

FOR SUNDAY REFLECTION.

Kind words are a balm to the wounded heart, food to the hungry soul.

There is a faith that saves, but there is no dogmatism that saves.—Verny.

The best hearer of the gospel is the man whose daily life experiences the truths that are spoken.

Vain-glorious men are the scorn of wise men, the admiration of fools, the idols of parasites and the slaves of their own vanities.

Learning is wealth to the poor, an honor to the rich, an aid to the young and a support and comfort to the aged.—Goldsmith

We must beware of treating Bible statements as a kind of jargon, to be run into whatever kind of moulds we think fit.—Good Com. any.

Diversity of world has divided the human race into seventy-two nations. From among all their dogmas I have selected one—Divine love.—Omar Khayyam, Persian poet, 11th century, A. C.

The water falls on all creatures; on herb, bush and tree; and each draws up to its own leaf and blossom according to its special need. So falls the rain of law on the many-hearted world.—Buddha. Hindu. 27-543 B. C.

As boys should be educated with temperance, so the first greatest lesson that should be taught them is frugality. It is by the exercise of this virtue alone that they can ever expect to be useful members of society.

It requires no little learning to be correct, no little study to be simple, and a great command of language to be plain. It is your uneducated, or at best your half-educated men who confound their audiences with great puffings of vanity and exhibitions of bombast.

There was a painful exhibition at Justice Bergen's Court, Brooklyn. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children had five miserable, drunken women, with nineteen starving, half-clad children before the Court. The children were sent to different institutions and the women were sent to the Penitentiary for six months each.
