The Centre Reporter. SUPPLEMENT.

Centre Hall, Pa., Thurs. Oct. 27, 1881.

A water spout which passed over the district of Milah, Algeria, killed seventy-five persons.

The election is at hand—the man that wins and makes most money is the that buys his clothing at the Philad.
Branch. Try it.

For applying to wounds made by removing large limbs in pruning fruit trees nothing is better, says the New-England Farmer, than gum shellac dissolved in alcohol to the consistency of paint. This should be kept in a bottle, tightly corked when not in use and applied with an old brush.

Liberia, according to a letter from Bishop Penick, of the episcopal church, is in a dreadful condition. The whole of Cape Mount district is involved in war. The savages are destroying farms and towns.
The people are starving, and the greatest distress prevails. "Neither pen nor words," he says, "can describe the horrors of the case. Hundreds are dying of starvation. Food cannot be had. Cassads and potatoes are stolen from the fields, leaving the owner perish with hunger.
Men drop dead. Robbery is the rule; no property is safe." He says that a ship-load of rice is a pressing necessity.

A LADIE'S PET FISH.

[Mariboro (Mass.) Union-Journal.] There lives in Sandwich, Mass., on the borders of one of the most charming lakes in America, Mrs. F. H. Burgess. It has been her custom once or twice a day for quite a period to feed the fish of this lake, and we were favored with an invitation to witness this novel feat. She first splashed the water with her hand, when in a moment there may be seen approaching from every direction hundreds of large shiners, then eels, varying in size from one to about three feet in length, may be seen cautiously approaching.
Next turtles appear on the surface, ten, twenty and thirty feet away their necks stretched apparently to see whether it is friend or foe who is disturbing the waters.
In less than three minutes these various species had collected before her, and as she commenced to feed the water was fairly alive with them. They take bread directly from her hands, and turtles would allow her to take them entirely out of the water, and while she held them in one hand they would eat with the greatest voracity from the other. But the eels amuse us the most. There was one she called Ruin, measuring about three feet in length, that repeatedly came to the surface, and would glide back and forth through her hands, and several times she lifted him partially out of the water, but he was careful to keep his head under.
He seemed to feel that she would take no undue liberties with him so long as his head was in its natural element, but the moment he saw daylight he would dart back as only an eel could. Another small one about a foot in length, seemed to be particularly fond of her caresses and could be handled about as she pleased, it being understood that he was to remain under water, though.
