

THE CENTRE REPORTER.
PUBLISHED WEEKLY.
CENTRE HALL, PA., Feb. 2, 1882.

Gov. Hoyt denies that he intends to call an extra session of the legislature.
Gutman having been found guilty, makes one republican candidate less for the presidency in 1884.

We have the Philadelphia Times Almanac for 1882, and find it a valuable book for reference. Its political statistics are complete, and its record of conventions and late acts of general interest make it a useful handbook. 15 cents per copy—free to all subscribers of the Times.

Riddleberger says when he gets to the seats if neither the democratic or republican principles suited him, he would build up a little party of his own. Riddleberger party would certainly be a novelty, and if put in a cage with stuffed animals, might draw a crowd of big and little boys anywhere.

THE THREE'S.
What's troubling the republican party now are the three B's—Butler, Beaver and the Bosses. Butler is making it hot for Beaver and bids fair to get the Bosses to favor him (Butler) for governor. Then the Bosses do not care much for Beaver and it is both of them who will throw him overboard with safety. Thus come the people who hate the Bosses. Old Nick seems to believe in the radical B's here generally.

Farmer Butler, the present state treasurer, has stepped into Beaver's way for governor, and is making quite a stir. The Bosses had better look after Butler if they are deep in favor of Beaver. After giving the General such a good start it is not right to whittle down Beaver on the road, and let on somebody else pulled the bell-ropes. Let Beaver have a chance now, since you bosses have tickled him with the idea that he is the only man to win with. The Republican fears that his surmises about the bosses fooling Gen. Beaver, are thus early found to have been well grounded.

Governor Hoyt on Tuesday last week issued warrants for the hanging on Friday, March 24, of Jonathan Meyer, of Centre county, John A. Needing, of Clearfield; Frank Small, Allegheny; Henry and Frank Rumberger, Dauphin; and John Cook, York. The murders for which Meyer and Small are to be hanged were committed four and three years ago respectively. Meyer took part in the murder of an old man named King, and Needing was convicted of the killing of Mr. Kintler. A former trial for the murder of the woman's husband resulted in an acquittal. Coy killed Emily Myers because she would not marry him. The case of Small was held under advisement nearly two years by the Board of Pardons because of a doubt of his guilt, but no facts of his justification having come to light the Board at its last meeting decided not to stay any longer the execution of the death penalty.

A TRINITY FOR BEAVER.
As Little's paper says, "About a month after the Chicago convention the suggestion to have a medal struck to commemorate the steady voting for the Grant administration was made by Don Cameron, and after consulting with Rosecrank, Chancy I. Filley and the order was given to J. M. Kershaw, of St. Louis, to strike 300 bronze medals. The matter was to be kept a profound secret, and Kershaw was working on the medals for several months and they are now completed and within a few days will be sent to Chancy I. Filley at Washington, who will superintend the distribution of them. The medals are perfectly round, 2 1/2 inches in diameter, 3-16 of an inch thick, and weigh nearly one penny. On the face of the medal is a profile head of General Grant, surrounded by a wreath bearing a record of the Grant ballots awarded in a circle. Inscribed in the centre of the reverse side are these words: "Commemorative of the 36 ballots of the Old Guard for Ulysses S. Grant for President, Republican National Convention, Chicago, June, 1880." Each medal is to be inscribed with the name of the member of the "Old Guard" to whom it is sent, of whom there were 113, and the remainder of the 300 will be sent to General Grant and a few other stalwart friends."

General Beaver was one of Grant's chaps at Chicago, and it is fortunate he was, for now he gets one of these 113, ornament.
To dangle from his watch chain, because he didn't have any.
This precious charm the General can wear on his travels seeking a nomination for Governor, it will be the "open sesame" to all the stalwart hearts. Blaine men may froth when they see it, but who cares, Gutman's stout made them the matter done. When the General gets to New York, wherever the General gets to, he will use it a short time on small-pox patients and see whether it has not virtue to kill the disease.

