—Anything in the line of dry goods, groceries, notions, queensware, fancy articles, etc., always on hand at Dinges', boss store, and at prices low as Bellefonte or Lewistown. He receives new goods every week, and thus manages to keep up with the styles.

—Our old friend John Hinebach, of the Loop, shot a bald eagle, the other day, measuring 5 feet 6 inches, from tip to tip. The eagle was distant about 60 yards. Mr. Hinebach is now 81 years old, yet eagles should know better than to get too close to him.

Since they have gained the reputation of doing an honest business, selling genuine goods at a fair price, and making good everything they warrant, the people make it their favorite place for boots and shoes, and always find the best and largest stock there.

—On last Saturday afternoon as Mrs. Wolf, mother of Jno. Wolf near Centre Mills, and a daughter of Mr. Wolf, were near their home on their return from a visit to Union county, their horse made a sudden start by which both the ladies were thrown out over the back part of the buggy, their heads striking the hard ground, and severely injuring both, especially the old lady, who for over a day seemed in a critical condition but we are pleased to learn is now out of danger.

—Every housekeeper should have concern for the comfort and health of such as abide under his roof and are seated at his board. Pure and healthy table comforts preserve health and prolong life, and shorten doctor bills—any physician will tell you this. These important benefits can be secured by all housekeepers in Centre county by purchasing their groceries of Sechler & Co. where they keep none but what are fresh, pure and wholesome. These are important facts that should not be overlooked.

There is more strength restoring power in a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic than in a bushel of malt or a gallon of milk. This explains why invalids find it such a wonderful invigorant for mind and body. See other column.

—The Cl. Democrat says, after lying idle over twenty-three years the Mill Hall furnace was started on Monday afternoon last. A large assemblage witnessed the operation. After the work of filling the furnace with wood, coke, iron ore, limestone, &c., had been finished, the manager, Capt. Austin Curtin, poured some kerosene in the opening that carries the melted iron from the furnace, and then the fuel was ready for the match.

The ores to be used are from McVeytown, Loveville, Agricultural college and Bellefonte, the coke is from Snow Shoe, and the limestone from Cedar Springs, and good iron is predicted.

—Mr. J. R. M'Clellan threshed with his Canton thresher, the crop of J. Henry Keller, in four days, consisting of wheat, rye and barley—2314 bushels. In one day 686 bushels of wheat were threshed in good condition. Mr. K. recommends the machine highly.

INTERNATIONAL LESSONS.

OCTOBER 16.—THE BURNT-OFFERING.

GOLDEN TEXT:—"So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many."—Heb. ix. 28.

Lev. 1, 1-14.

Verses 1-9.—The Lord called unto Moses—as he had done before on a memorable occasion (Ex. iii. 4.) But now, instead of from the wayside bush, it was from the costly and beautiful "dwelling-place" in which Jehovah had promised to manifest himself to his people. Speak unto the children of Israel—it was something, not for the priests alone, but for all the people, since the command refers to a sacrifice which any one might present of his own accord. If any man of you bring an offering—as it is taken for granted will be done. The offering of sacrifices in the worship of God began but a short time after the fall (Gen. iv 4.) The patriarchs, from Noah to Israel, constantly resorted to them, not only as an expression of gratitude, but as an accompaniment, acceptable to Jehovah, of their supplications. Probably they were intermitted by the Israelites during the sojourn in Egypt, as seems to be implied in Moses' request to Pharaoh (Ex. iii. 18; v. 1.) But now, in connection with the more formal and settled Tabernacle service, full directions are given for the observance of the various forms of offerings, and their significance is more clearly defined. Our Lesson has to do with the voluntary burnt-offering, the ground thought of which would seem to have been the complete surrender of self, body and soul, to the Creator and Ruler of all. Of your cattle, even of the herd, and of the flock—it must be some thing of value to the one who presented the offering; not a wild creature of the field or wood, but a useful domestic animal. Such an offering, also, being more easily obtained among an agricultural people, there would be no reasonable excuse for neglecting to make it. God asks his children to devote to his service what they have, not what they have not. A male without blemish—a perfect gift was requir ed in every case. A diseased, deformed, crippled, useless animal would not answer. An offering to the Lord must be of the best. At the door—at the entrance to the court of the Tabernacle. And he shall put his hand—in token that the beast is slain in his stead. Though the burnt-offering was generally preceded by a sin-offering, there was still, in the act of laying the hand upon the head of the animal, a recognition of man's unworthiness in God's sight on account of sin, and the need of forgiveness. Accepted for him—in his stead, and as a worthy offering, made according to the law. An atonement—reconciliation to God through the accepted offering. And he shall kill the bullock—this was done by the man himself, on the north side of the brazen alter. The priests . . . shall bring the blood, and sprinkle, &c.—the throat was cut with a knife, and the blood was caught in a bowl and poured upon the alter in such a manner that it surrounded the fire, and then ran off by a channel in one corner. See Lev. xvii. 11; Heb. ix. 22; 1 Pet. i. 2. The slaying of the bullock, the sprinkling of the blood, the entire consumption of the animal by fire upon the alter all point significantly to Christ, the great atoning sacrifice, slain once for all on Calvary (Heb. ix. 10.) Read the GOLDEN TEXT, and the chapter from which it is taken. A sweet savor unto the Lord—see Gen. viii. 21; 2 Cor. ii. 15; Eph. v. 2.

