For some five or six years past, says the St. Louis Republican, small quantities of camel's hair have been shipped to this country to seek a market, and it has been utilized in several ways, but not to such an extent as has been usually imagined. Though popular to a certain extent, the use of camel's hair in the United States has been quite limited; but an effort is now making to import it in larger quantities, and to find new uses for it. The importations heretofore through Russia have been expensive, but recently large quantities have been obtained from China, and recently the first invoice, consisting of one ton, started from St. Louis overland. started from St. Louis overland. Occasionally small lots have arrived from China in sailing vessels around Cape Horn; but the trade in this way has been so insignificant that no notice has been taken of it, and the chief supply has, up to the present, been had by way of Europe. Now, however, it is found that the direct trade with China is profitable, and every port will be made to foster it. Since the first of the year the arrivals of camel's hair from all sources have been much larger than ever before, and as the thread is thought well of, some new uses will be found for it.