ANOTHER TRUNK LINE.
Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—At the office of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company yesterday the information was tendered newspaper reporters that the managers of that company had authorized the Reading's interest in the Jersey Shore, Pine Creek and Buffalo Railroad Company upon the payment of the amount already expended upon the line. The transfer was made on Monday, and later on the same day the annual meeting of the latter company was held at the Coudersport, Potter county, this state, and resulted in the election of the following officers: Henry Shreve, vice president, George J. Magee, vice-president, and Cornelius Vanderbit, treasurer, with the following directors: Walter Sherwood, John W. Bailey, Jerome Niles, Amos Hard, William Howell, Jr., E. G. Schaffelien, Jefferson Harrison, W. B. Vanderbit, George J. Magee, William B. Vanderbit, Augustus Schell, William K. Vanderbit and George J. Magee.

The Jersey Shore, Pine Creek and Buffalo Railroad Company will be constructed all under the direction of General George J. Magee, of New York, Mr. Vanderbit, furnishing the money and General Magee to meet the interest and the same from the revenues of the road. The connection of the Vanderbit roads with the Jersey Shore, Pine Creek and Buffalo will be effected by the following continuous lines: Geneva and Lyons Railroad, Syracuse, Geneva and Corning Railroad, and the Corning, Genesee and Antwerp Railroad. All these companies have united in an agreement to form a new trunk line from the City of Philadelphia, giving the Reading Railroad Company a western and northern outlet for anthracite coal.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes will neither go to Washington this winter nor to Europe in the spring. Mr. Hayes was satisfied with the village of Fremont, where he is a participator in debates down at the shore.

THE WILMOT MASSACRE.
HOW IT FEELS TO FREEZE.

A YOUNG LADY THROWING HERSELF IN FRONT OF AN ENGINE.
Johnston, Jan. 25.—Miss Frey, a lady whose home is in Johnston, committed suicide in Blairville, last evening, in a horrible manner. Miss Frey, who had been ill for some time back, was taking a Blairville car, a couple of days ago, and was placed upon the car. The car was in motion, and during the evening she endeavored to get off, but the car was so full of passengers that she was unable to do so. She then threw herself in front of the engine, and although the head of the engine was stopped, the car was too late to stop. The car was completely severed from the body.

Washington, January 25.—Mr. Sewell said tonight the next move in the Gutman case would be a motion for a new trial, which he expected to file on Saturday. The points on which it is to be based are: 1. That the jury was not properly sworn. 2. That the jury was not properly instructed. 3. That the jury was not properly sworn. 4. That the jury was not properly instructed. 5. That the jury was not properly sworn. 6. That the jury was not properly instructed.

THE ASSASSIN FURIOUS WHEN TOLD HE BROUGHT THE VERDICT ON HIMSELF.
Washington, January 20.—There was a rather amusing incident in the trial of Gutman yesterday afternoon. Mr. Sewell and Warden Crocker over Gutman's new address. It was arranged that for the next week no one should be permitted to interview the prisoner, and that no communication should go to him or come from him without passing through Mr. Sewell's hands. Mr. Gutman spoke of his address to Mr. Sewell at the next week, but Mr. Sewell said that he must not do so, as it would be a violation of the order. Mr. Gutman then said that he would write to Mr. Sewell, and Mr. Sewell said that he would not do so, as it would be a violation of the order.

NUMEROUS APPLICATIONS TO SEE THE HANGING OF GUTMAN.
Washington, January 27.—General Crocker has received a large number of applications to see the hanging of Gutman. He has decided to allow them, and will permit a large number of people to see the execution. The hanging will take place on Friday, March 24, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

SUGAR UNDER THE MICROSCOPE.
Professor Lillmore, of Rochester, N. Y., has analyzed a sample of sugar under a microscope, and has discovered that it is composed of small particles of sugar. He has also discovered that the particles are of different sizes, and that they are arranged in a regular pattern. This discovery is of great importance, as it will enable us to understand the nature of sugar better.

THE HORRIBLE SPECTACLE WITNESSED BY A LITTLE BENNY.

Denville, Ky., January 30.—The farm of the Wilmore, the scene of the bloody tragedy detailed in the Post, is about ten miles from here, and the house in which the murderer was committed was almost immediately located. Little Benny, a bright little fellow about ten years of age, who escaped with his brother James while the remainder of the family were being butchered, gave an account of the frightful deeds he witnessed on that awful night. He said that he was awakened by the screams of his mother, and saw his father trying to kill her with an axe. He then saw his mother being carried away by the murderer, and saw the murderer being killed by the police.
