

The Centre Reporter. 1881 WINTER GOODS 1881
SUPPLEMENT.

Centre Hall, Pa., Th'rs. Dec. 8, '81

—A horse ran off the other day, upset the wagon, spilled out the driver, and sent out about a dozen packages along the road. Every one of the packages contained clothing from the Philad. Branch. The man when he got up said even if his wagon was damaged it was more than made up by the money saved in the clothing he bought of Lewins for his family. Keyrect—a man can talk good sense even if he is spilled out of a wagon.

ANOTHER HORSE DISTEMPER.

A new and rather serious distemper has been prevailing among horses in New York. It appears in the latter part of October, coming from the West, and spreads rapidly. Work horses have suffered more than carriage horses; those of certain street car lines most severely. At this writing nearly quarter of the horses of the Fourth Avenue company are in hospital. The new horses brought in from the country to replace those lost at the late burning of the company's stables were the first to be prostrated, and their symptoms are more severe than in horses accustomed to the work and the climate.

Dr. Samuel Whelpley, the surgeon in charge of the Fourth Avenue horses, describes the symptoms as follows:

The eyes matterate, the nose discharges profusely, the legs swell to abnormal proportions, and every organ seems to be affected. Unless treated in time it will develop into pneumonia. It is very debilitating, and renders the animal attacked so weak that it can hardly stand. Dr. Whelpley said that he heard a name applied to it, but he regarded it as a form of typhoid pneumonia. Horses have died within 16 hours after exhibiting the first symptoms. Some animals recover in a few days, and others not in a week. In their stalls the horses stand in a position to favor their weakening condition and keep their heads down. They eat very little and apparently have no appetite. Frequently cases are attended with coughing and strangling. The only remedy for the disease appears to be relief from work, good care, and free use of stimulants and tonics. If taken in time, veterinary surgeons say, no case need prove fatal, but owners and drivers do not generally know the serious consequences, and so neglect the animals too long.—Sc. Am.

—Hello there, Sam, where are you going to in such a hurry? Can't stop to tell; only am bound for Dingess' store, headquarters for Christmas goods, and they all say they sell 'em so cheap. I want to save money too and must hurry up. Good bye, and do likewise. Gip, go 'lang Barney.

DESPERATE FIGHT WITH RATS.

Erie, Pa., November 30—George Furness, aged nine, being accidentally locked in school, was attacked with a swarm of rats. The boy fought desperately for some time, and when discovered was found lying senseless, with a swarm of rodents tearing at him. He will live, but the fright has probably dethroned his reason.
