This machine, although looking heavy enough for two horses, was easily drawn by one horse and raked up and bound the cradled oats with great rapidity. The binding of many of the sheaves was good but as the manufacturer's agent was not here and the local agents, Messrs. Whitmer & Co., had not yet learned to properly adjust the different parts, particularly the tension, it occasionally cut wire after the sheaf was bound. This defect could have been remedied, had the Co's machinist been here to show how to gear up the machine.

Thus passes away a woman of peculiar character—possessing a strong intellectual middl, though kind and gentle in bearing, she has commanded the respect of all who knew her. For nearly fifty years she has been an exemplary christian. She was a member of the M. E. church and her death has demonstrated that to her religion was a blessed reality inasmuch as the end approached so quietly that the watchers were hardly aware of his presence—she sweetly slept away. She was a daughter of Rev. Marmaduke Pearce, a pioneer Methodist preacher of this region and a sister of ex-congressman, Rev. John J. Pearce, of Huntingdon. Her mother was a sister of Joshua Potter, who at present is lying very ill. She was married to Elijah C. Hewes, at the age of nineteen. Mrs. Hewes was well known throughout this valley. For several years she has been with her children in Bellefonte, although her great desire has been to return to her native valley. As her health began to fail and she felt that she was approaching the end, this desire increased an t in her last hours while her mind was fast loosing its held on earthly things, she immagined she was "at home," in the heart of her quiet peaceful valley, where she would rest. And now in the lovely cemetery at Sprucetown, overlooking the broad, beautiful valley, by the side of loved ones gone before, she is doubly at home, sweetly sleeping. She calmly awaits the resurrection morn, then to join the grand anthem of praise unto him "who hath loved us and bought us with his blood. .*

A DIFFERENCE OF TEN MINUTES. (Baltimore Special.)

The Orphan's Court concluded on Filday its hearing of the question of administration on the Schmidt estatevalued at $30,000 The question to be decided was which died first, Wilhelm Schmidt, the murderer and suicide, or his victim, Mrs. Mary Schmidt. If Schmidt survived, his Mary Schmidt. If Schmidt survived, his estate would go to relatives in Germany. The brothers of Mrs. Schmidt, Messrs. Gross, were entitled to administer and to the property, if she survived her husband.

Solution Mrs. Schmidt, Messrs. Gross, were entitled to administer and to the property, if she survived her husband.

Solution Mrs. Schmidt survived, his cut up her gossamer, placed some stones in it and tied them securely around her neck, then deliberately walked into fit e river, about thirty-five feet from the bank, laid down and drownded herself where the water was only two and a half 覆Officer Schleight testified that when he entered the house he went up stairs and saw the man lying on the floor. He then went down stairs and felt that Mrs. Schmidt had a pulse and was not dead. Officer Murphy testified that as he went up stairs he felt Mrs. Schmidt's arm and t was warm. He went up stairs and saw the man lying on his back dead. The Court decided that it was of the opinion that the wife had survived her husband about ten or fifteen minutes, therefore, the administration would be granted to his brothers on Mrs. Schmidt's estate.
