

The Centre Reporter.

VOLUME (OLD SERIES, XL, NEW SERIES, XVI.)

CENTRE HALL, PA., THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1883.

NO. 22.

THE CENTRE REPORTER.

FRED. KURTZ, Editor and Prop'r.

Like ex-Senator Roscoe Conkling, Governor Butler believes in a Democratic victory in the next Presidential election. The Democrats, he thinks, "have a great opportunity and can win unless they throw the chance away."

The new five cent nickel has been called in and will be no longer coined, because a few fellows have gilt them and passed them for five dollars a piece. This is a cruel government; when a fellow once in a life-time has a chance of turning five cents into five dollars, then the government steps in and interferes.

Extra precautions were taken to guard against nihilistic mischief at the coronation of the Czar. The special embassy which will represent France at the coronation of the Czar has arrived at Moscow. The windows from which a view may be had of the principal ceremony of the day of the coronation are being rented at prices ranging from 100 to 1,000 roubles each. The police require the persons hiring them to give satisfactory evidence as to their character, and will permit no one to occupy a window until proof has been furnished that they have no suspicious articles on their person. They have even forbidden the carrying of oranges into the buildings from which a view may be obtained, as they fear sham articles containing dynamite, and intended for use of bombs, may get into the houses and be used against the Czar.

Some of our exchanges in their kind feelings for J. W. Furey, think he should be appointed associate judge. We would be glad to call him Judge too.

The Lock Haven Journal says: In conversation with Senator Peale, President of the Nittany Valley Railroad Company, whose line is being located from Mill Hill to Bellefonte via Nittany Valley, we learn some important facts. The locating of the road does not mean its immediate construction by any means. The line passes through a section of country whose character does not demand a railroad on its own account, and if built soon it would be only for a feeder to the Beech Creek, Clearfield & Southwestern railroad. There would be no manufacturing institutions of any account along the line, and the question is asked where would the stockholders receive remuneration for an investment? Practically they would receive nothing until the material interests of the county were developed and manufactures, towns and villages built along the line. The party receiving the most out of the project would be the B. C. & S. W. road, because all the freight would pass on to its line without its having to carry any of the expenses incident to the construction of the feeder. In a short time the mortgage on the new road would be foreclosed, and it would pass out of the hands of the original owners and become the property of another company.

Somebody says, "but look at the iron ore shipments!" That's true, but it would require four train loads of 50 cars each, or 200 cars per day to make the road pay. It will be a long time before Nittany and the Buffalo Run country will produce that amount of ore freight. The road being built from Bellefonte up to Buffalo Run to State College, although only seventeen miles long, is in a measure being constructed in the same way, although it will fare better than the line east from Bellefonte because the ore interests are largely developed. But we predict that the Buffalo Run road will soon pass out of the hands of its projectors and become the property of the highest bidder. It looks very much as though it would be a feeder to the B. E. V. R. R., in which case the last named road would walk off with the lion's share of the profits, and that too, without any expense. In case the Buffalo Run and the Nittany Valley railroads connect and become one property, the whole to be a feeder to the Vanderbilt system at Mill Hill, where the Beech Creek, Clearfield & Southwestern railroad would be tapped, an iron viaduct 700 feet long and 58 feet high would be built across the narrow valley below Bellefonte in order to bring the two roads together.

In all events, it will be some time before the Nittany Valley railroad will be built. From what we have learned we do not believe the road from Milton to Punksutawny will be built over the line surveyed. The road will be too expensive to build and operate. If built it will be on another line.

Randall is in the lead for Speaker. After all it may turn out that the west is only a big wind-bag.

Pope Leo's letter relative to Irish affairs has called in on him the ill-will of many Irishmen and also of the priesthood.

