An extreme drought is the cause of great anxiety among the population of the district of Orenburg, in Russia. The crops have failed for three successive years, and the danger that is now impending seems to stifle all hope. The eople form processions, with images of the saints, and march about the telds. A dry west wind is blowing without intermission, and not a cloud appears in the sky. This is accompanied by an unusual high temperature. As if this was not bad enough, the embryo of a locust that last year cause been found in large numbers about the

They seem to have a very summary way of vindicating an author's rights in China. According to Dr. J. M. Magowan there is no special provision in the penal code on the subject of literary property, which is placed on the same footing as any other possession. A person printing and selling the works of an author, without his permission, is liable to a punishment of 100 blows and three years' deportation. If he has stopped short at printing, and has not begun to sell, the penalty is fifty blows, together with the forfeiture of the books and blocks from which they are printed. The rights of an author descend in perpetuity to his heirs and assigns.

In Kansas the prohibitory law forbids the sale of intoxicating liquors, and provides that "all liquors or mixtures thereof by whatever name called that will produce intoxication shall be considered and held to be intoxicating liquors within the meaning of this act." A druggist was indicted under the law for selling bay rum, tincture of gentian compound and other mixtures. The court decided that these articles were within the act so far that a special permit was necessary to authorize their sale. But the act vests the power to grant such permits in the judge of the probate court; and Judge Crozier holds that such an extension of the jurisdiction of that court is unconstitutional.

considerably short of that of last year. The acreage sown to spring wheat fell coff to eighty-six per cent. of that of 1880, by reason, no doubt, of the low prices of last fall and winter, and the winter wheat yield is likely to be seriously reduced by weevil in the West and cold weather in California. An increase of one per cent, in the area cultivated to cotton is reported, but this is likely to be more than counterbalanced by the poor condition of the crop. The Nev York Tribune says that speculators who are calculating on a prolongation of the conditions which made the past year one of such great prosperity, must revise their estimates in one respect, for our export trade in grain and cotton will show a marked decline.

Speaking of the coming cotton exposition at Atlanta, the Detroit Free Press says, editorially: There is interesting evidence of the advancement which the South is making in the determination to hold an "International Cottan".

evidence of the advancement which the South is making in the determination to hold an "International Cotton Expoition" at Atlanta, Georgia, beginning open until the end of December. Although the exposition, being the first world's fair ever held in the South, which forms the nucleus of the widest range of Southern industry, the prospectus shows that it is not by any means to be limited to cotton or to the industries connected therewith. The schednle of articles, whereof exhibition is invited, covers a wide range, classified in six departments, forty-one groups and two hundred and twenty-two classes. The buildings now in process of erection are on an ample scale, the principal one being a model cotton mill. The South cannot fail to profit largely by an enterprise which will show so much more satisfactorily and conclusively than re statement what she is really capable of and actually doing.

Referring to the large number of cases of deaths by lightning this season, the New York Herald says: "The scientists will probably find some plausible explanation of the violence of these electric disturbances. They will talk learnedly of possible troubles within the earth's own crust, of sun spots and meddlesome comets; but not sions that have been roused in nervous minds by electricity's many recent va-garies. The standard, beautiful, and incomparably cheap books of the Literary Revolution are in demand far beyond our resources for manufacturing them. We must manufacture and sell quickly immense editions of these books in order that we may afford the low prices, and that we may transfer our capital to the manufacture and sale of still books for which we are having most urgent demands. If, therefore, you want any of the books named below, order them promptly, as we shall after a few days cease to manufacture those editions, and they will then not be obtainable in the market.
