THE FIRST ARREST

Made in Connection with the Rose Ambler Murder.

A Stone Mason in Prison for Complicity in the Tragedy—The Evidence Against Will Lewis Growing Stronger.

STRAFORD, Conn., Sept. 25.—The Rose Ambler murder is still shrouded in mystery. The Coroner's jury continues to act with closed doors, and the investigation drags tediously along. Coroner Holt says he has come into possession of important information which leads him to believe that the mystery will soon be solved. Just what this new evidence was he would not say. Coroner Holt, however, assured a reporter that the authorities would succeed in arresting Rose Ambler's murderer, and would be able to convict him. He says that it looks very dark for Lewis, as he was in possession of much which tends to strengthen the case against him. "I am as sure of clearing up this murder as I am of anything," concluded the Coroner, "but you must give us a little more time."

In answer to the question whether it was likely that Will Lewis would be soon arrested, the Coroner said that he could not tell. From further conversation the impression conveyed by Mr. Holt was that Lewis' arrest was a question of a few days, and perhaps only a few hours. Detectives Wood, Bibbons and Amaldo were even more reticent than usual. All three are known to feel confident that they can fasten the murder on Lewis and procure sufficient evidence to satisfy an intelligent jury of his guilt. How much this amounts to will be seen hereafter.

The testimony taken tended to show that Lewis had told of the murder in Birmingham, where he went to peddle garden vegetables, several hours before Rose Ambler's strangled body was found by the Stratford people. Samuel Durand, a Birmingham grocer, testified that the day after the body was found Lewis drove up very much downcast. He acted in such a way that witness asked him what was the matter. "Don't you know my girl is dead? Some one killed my girl last night," replied Lewis. "What day was this?" eagerly inquired Coroner Holt. "I can't tell the day. I at first thought it Monday, the day the body was found, but when I came to think it over I can't tell positively about it."

William Smith, of Birmingham, testified that Lewis came into his restaurant Tuesday, the day after the body was found, with a friend. Lewis then said: "If I was in Stratford I could put my hands on the murderer of Rose." As Durand swears that no one was with Lewis when he told him about the murder, the detectives hope to prove that this conversation took place Monday, as it is known that for a week following the murder, commencing the next day, Lewis' friends always had some one accompanying him on his peddling trips.

Among this afternoon's witnesses were Eliza Osborne and wife, both of Stratford. The detectives, it is claimed, discovered that the Osbornes had said among their friends that Lewis' employer, Charles Peck, had told them that when Lewis came to the barn the Monday Rose Ambler's body was found he looked very tired. Peck questioned him as to the matter, and he in reply said that he was "all played out, as he had been out most all night." Peck denies this however made any such statement.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 25.—Charles Mallory, aged about fifty years, is now locked up at the police station in this city. He was brought over from Stratford by the detectives engaged in the Ambler murder case. What they expect to prove against him they will not divulge, but enough is known to warrant the statement that the prisoner's arrest is the result of the detective work during the past few days. The prisoner has let drop certain remarks that are said to be damaging evidence against him. The detectives held a consultation with him, but they refuse to make the result public. The prisoner is a stone mason by trade, and was employed for many years in this city. He has a daughter, who still resides in this city.

THE DANCE OF DEATH.
Three Negroes Sell Their Bodies and Give a Banquet.
RICAMOND, Va., Sept. 23.—R. King, J. Evans and S. Younger, three negroes, were hanged at Chatham. A few days ago King and Evans sold their bodies to physicians for $10 each. Younger refused to sell his. He considered $10 too little. King and Evans upon receiving the money gave a fine dinner to a few friends at Carter's hotel. Roast pig and roast beef constituted the first course and the bill of fare wound up with wines and cigars. An officer and guard sat near the festive board. The condemned men confessed their guilt at the banquet, and afterward recanted. They confessed again, and there is no doubt as to the guilt of all of them. The execution was private, in the jail yard.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 23.—George Wallace was hanged privately in the jail by A. J. Franklin, Deputy Sheriff. Several thousand negroes were outside the walls. The commission de lunatico inquired and appointed yesterday pronounced his alleged insanity feigned. He made no confession, and carried the deception to the end. He was 39 years old, black and small.

THE WESTERN RAILROAD WAR.
The Lines to Fight if it Takes all Winter.
LOUISVILLE, Sept. 27.—The trains of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago line arrive filled with people, who take advantage of the war in rates to reach their homes in the South. General Passenger and Ticket Agent Murray Keller is said to be maturing a plan to down his opponents in the North, if it takes all winter. No change in rates from here on any line, but trip tickets rates from here to Cincinnati advanced fifty cents morning.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 27.—The railroad situation continues the same as yesterday so far as this point is concerned. The Air Line is still doing a rushing business in Chicago, but competing lines show no disposition to interfere, and at the regular ticket offices rates are firm.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27.—Nothing new has taken place here in regard to the rate war. Its effects have not yet reached this city.

ENCOURAGING.

Having been encouraged by the steady increase of business, I have remodeled, repainted and added to the external as well as to the internal appearance of my DRUG HOUSE, thereby making it more attractive to my customers. I would now thank my customers for their liberal patronage in the past, and solicit a continuance of the same. My stock is as near full as possible. I am in complete communication with the principal Drug Houses of New York and Philadelphia and am supplied with cuts and price lists, and anything in my line not kept in stock, will be sent for at once and delivered at the same prices that it could be bought at if you went or sent yourself. I buy my drugs for cash, pay no discounts, which enables me to sell just as cheap as any other drug store in the county. All business between dealer and customers strictly confidential. J. D.