His letter to the Irish clergy caused great dissatisfaction among the Irish-American Catholics, in Baltimore, and one result was a marked falling off in the amount of the annual collection of Peter's pence made in the churches on Sunday. With the exception of a very few churches, the Peter's pence nowhere exceeded one hundred dollars. At St. John's Catholic church, in Baltimore, where a congregation of 8,000 persons worship, the contribution reached only $40. Heretofore this parish has given from $300 to $400. At St. Vincent's church, Front St., $80 was collected. The other churches frequented by Irish Catholics gave similar small sums.

Cardinal Lavigerie, Archbishop of Algiers, has been authorized by the Pope to call the attention of the French Government to the difficulty the Pope has in preventing the tension between the Vatican and French from becoming an open rupture, and to show it how impatiently the enemies of the republic await such a result.

There is a charge of swapping votes on important matters at Harrisburg, last week. The bill to tax crude petroleum shipped outside the state one mill a gallon was defeated in the House, the bill receiving 19 votes less than the number required to pass it. Many votes were cast in the negative in return for votes against the bill to give the Philad. Council control of the streets through which passenger railways run. This bill was opposed by a strong lobby in the interest of the street railway companies.

One of the most heartless monopolies is the telephone monopoly, the unreasonable exactions of which are complained of in many quarters. To give an example: when we, about a year ago, interested ourselves to have a line built from Bellefonte to Centre Hall, the company in its generosity asked a subscription of $100 a mile, which was about double the actual cost. Then, in addition there must be six instruments rented here at $48 each per year, which rental alone would have been enough to pay for putting up the line. Then after putting up the line and paying double for it, and paying in addition a rental that of itself would pay for the cost of the line, all we could have would be the poor privilege of talking over it—after paying four or five times its actual cost—and the monopoly to own it all.

Finding that we would not be skinned at a rate of nearly 1000 per cent, the monopoly now agrees to give our people a line for the rental of six instruments, at $48 per year each, which still pays the cost of the line the first year, and if our people wish to continue it, will have to pay the cost of the line every year over again. Now if this is not the most unreasonable demand of any thing out we would like to know what is. The telephone is a great convenience, but such exactions are unwarranted, when the holders of the patent have already made millions out of it in the last three years.

Pity Mr. Malin, the agent, does not have authority in the regulation of charges, as we think he would come down to fair profits.

Last week Governor Pattison vetoed the bill authorizing married women and their husbands, living separate and apart under a deed of separation, to sell their separate estates free and clear of any dower rights. He says the divorce laws in Pennsylvania are already too lax, and that they should be made stringent instead of giving greater facilities for separation.

We think the Governor's reasoning has some force.

The Pennsylvania wool gatherers assembled at Pittsburgh the other day and formed an organization. The Reporter imagines this organization is distinct from the wool gatherers which meet at our national and state capitals every winter.

The Reformed Classic which was in session at Centre Hall a few days ago unanimously endorsed the prohibition amendment.

An immense discovery of silver is reported twenty-three miles southwest of Prescott, in the Turkey Creek valley. The ore assays $26,000 a ton. Consul Willard, of Guaymas, advises persons not to go to the reported gold fields in Lower California.

A rich discovery of silver means new millionaires to buy their way to the Senate, and get a divorce from their first love in order to have a flash-in-the-pan flirt take her place, a la Tabor, et al.

The Patriot says the republican Necristown Herald, intent on making a little capital for its party, charges that the democratic house of representatives has neglected the interests of labor and deflected the measures before the body designed to protect and benefit the working classes. The editor of that sheet must be a cross-eyed fellow whose strabismus causes him to mistake one political party for another.

The fact is just the opposite of what is charged by that unscrupulous republican sheet. The democratic house of representatives passed the Hines employers' liability bill and the bill requiring the payment of employes fortnightly instead of monthly. These bills have both been killed by the republican senate. The workmen of the state were peculiarly interested in the passage of these measures and they can thank the republican party for their defeat.

The coronation of the Czar took place at Moscow, on Sunday last.

