LOCAL ITEMS.

The first to inquire what V. S. C. L. meant, was a merchant. Levi Murray is improving his dwelling by the addition of a two-story kitchen part.

COBURN SPARKS.

Mr. Andrew Stover is rapidly pushing the work on his new house. Mr. S. Greninger is building a porch to his store and otherwise remodeling it.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

A Democratic rally will be held at Centre Hall, on Saturday evening, 20. Let all come who can. Let Republicans come and hear the issues discussed.

Tuesday morning was fresh and breezy and water pools showed a covering of ice.

Go to Graham's shoe store and take a look at those long-leg 4-sole whole stock driving boots—the best we ever saw.

The fellow who went to Bellefonte on Friday to attend Forepaugh's show, we found, on looking over our list, does not take the Reporter. Result: $1.00

Total loss, one day $5.10 Price of Reporter, one year, $2, and show on 18.

"The sun do move" says brudder Jasper and he means it, because he thinks he sees it move, and seeing is believing. Just on this principle all take it that the Philad. Branch is the best place to buy ready-made clothing—the whole crowd moves in that direction, and every purchaser believes there is more money saved by purchasing a suit of Lewins & Co. than can be saved in or out of Philadelphia in that line.

The Elliottville, N. Y. News, has the following hymnal notice which will be of interest to readers hereabouts:

It was my pleasure to attend a very enjoyable affair in the shape of a wedding on Bryant Hill, Tuesday evening, August 28, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Drown, the contracting parties being their daughter Ada, to Mr. Wm. T. Farmer, of Centre Hall, Pa., the ceremonies being performed by Rev. C. Smith. After the marriage came the congratulations, then the dining room, the many delicacies and substantial as is usual. Will not say the tables groaned, but think there was more groaning afterwards.

Here follow a large list of articles in silverware, glassware, etc., as presents to the happy couple. Will is an old reader of the Reporter, and this shows what a young man will come to who is a subscriber to the Reporter. Mr. Farmer and his bride have the best wishes of these headquarters.

W. H. Midlam, 616 Boas St., Harrisburg, says: Brown's Iron Bitters speedily cured me of nervousness and stomach trouble.

In the Johnstown mills, the other day, a red-hot rod of iron struck a workman on the thigh, penetrating to the bone and making a horrible wound.

ST. ELMO HOTEL, No. 317 & 319 Arch Street, Philadelphia. Reduced rates to $2.00 per day.

Stover's Bellefonte Marble Works are doing a big business. Orders come in from all parts of the country; his work gives such general satisfaction and his prices are so reasonable, that he is being overrun with orders.

The biggest trade in groceries, done in this section of the state, is at Sechler's old stand. It keeps ahead all the time for large trade, largest variety of pure goods, and fair dealing. You never get an inferior article at Sechler's. Choice stall feed beef always to be had at Sechler's meat market.

Mr. L. B. Frank, of Rebersburg, is in temporary charge of Wolf & Son's store, during absence of the proprietors purchasing goods. Charley Woodring, former clerk, is now clerking in Reigard's store, Millburg.

A bevy of mischievous misses looked up the returns to find the number of duds in some of our towns, and have sent the Reporter the following result: Bellefonte, 7; Centre Hall, 1; Millheim, 1; Pleasant Gap, 2; Aronsburg, 1; Loom, 1. This is marked "confidential." Who are they?

Wolf & Son, merchants, of this place, are now in the city purchasing a stock of fall and winter goods. They have gone with a view to bringing the largest and best stock yet purchased for this the oldest store in the valley. Wolf's store has the enviable reputation of keeping none but first class goods, and well does it deserve it. Cheap stock, to deceive, never belongs to their purchases, and when you buy an article there you know you have something for your money. Next week the new goods will be on and then there will be a display of latest styles second to none in the county, and prices to suit the times. All are invited to come and see the new goods, ladies in particular, who will find just what suits their tastes. Don't purchase until you have first seen the new goods of Wolf & Son.

Remember that Graham & Son are selling a boss double sole and tap boot 50 cents cheaper than any other place in town, and a good one too—every pair warranted. A ladies' public button shoe for $1.25, worth $1.75 of any one's money.

If you would have appetite, flesh, color, strength and vigor, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which will confer them upon you in rapid succession.

The crowd at Forepaugh's show at Bellefonte, on Thursday, was immense. People from the lower end of this valley and other distant portions of the county went. The main tent had three rings, and the seating capacity was about three times that of ordinary shows, and every seat was filled. The menagerie was the best and largest of any yet through this section and included 21 elephants. The circus performance was good, but we think did not quite come up to the O'Brien circus in the spring.

CROCKERY.—Milheim Crockery wares—cups, flower pots, vases, etc., are constantly kept on hand by John S. Anman, at Farmers Mills. Manufactured by M. Ulrich, Jr., Oatkill.

