

The Centre Reporter.
SUPPLEMENT.

Centre Hall, Pa., May 12, 1881.

—If you want to get hardware at reasonable prices, call on Wilson & McFarlane, Bellefonte, and you will find that they sell at prices that are hard to beat.

The window in a dentist's office came down and caught a cat by the tail while he was out, and fourteen people who would have waited for his return, on going up the stairs and hearing the cat's voice, decided to go home and stand the pain of the tooth-ache.

They were playing a game they call euchre. She held both bowlers and the king, and two aces of other suit, but she was a novice at the game. A young man who was teaching her, looked at the cards, and warmly exclaimed, "What a lovely hand!" she looked at him straight in the eyes, and murmured, "You may have it if you want it." All the rest of the evening he considered if he was the victim of a leap year croquet.

—During the past two weeks Dinges has been kept so busy selling goods that he has had no time to write an advertisement, but he would suit like to inform all that a better stock of goods at the same prices cannot be found in the county.

Several specimens of fossil wood and lignite have been found at a depth of 191 feet below the surface in boring an artesian well at Galveston, Texas. Above these were fifty-five feet of quicksand and 135 feet of solid blue clay. The contractor also asserts that a considerable quantity of bones and shells have been drawn out of the well, from what depth is not stated.

Cheerful people are impervious to the hurts and stings of daily life. Nothing takes their happiness from them. There are some persons who spend their lives in this world as they would spend them if shut up in a dungeon. Everything is made gloomy and forbidding. They go mourning and complaining from day to day that they have so little, and are constantly anxious lest what little they have should escape out of their hands. They look always upon the dark side, and can never enjoy the good that is present for the evil that is to come. The industrious bee does not complain that there are so many poisonous flowers and thorny branches in his road, but buzzes on, selecting the honey where he can find it, and passing quietly by where it is not. There is enough in this world to complain about and find fault with, if men have the disposition. We often travel on a hard and uneven road; but with a cheerful spirit we may walk therein with comfort and come to the end of our journey in peace.

—It's just got to be so that no young gent is invited to a wedding unless he is dressed in one of the genteel suits sold at the Philad. Branch, which make you look neat, spry and genteel. A nice suit, mind you, young lark, can be bought at the Philad. Branch for a trifle, and you get a good article too, warranted to be as represented. Lewins was never known to go back on his word. He is too honest to take the advantage of any one.

Bringing Drowned Bees to Life.

A lady in Providence relates the following story: Her father once brought home a molasses hogshead to be used as a water tank. On washing day her mother said: "Let's throw the soda into it to soak the molasses from the bottom." The instant she had done so, she exclaimed, "Oh! I have drowned hundreds of our neighbor's bees." The hogshead was black with bees that were busily appropriating the sweet from what they must have considered an enormous blossom. The good lady made haste with her skimmer to skim the bees from the top of the water and spread them on a board in the sunshine, but they seemed drowned and nearly dead, and she was very sorry.

The bees that were around the hogshead had flung away at the dash of the water, but in a few minutes they returned, accompanied by scores of others. Then began a curious work. They immediately went to work on the unfortunate bees, turning them over and working on them constantly with their heads, feet and antennae. The result of their busy labors was that one after another gave signs of life, stretching the limbs and wings, crawled about and dried itself in the sun, and flew away. The lady said there was a half-pint at first, and that there remained only a dozen hopeless cases beyond the humane efforts of their brothers.

Do You Know

why Cleve Dinges can sell goods so cheap? If not we will tell you.

- 1st. He is at very small expense, as everyone knows.
 - 2nd. He need not make large profits to meet expenses, as his trade is increasing so rapidly that he can afford to mark away down and still come out all right in the end.
 - 4th. He is fortunate in buying the right goods at the right price.
- We would recommend him and his store to our readers.

even the man in the Moon. The PHILA. BRANCH never was beat, never will be beat and never can be beat for the Cheapest Clothing offered in or outside of Centre County.

All that is said here is meant. Go and See, and carry the news to your neighbor that Money can Positively be saved at the PHILA. BRANCH.

The Galveston (Texas) News says: "That immense bodies of fresh water underlie a large portion of Texas is well known. Occasionally, some portions of it find vent in rivers—like the San Marcos, San Antonio, and others—which burst forth in full volume, and unlike most rivers, are larger at their heads than their mouths."

—Don't you want a linen duster for about half price? Go to Lewins, he's got 'em, all styles and 25 per cent. less than elsewhere in America or any other kingdom. Now is the time to wear a duster, and just now the time to get one cheap—go before it is too late.

I open the Spring Campaign with a complete stock in every Department I have goods for all and at prices that I am positive cannot but give entire satisfaction. Having been to the city the past week and bought goods very low I can afford to give my numerous customers the benefit, therefore can safely say that my prices cannot be beat anywhere. All I ask to convince is a trial.

Respectfully,
Clevan Dinges.