The Czar left Petrofsky Palace at noon and reached the Kremlin at 1:35 o'clock, on 22. There was a slight fall of rain during the march of the procession, but otherwise the affair was a complete success. The enthusiasm of the people along the route was unbounded.

The signal for starting the procession was the firing of artillery and the ringing of bells in the Cathedral of the Assumption. On the Emperor mounting, other salutes were fired. The order of procession was as follows: Chief officer of police and twelve gendarmes; private escort of the Emperor; first squadron of Cossacks of the Guard and one squadron of dragoons; mounted Asiatic deputations; representatives of the nobility; court servants, couriers and huntsmen; masters of ceremonies in a carriage drawn by six horses and followed by a large number of court officials and suites of foreign princes; members of the Council of the Empire; Grand Marshal of the Court; squadron of the Cavalier Guards; the Emperor on horseback, followed by Count Alexander Adlerberg, Minister of War and aide-de-camp to the General; the Czar and Grand Dukes George, Michael, Alex- is, Paul and Constantine.

After all the male members of the Imperial family, who were on horseback, came the Empress accompanied by the Grand Duchess Xenia Alexandrovna, in a state carriage drawn by eight horses, a groom leading each horse, equestrians on either side of the carriage, mounted pages and grooms following. Then came state carriages, the first containing the Grand Duchesses Marie Paulovna and Alexandra Josephovna; the second Grand Duchesses Olga, Feodorona and Marie Alexandrovna and the Duchess of Edinburgh; the third the Grand Duchess Vera Constantinovna, Duchess of Wurttemberg, Grand Duchess of Wurtemberg and Grand Duchess of Catherine Michailovna; and the fourth, the Princess Marie of Baden, Princess Eugenie of Oldenburg, and Grand Duchess Helen of Mecklenburg Strelitz; a squadron of the Cuirassier Regiment of the Guard, ladies of honor in carriages, and a squadron of Lancers of the Guard.

The Mayor and deputations of tradesmen joined the procession at the old triumphal arch. Marshals of nobility of Warsaw and several other districts did homage to the Emperor at Tsvetkita Place.

The civil Governor of Moscow, judges and other city officers received the Emperor at the Gate of the Resurrection, where His Imperial Majesty and Grand Dukes and Empress alighted and knelt in prayer before a picture of the Virgin. The Archbishop of Warsaw received their Majesties at the steps of the Cathedral of the Assumption with a cross and holy water. At this point the cheering of the people was perfectly deafening. The procession then entered the Kremlin.

The Emperor wore the uniform of a General, and was mounted on a splendid charger. He rode a little in advance of four Generals who were directly attending him. He maintained a calm demeanor, although he often smiled graciously in response to the wild enthusiasm which greeted him at every point.

Cheer upon cheer followed each other incessantly from the densely packed multitude on the streets, and from thousands of people in the balconies and windows. The Empress was greeted with every mark of enthusiasm and loyalty.

The Virginia elections have gone in favor of the Democrats. Mahoneism is on its last legs.

AS WHEN SHE WAS YOUNG.
"I have used Parker's Hair Balsam and like it better than any similar preparation I know of," writes Mrs. Ellen Perry, wife of Rev. P. Perry, of Coldbrook Springs, Mass. "My hair was almost entirely gray, but a dollar bottle of the Balsam restored the softness, and the brown color it had when I was young—not a single gray hair left. Since I began applying the Balsam my hair stopped falling out, and I find that it is perfectly harmless and agreeable dressing."
June

FROM ILLINOIS.

ROCK CITY, Ill., May 3.