Verses 10-14.—If his offering be of the flocks—in this case the same strictness was to be observed in selecting the animal to present to Jehovah, and in the ceremonial attending the sacrifice, as in that of the bullock. This less costly offering was permitted to those who were unable to provide a bullock. If the burnt sacrifice . . . be of fowls—the offering of the poorest class. None were excluded from making the free-will offering, or any other, on account of poverty. The humblest could bring a pair of turtle doves or two young pigeons. That was the simple offering the lowly parents of Jesus brought to the Temple (Luv. xii. 8; Luke ii. 24.) The remaining verses of the chapter tell how this offering was to be made. And now let this lesson of the burt-offering speak plainly to the scholars of Jesus, whose blood has obtained eternal redemption for all who believe on his name.

VARIOUS CAUSES—

Advancing years, care, sickness, disappointments, and hereditary predisposition—all operate to turn the hair gray, and either of them inclines it to shed prematurely. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR will restore faded or gray, light or red hair to a rich brown or deep black, as may be desired. It softens and cleanses the scalp, giving it a healthy action. It removes and cures dandruff and humors. By its use falling hair is checked, and a new growth will be produced in most cases where the follicles are not destroyed or the glands decayed. Its effects are beautifully shown on brashy, weak or sickly hair, on which a few applications will produce the gloss and freshness of youth. Harmless and sure in its operation, it is incomparable as a dressing, and is especially valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts It contains neither oil nor dye, and will not stain or color white cambric, yet it lasts long on the hair, and keeps it fresh and vigorous.

OUR CANDIDATE.

A Brief Sketch of Hon. Orange Noble, the Democratic Candidate for State Treasurer.

The following sketch of Hon. Orange Noble, the Democratic candidate for Treasurer, nominated at the State convention held in Williamsport, Wednesday, Sept. 28th, is taken from the Erie Observer. Few men have a better record of honorable business, sterling integrity, and he is preeminently a self-made man—one of the people:

"The Observer has not often referred to the Democratic candidate for Assembly in this city, the Hon. Orange Noble, but we feel as much interest in his success as that of any other candidate. It has always seemed to us that the people of Erie would elect Mr. Noble by an overwhelming majority, in the city, and even by a party vote he should be triumphantly elected.

There are many reasons why Mr. Noble should be elected. He did not seek the office, but was nominated by the Democrats, because he is a worthy man and is regarded as a strong candidate. The following sketch published some time ago in the Herald, contains that which should be borne in mind by Erie people in making up their tickets on election day:

Mr. Noble came to our city in May, 1864, having first purchased of Mr. Gray the elegant residence since occupied by his family. Largely through his influence a colony of wealthy oil men selected Erie as their home at the same time, among whom may be named G. T. Churchill, L. L. Lamb, L. H. Hall, Rev. L. Reed, and Horace Noble, all of whom have proven good and progressive citizens. Up to that date Erie had been derisively known as the "sleepy borough," and her rapid advance since then has unquestionably been due to a very great extent to the impulse given by this colony from the oil regions.

The Keystone National Bank, of which Mr. Noble has been from the first president and principal stock holder, was started in December, 1864, and it will not be disputed that this institution, by its liberality and sound management, has been of incalculable value to the city. When the bank was opened, Erie county money was at a discount of ten to fifteen per cent. Every business man had large amounts on hand which he was obliged to keep stored in his safe or sell at a disastrous shave and mechanics and others who happened to get hold of the notes in pay for their work had to get rid of it in the best way they could at a fearful sacrifice. Mr. Noble, with his usual sympathy for the masses, resolved to make the money as good as greenbacks. The bank was prohibited by its charter from taking any action in the case, but Mr. Noble, making it the medium of his operations, risked his private fortune in the effort to the extent of $100,000. By this step our county money was made to pass as freely as United States currency, and the people of the city and county were saved incalculable loss and annoyance.

