At a recent meeting of the land league in Cork it was decided to pursue the agitation.

Dr. Kenny, a member of the executive of the land league, and well known as the medical attendant of several of the imprisoned suspects, has been arrested and conveyed to Kilmanham jail, Dublin. Miss Hohnett, of Balivdehob, was also arrested for persisting in exhibiting a copy of the "No rent" manifesto in a window of her house, and refusing to remove it when requested to do so by the police. Her father, who is also a prominent member of the land league, had been previously arrested and the coercion act, and is now in prison.

The Dublin Freeman's J. usual publishes a portion of an interview with Mr. Parnell, who says he thinks the farmers will to a great extent adopt the "No rent" manifesto. One-half of the Irish farmers do not hope for any benefit from the land act. Small tenants who are in debt to shopkeepers, he says, would obtain considerable reduction, but they would be compelled to sell their new interests in order to pay their arrears of debt. If the farmers are in debt to shopkeepers, he says, would obtain considerable reduction, but they would be compelled to sell their new interests in order to pay their arrears of debt. If the farmers stand firm for a year they will bring the government and landlords to their knees. The fight is a question of money and courage.

Mr. Wall, editor of the Roscommon Heroid and a member of the land league, has been arrested and todged in Galway jail.

A romance comes from the mountains of Switzerland. It has been half a century on its way, and takes this shape now it has got here: That in a Swiss village a young guide, on his way back from his wedding, met a party of tourists who were looking for a guide to explore a glacier. The young bridegroom left his bride at the chalet door, as they returned from the church, and went as he was, in his gay peasant wedding clothes, the bride promising to keep a light in his window until he should reion was of widowed wife, true to her vows, having for Conlearned that in the course of fifty years the glacier would emerge from the ravine, waited all these years, and in August last, at the mouth of the ravine, discovered her lost husband, who had been frozen in the ice fifty years before, on his wedding day. She, an old woman, looked once again on the marble face of her youthful husband, and conducted his body to the village church, where the funeral service was

Brace Up:
This is the sort of advice we would give to a that the testimony taken before the commission be also transmitted to the Senate. He put that suggestion in the form of an amendment. After further discussion Mr. Farley's amendment was rejected—yeas 21, nays 23, a party vote, and Mr. Davis, of Illinois, voting with the Republicans. Mr. Thurman's resolution was then adopted. Mr. Merberson presented the petition of certain members of the New York legislature protesting against the right of Messra. Miller and Lapham to represent that State in the United States Senate. Referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

The president pro tem laid before the Senate a communication from the secretary of the treasury transmitting a copy of the report of James F. Meline to the treasury department, as directed by a resolution of the Senate recently adopted. The communication was laid upon the table and ordered to be printed. ... Upon motion of Mr. Edmunds, Chief Clerk Shober was appointed acting secretary of the Senate was appointed acting secretary