Ed. Reporter:—In your issue of the 19th ult. we gave the readers of your valuable paper a few rambling notes of what we knew about the great State of Illinois, and now with your permission, we shall continue, but will confine ourselves to this (Stephenson) county which owes in a large measure its present state of high development to the hundreds of emigrants who came here at an early day from Pennsylvania and particularly to those who came from Centre county. This county, as many of your readers know, is in the northern tier, it being the second county from the Mississippi, and comprising an area of nearly 600 square miles. The population of the county is something like 30,000, Freeport being the county seat and containing about 10,000 inhabitants. Other towns and villages in the county in order of size are Lena, Davis, Orangeville, Cedarville, Dakota, Rock City, Winslow, Rudout, Rock Grove, etc. We have four newspapers—Freeport Bulletin, Journal and Republican, Anzeiger and Lena Star. The first two issue dailies and weeklies, and each enjoys a large circulation. Our public buildings are a mammoth court house that cost $125,000; a jail that is unsurpassed in this section of the state, and a commodious and well arranged poor house, large enough to accommodate all the poor of the county.

During a recent vacation of four weeks we had the pleasure of making a tour through the county in the interest of the Freeport Bulletin, which brought us in contact with hundreds of people, many of whom are from Centre county. The names of a few of these we shall mention, together with a few other notes that may prove of interest. At Davis, the first place we struck, Prof. David Brown, son of Henry Brown, of Harrisburg, principal of the public school, with R. E. Brown, Jr. & Co., do, as teacher of the grammar department. There are four departments in this school with a total of twenty teachers, Mr. Brown having charge of the high school. At Rock Grove we found the public school in charge of the indomitable Ed. Weirick, who for many years taught in Centre and was known to the teachers as the indefatigable roller at the county institute. Mr. Weirick has been at Rock Grove two years and is doing well. At this place are also Samuel and Solomon Fisher, from Milheim, both being real estate owners; and David Zimmerman, Jeremiah Swartz, James Beck, Levi Candy, Isaiah Corl, Philip Krise, Alf. Krape, Wm. Fulton, Fred. Mogle, George Long, Peter Emerick's heirs and Harrison Clevelantine, all from Hubersburg, are doing well in their several vocations. At Dakota we met Jacob Swartz, grain dealer, his brother Benjamin, an extensive farmer, and Wm. Asker, druggist, and many others from Centre, Rev. Frank Wetzel, of Bellefonte, is president of the "College of Northern Illinois," a new German Reformed institute which he succeeded in establishing last summer. The reverend gentleman had been pastor of the Dakota charge, but soon resigned his pastorate and set about collecting money for a college edifice which he has now almost completed. The cost of the building in the neighborhood of $6,000. Henry Wetzel, brother of Frank Wetzel, will be the first and only graduate this year, while Lewis Schaffer, of Zion, is a worthy Freshman. At Oqueo Fred. Nihart, of Jacksonville, is the worthy post master; James Fregate, of Unionville, is the shining pedagog light, and Samuel Ronkie, brother of the big-hearted sturdy farmer, is the Loop, and one of the elite on the morning of election day and spent a few hours very pleasantly. Jas. Musser, who was brought up at the old hotel stand at Penn Hall, is the principal merchant and does a business amounting to about $100,000 a year. Michael Swartz, brother of Dr. Swartz, of Bellefonte, and of Sam'l Swartz of Tusseyville, is also a merchant in the village, and does a business almost as extensive as that of Mr. Musser. Here we met Hugh Ronkie, brother of James Ronkie, of the Loop, and John P. of Centre Hill. Mr. Ronkie was a candidate for some township office, consequently he smiled most volitionally. By the way, as we shook him by the hand, we were reminded of the all-wise (?) Looper who started west some years ago and asked the tick et agent at Lewistown for a ticket to Hugh Ronkie's. Dr. Fishburn, of Bellefonte, John and James Young, sons of David Young, of the Loop, and hosts of others from our native county live here. At Ridott we found among others the venerable Samuel Moyer, brother of the renowned Solomon Moyer, (deceased), of the music, and the two Dr. Leitzeis, of Spring Mills, who had arrived the week previous and were at that early date most pleasantly situated. In Lena we found Alex. Shannon, formerly from Centre Hall, who is doing well in the life insurance business; George Breon and Philip Musser, both of Bellefonte, and prominent merchants; Dr. W. B. Stiver, of Potters Mills, who enjoys a large practice; A. A. Krape, our county superintendent of schools, who emigrated from Brunsvally, I think at an early day, and his better-half known in her maiden days as Lucy Wassor who, with her mother, kept the toll-gate east of Penn Hall. In Freeport Joseph and William Emmert, formerly of Potters Mills, are prominent—the former a druggist, the latter an inventor and speculator; the Hon. James J. Neff, is one of the most noted lawyers, and his brother John, is in the banking business—both are sons of Joseph Neff, of Centre Hill. But right here we must close. Yours truly,
P. O. S.