In 1865 Mr. Noble bought out the Bay State Iron Works, of which he still owns one-half This concern has been steadily operated, in hard times as well as good, and has given employment to many worthy mechanics. Its capital is $1[illegible]0,000, and it has an average of a hundred and thirty employes.

The Noble block was built in 187[illegible], at a cost of $135,000, and the Keystone Bank building at a cost of $40,000, the same year, the former wholly by Mr. Noble, and the latter by his inspiration.

In 1867, in company with Messrs. McCarter, Brown and Shannon, he erected the first elevator at our harbor, which was the inception of the immense grain trade which now centres here. He is the owner of one-third of the blast furnace, erected in 1869, at a total cost of over $100,000 and was a leading stockholder in the rolling mill up to the time of its financial disaster. He was also an original stockholder of the Burdett Organ Factory, of the Dime Savings Bank and Second National Bank, of the wood-pulp mill, and of several minor enterprises which are unnecessary to name.

During the last year he purchased the machinery of the Whitney Sewing Machine company of Patterson, N. J., which has been removed to our city, and recently put into operation, with the expectation of doing a prosperous business and giving employment to a large force of mechanics.

Altogether the various institutions with which Mr. Noble is connected furnishes work to between four and five hundred men, and bread to fully two thousand people.

When the enlargement of the canal was under discussion, Mr. Noble was one of a party organized to purchase it and continue it in operation with an increased capacity. In this they were thwarted by the unexpected sale of the improvement, and but for that it would be open to-day and affording the means of support to hundreds of our citizens. He has also been the earnest advocate of a railroad to the oil and coal regions, has twice subscribed liberally towards building one, and has not yet abandoned the hope of an ultimate independent connection by rail with the rich markets of the interior. Had Mr. Noble been allowed to carry out his plans for enlarging the trade of Erie, our population would be double and our importance as a business centre would be increased threefold.

What other citizen of Erie has done more in proportion to his means for its benefit—what one has done as much? Would it not be the depth of ingratitude for the business men, the mechanics, the property owners of the city to refuse him their votes for any position to which he might be nominated? In the case of such a man, party and creed should be forgotten, and the whole community should be eager to show that they appreciate his services.

Mr. Noble is extensively engaged in the oil business in the Bradford region, being the owner of more than thirty producing wells, the iron work of which was entirely purchased of Erie manufacturers, He was a generous contributor to the city library, when it was established, has given bounteously to our churches and charitable institutions, and his purse always open to every good object.

These facts and many more that might be added of a similar nature show the extent to which Erie is indebted to Mr. Noble, and the claims he has upon the support of our people of all parties."

PROBABLE MURDER AT LOCK HAVEN.

Lock Haven, Oct. 9.—A mysterious death occurred here at 10 30 o'clock last night. Jonas Zindle is the proprietor of the Farmers' hotel on Church street. Samuel Blair, who was under the influence of liquor, had been quarreling in the bar-room and Zindle walked him outside. Instantly there was a heavy thud heard on the pavement. Zindle's wife ran out and found her husband lying on the street. Blair was on his hands and knees, but got up and ran off. Mrs. Zindle called for help, and it was then found that Zindle was dead, the right side of his face being terribly bruised. Blair was arrested at his home at midnight.

A MURDEROUS PROCEEDING IN A BALTIMORE SAVING BANK IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

Baltimore, October 5.—This morning two thieves entered the building of the South Baltimore permanent association on Light street, and while one held a pistol to the head of the clerk in charge, H. P Orem, the other felled him with a billy. The thieves then robbed the safe, securing $300 in money and $1,000 in checks, One of the thieves was caught and $140 in money recovered. The captured man gave the name of Walter H. Campbell.

The Supreme Court having affirmed the verdict of the Snyder County Court in the case of the Kintzler family murderers, they will have to pay the penalty of their crime upon the gallows. The Governor will now have to fix a time for their execution.

A TERRIBLE PLAGUE.

New York, Oct. 7.—A special from Kansas City, Mo., says a terrible plague has broken out near Waldon, Platte Co. Eleven persons have died in five days, and none of the victims affected give signs of recovery. The bodies of the sufferers are covered with black eruptions. After death the flesh falls from their bones, so that the bodies cannot be lifted into the coffins without falling to pieces.

BOGUS CERTIFICATES.

It is no vile drugged stuff, pretended to be made of wonderful foreign roots, barks, &c., and puffed up by long bogus certificates of pretended miraculous cures, but a simple, pure, effective medicine, made of well known valuable remedies, that furnishes its own certificates by its cures. We refer to Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See another column.—Republican.
