at the quiet little village of Waynesville, in Warren county, a mile or more west of the Little Miami Railroad. The tragedy which was discovered only yesterday, though it must have taken place more than a week ago, was the murder of two women, the mother and the twelve year old daughter of one of them, by the eighteen year old son of the other. The homicidal maniacs a week after, while returning to the scene of his crime after a visit to Cincinnati. He had been living in a cottage at Waynesville, in the house of a widow by the name of Mrs. Anderson, from whom she had been divorced. He had been employed in a printing office in the village, was the son of the proprietor of the house, and three weeks ago Mr. Weeks a resident of that city and sister of Mrs. Anderson, was called to visit her sister, Mr. Weeks' daughter named Myrtle, being near the streets but seldom, but still during the stay of this sister and daughter they were out of their usual.

DEATH.

On Tuesday, the 29th of August, they were seen alive for the last time. Since last Sunday people passing the house noticed a small, as of a young man, and as it kept on increasing and the house remained quiet, yesterday the town marshal broke open the door and discovered the dead bodies of the two women and the little girl lying in an advanced stage of decomposition. Mrs. Anderson's skull had been crushed in, apparently with a blow from a hatchet, and her body was found lying under the bed with her face turned away by the razor. Mrs. Anderson's throat had been cut while she was lying on the bed and the little girl had been killed by a blow on the forehead while lying on a chair in the room where the step. The house was in the utmost disorder, blood being smeared over the beds and floor. It should be noted that the bodies were evidently since the commission of the crime, in which to the mother, the daughter and the aunt and cousin of the boy.