—We heard a railroad boss explain the other day why there were so many railroads contemplated in this part of the state—it is to secure the trade of carrying passengers to and from the Philad. Branch, where they through by thousands for cheap clothing, and besides one railroad, even with a double track, has not the capacity to supply the store with goods to accommodate so many customers.

ANOTHER CYCLONE

St. Louis, May 24—A cyclone swept through Howell county last Friday and Saturday causing great loss of property. Every house in the town of Moody was blown down and several persons were badly injured. Great damage was also done by a tornado in Mares county. A horse was picked up and carried a quarter of a mile. A turtle eleven inches in diameter was scooped out of the creek by the wind and dropped in Vienna, three miles distant. Several persons were severely injured. In Millen county the storm was also very severe. As far as heard from a dozen farms in the neighborhood of Iberia were ruined and a school house torn to pieces.

Judge Sharswood died at Philadelphia on Monday morning.

The coronation of the Czar took place on Sunday without any thing to mar the ceremonies.

Mrs. Kate E. Sherwood, 1345 Mariborough Street, Philadelphia, Pa., says: I used Brown's Iron Bitters for weakness and highly recommend it.

MERCANTILE APPRAISEMENT

The vendors of Foreign and Domestic Merchandise, Distillers, Brewers, Brokers, etc., in Centre County, will take notice that they are appraised and classed by the undersigned Appraiser of Mercantile and other License Tax for the year 1883, as follows, to wit:

