
 res sumicient to make ap for the difference in the wages paid here and abroad touthey impositioct, ond very duties properly timph are simply probitiontory and wbich have compensation whatever. I the refore urg apoo the representatives of the iron in erests apon the floor of the House no no to seek to raise duties, but dilugeuly Smd out overy item which cal be mad free, or upon wbich duty may be reduo d witbout injury to business, and not deceived by the outcry which proce trom iron masters who bave works locat ed in unfaverahhe pooitions, and whoe Bnal extinetion from domestic competion is only a quastion of time.
I have had to abandon guxh work yself and expect to abanilon more n.

(1)

