Thanksgiving Day Proclamation. The following Thanksgiving proclamation is been issued by the President of the Unid States:

A PROCLAMATION.

In conformity with a custom, the annual observance of which is justly held in honor by this people, I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, do hereby set apart Thursday, the 30th day of November next, as a day of public thanksgiving.

The blessings demanding our gratitude are numerous and varied. For the peace and anity which subsist between this republic and all the nations of the world; for the freedom from internal discord and violence; for the increasing friendship between the different sections of the land; for the liberty, justice and constitutional government; for the astice and constitutional government; for the levotion of the people to our free institutions and their cheerful obedience to mild laws; for the constantly increasing strength of the rebublic, while extending its privileges to fellow-men who come to us; for the improved means of internal communication and the necreased facilities of intercourse with other lations; for the general prevailing health of the year; for the prosperity of all our indescries, the liberal return for the mechanic's oil, affording a market for the abundant survests of the husbandman; for the preservation of the national faith and credit; for vise and generous provision to effect the inellectual and moral education of our youth; for the influence upon the conscience of a certaining and transforming religien, and for the joys of home; for these, and for many other blessings, we should give thanks.

Wherefore, I do recommend that the day above designated be observed throughout the bountry as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, and that the people, ceasing from heir daily labors and meeting in accerdance with their several forms of worship, draw lear to the throne of Almighty Ged, effering of Him praise and gratitude for the manifold goodness which He has vouchsafed to us, and oraying that His blessings and His mersies may continve.

And I do further recommend that the day