Name	Class	Tax
Aaronburg Business
M. Musser, Merchant	13	75
Philip Bros. do	13	75
Feidler & Kunkle do	13	75
Thos. Yearick, Druggist	14	75
Bellefonte.
V. J. Bauer & Co., Grocer	13	75
Joe. Cedar, Confectioner	14	75
D. M. Wagner, Merchant	14	75
Cyrus Strickland, Grocer	14	75
E. Brown, Jr. & Co., do	14	75
Bunard & Aiken, Musical Inst.	14	75
James O'Brien, Pools	49	75
M. Levi & Co., Clothing	12	13
Goldsmith Bros., Merchants	8	20
S. & A. Loeb, Merchants	9	25
Joseph Bros., do	9	25
John Brachbill, Furniture	13	75
Harvey W. Ross, Merchants	13	75
George Blackford, Tobacco	14	75
John Messer, Grocer	14	75
James Harris & Co., do	14	75
J. H. Sells, Confectioner	14	75
John Harris, Druggist	14	75
Wm. Miller & Co., Merchants	14	75
Lyons & Co., Merchants	9	25
G. W. Downing, Billiards	13	75
Bunard & Aiken, Musical Inst.	13	75
H. Y. Stiller, Stationery	14	75
E. Gramann, Son, Boots and Shoes	14	75
John Harris, Druggist	14	75
John D. Saurbeck, Confectioner	14	75
Doll & Moutie, Boots and Shoes	14	75
James Harris & Co., Hardware	14	75
J. Zeller & Son, Druggist	13	75
do Patent Medicine	2	30
Monography & Co., Mer. Tailors	14	75
H. K. Hicks, Hardware	9	25
H. C. Weaver, Tobacco	14	75
J. C. Miller & Co., Stationery	14	75
S. & A. Loeb, Grocer	13	75
Valentine's Store, Lim. Mer.	6	50
Wilson, McFarlin & Co., Hardware	19	75
S. & A. Loeb, Grocer	13	75
F. C. Richards, Jewelry	14	75
F. P. Keckhine, Tobacco	14	75
do Patent Medicine	2	30
A. J. Cross, Tobacco	14	75
W. R. Teller, Pools	49	75
F. P. Green, Druggist	13	75
do Patent Medicine	2	30
Seelcher & Co., Grocer	11	15
D. F. Barnes, Pool Table	49	75
Gordon & Landis, Implements	14	75
Berlin, White & Co., Coal	13	75
E. Brown, Grain and Coal	11	15
W. H. Wilson, Sample Agent	13	75
Harry Teas & Co., Grocers	14	75
John Anderson, Bottler	11	60
Alexander & Co., Coal and Grain	14	75
C. Smith, Confectioner	14	75
W. T. Twilinger, Stoves	14	75
W. H. Wilson, Sample Agent	13	75
D. Garman & Son, Dry Goods	14	75
Issac Guggenheimer, Clothing	11	15
H. H. Hass, Brewer	14	75
Singer Mfg Co., Sewing Machines	14	75
O. G. Millen, Pool Table	49	75
M. A. Kirk, Druggist	4	15
do Patent Medicine	2	30
Fred. Becker, Distiller	8	25
Wm. Brown, Bottler	50	75
Centre Hall.
J. J. Thompson & Co., Merchants	12	13
J. B. Matern, Merchant	12	13
J. B. Matern, do	14	75
J. Blanchard, do	14	75
J. A. Quigley, Merchant	13	10
H. W. Hooper, do	13	10
J. Kines, do	13	10
A. A. Graham, Pool Table	49	75
Bonsburg.
Thos. F. Riley, Grocer	14	75
G. B. Jack, do	14	75
J. N. Dinges, Dry Goods and Drugs	14	75
do Patent Medicine	4	15
Cleveland, Merchants	12	13
Wm. Wolf & Son, do	12	13
J. D. Murray, Druggist	14	75
do Patent Medicine	4	15
J. O. Deisinger, Hardware	14	75
W. A. Bohl, Agent Merchant	14	75
H. J. Barnes, Merchant	14	75
M. Strohm, do	13	10
Coburn.
Saml. Greeninger, Merchant	14	75
P. H. Stover, Grain and Coal	12	13
J. P. Grenoble, do	8	25
Geo. Stover, Distiller	13	75
R. V. Madenker, do	14	75
Fleming.
A. J. & T. E. Grist, Merchants	11	15
do do Drugs	12	13
B. F. Leathers, Merchants	12	13
Union Co-operative Association, Limited, Merchants	14	75
J. L. Somerville, Druggist	14	75
Fowler.
S. B. Mills, Merchant	14	75
Guyser.
C. W. Knicker, Merchant	14	75
Houserville.
L. M. Houser & Co., Merchants	14	75
Howard.
B. Lamb, Merchant	9	25
H. A. & B. Mer. and Coal Dealer	13	75
H. A. Moore, Druggist	14	75
do Patent Medicine	4	15
N. H. Beck, Merchant	14	75
S. F. Kline, do	14	75
Robert Cook, do	14	75
John W. Cook, do	14	J. B. Antle, do	14	75	W. Weber & Co. Mer. and coal dealers	11	15	Anson Schenk, Hardware	14	75	Hubersburg.			Henry Brown, Merchant	13	10	S. H. Goodhart, do	13	10	Julian Furnace.			J. C. Hoover, Merchant	14	75	D. R. Co., do	14	75	J. D. Taylor, do	14	75	Phoenix Plating Mill Co. Mer.	14	75	J. Parsons, Grocer	14	75	Lena.			J. W. Wasson, Merchant	14	75	Wm. Thompson, Jr. & Co., Mer.	12	13	D. F. Taylor, Druggist	14	75	do Patent Medicine	4	15	Linden Hall.			D. Hess, Merchant	13	10	Loveville.			Rhodes & Smith, Merchants	13	10	Madisonburg.			A. Ocker, Merchant	13	10	Martha Furnace.			J. J. Thompson, Merchant	14	75	J. P. Williams, do	14	75
J. B. Antle, do	14	75
W. Weber & Co. Mer. and coal dealers	11	15
Anson Schenk, Hardware	14	75
Hubersburg.
Henry Brown, Merchant	13	10
S. H. Goodhart, do	13	10
Julian Furnace.
J. C. Hoover, Merchant	14	75
D. R. Co., do	14	75
J. D. Taylor, do	14	75
Phoenix Plating Mill Co. Mer.	14	75
J. Parsons, Grocer	14	75
Lena.
J. W. Wasson, Merchant	14	75
Wm. Thompson, Jr. & Co., Mer.	12	13
D. F. Taylor, Druggist	14	75
do Patent Medicine	4	15
Linden Hall.
D. Hess, Merchant	13	10
Loveville.
Rhodes & Smith, Merchants	13	10
Madisonburg.
A. Ocker, Merchant	13	10
Martha Furnace.
J. J. Thompson, Merchant	14	75
J. P. Williams, do	14	75

Milesburg.

A. T. Bogg, Grocer	14	75
W. B. Miles & Son, Merchants	13	75
C. H. Eise & Bro., Druggist	7	75
do Patent Medicine	4	15
A. W. Kishel & Co., Merchants	14	75
John Hilber, Merchant	13	75
E. H. Carr, Coal dealer	14	75
McCoys & Linn, Merchants	11	15
Wm. Linn, do	14	75
A. G. Hildings & Co. Limited, Mer.	12	13
Mrs. S. Lucas & Son, Merchants	14	75
Howe Mfg Co., Sewing Machines	14	75
Milheim.
H. H. Tomlinson, Merchant	12	13
Jacob Eisenhuth, Drugs and Grocer	14	75
J. W. Snook, Merchant	13	75
Musser & Smith, Hardware	13	75
Jerome Spieglemyer, Merchant	13	75
E. C. Campbell & Son, do	14	75
F. W. Adams, Merchant	14	75
J. A. Penyl, Pools & Billiards	49	75
Moshannon.
A. M. McClain, Merchant	14	75
Nittany.
Mrs. M. E. Holmes, Merchant	13	10
Penn Hall.
J. B. Fisher, Merchant	12	13
Phillipsburg.
Matley & Shickler, Tobacco & Con.	14	75
C. Musson & Son, Merchants	8	20
Kesler & Huffinger, do	9	20
A. A. Sauer, Jewelry	13	75
J. F. Barber, Hardware	13	75
W. H. McCausland, Jewelry	13	75
Gray, Wolf & Co., Merchants	14	75
R. F. Mall, Druggist	14	75
do Patent Medicine	3	10
E. M. Kinnear, Druggist	14	75
do Patent Medicine	2	30
G. Parker, (Ex) Stationery	14	75
W. E. Burchfield, Grocer	14	75
A. W. Harper, do	14	75
E. M. Towner, Furniture	14	75
L. J. K. Switzer, Stationery	13	75
J. Lytle & Co., Grocers	12	13
S. Sprinkle & Son, Merchants	13	75
Christman & Nies, Druggist	13	75
do do Patent Medicine	3	10
F. Meyers, Clothing	13	75
W. N. Ake, Grocer and Confectionery	14	75
J. R. Jones, Grocer	14	75
Strouse & Lehman, Mer.	10	25
G. W. Howard, Confectioner	14	75
E. F. A. Bowers & Co., Grocers	14	75
W. H. Dorland, Tobacco & Confr.	14	75
Silas Reese, Grocer	12	13
R. Adams, do	14	7