LUTHER MEMORIAL AT BELLEFONTE.

A memorial service on the 400 anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther, will be held in the court-house, Bellefonte, on Friday, Oct. 20, commencing at 10 a. m., for which the following program has been arranged:

Morning service, Book of Worship with tunes. Welcome, by Rev. S. E. Farst. Address by Prof. E. J. Wood, D. D. 2 1/2 p. m. Reading of Scripture and Prayer.

Address by John G. Morris, D. D., LL. D., President of General Synod. 7 1/2 p. m. Evening Service—Book of Worship. Short addresses by Clergymen and Laymen. Social Dismissal. The exercises throughout will be interspersed with music.

All the ministers of the Northern Conference, and others, are expected to be present.

PERSONAL.—Reuben Gramley, of Miles, favored our sanctum with a call. Mr. Gutelius, one of Millburg's coach makers, looked in upon us. John White, of Zion, was among our callers. Mr. Dan. Dreibeis, of College, gave us a call, having just returned from a western trip, and says he likes that country.

Rev. Hengst, of Ft. Leavenworth, Mo., gave us a pleasant call, on Monday, having just returned from the re-opening services of Zion church, in the Loop, where there was a large attendance on Sabbath.

Wm. Ruble, from across the valley, lit up our sanctum with a pleasant smile, on Monday.

Do not miss the Philad. Branch if you want good and cheap clothing; it is a positive fact that they sell from 25 to 30 per cent cheaper than any other store to be found. Their stock of men and boy's clothing is the largest and most complete in this or any adjoining county. Anything in the line of wearing apparel, for boy or man, can be found there. Honest dealing characterizes all of their dealings.

We have at last improved our orthography that we can put a flourish to the end of a word—something like the ornamental curl on a pig's tail.

If you are bilious, don't wait until you are down with fever or with rheumatism, but clean your liver and system generally with Smith's German Oil.

Parties that have grain to sell should be sure to sell or call on the undersigned who will buy the best market price, at Spring Mills and Coburn. 11oc3m I. J. GRENOBLE.

VERY CHEAP MONEY.

A Hundred Thousand Dollars for Sixteen Hundred.

A Flour Merchant Wants to Run a Rival to the Treasury—While Writing a Letter to his Wife he is Arrested and Jailed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—James S. Maxwell, a member of the firm representing the Bald Eagle and Empire Flouring Mills, Millersburg, Ohio, came to this city last Saturday and took rooms at Smith & McNeill's Hotel, in Greenwich street. He was assigned to rooms Nos. 79, 83 and 85. During the afternoon he called on several commission houses transacting business. He was introduced to several other merchants, to whom Maxwell showed samples of fine brands of flour, of which he had a stachel full. He solicited and obtained several orders. He was taken to the Produce Exchange and introduced to many of its members and received a pass, signed by the President, admitting him to the floor of the Exchange during business hours.

Having transacted his legitimate business, Mr. Maxwell turned his attention to other matters. He called on Charles Kress, an electrotypewriter for Lovejoy, Son & Co., in Rose street, and was shown some samples of fine work. Then he told Mr. Kress that he wanted to be introduced to the printer of the United States Treasury notes, and said he desired to have some notes printed from the electrotypewriter plates of the photographs. Mr. Kress made an appointment to meet Maxwell at Smith & McNeill's Hotel, at 7:30 o'clock Monday night. It was understood that Mr. Kress was to ascend to the second floor of the hotel, knock at the doors of each of the three rooms occupied by Maxwell, and, on receiving the reply "Who's there?" from Maxwell, was to reply "43-49."

Mr. Kress called on Detective Sampson, of the Treasury Department, and Mr. Sampson referred him to Chief Drummond, of the United States Secret Service Department. The Chief and several assistants accompanied Mr. Kress on his visit to Maxwell. Mr. Kress did not know the name of his customer, and Chief Drummond thought from the description that it was "Ed" Hall, a notorious counterfeit.

Mr. Kress gave the necessary signals and was admitted to Maxwell's room. The latter said he desired to have counterfeiter notes printed, colored and finished ready for use from the electrotypewriter plates of the photographs. Mr. Kress understood his customer then, and took his order. It was as follows: Twenty-five thousand one dollar notes, 12,500 two, 5,000 five, 2,500 ten and 1,000 ten dollar silver certificates. Mr. Kress calmly informed Mr. Maxwell that the price of the work would be $1,500. The latter agreed to pay that sum, and requested Mr. Kress to bring some of the notes finished as early as possible. With four of the sample photographs Mr. Kress joined Chief Drummond outside the hotel. The chief told Mr. Kress to return to Maxwell's room, and he followed with his men. As they passed the hotel reading room they saw Maxwell writing at a table.

Chief spoke to him, and he was arrested by Chief Drummond. He made no effort to conceal the letter he was writing, and the chief took possession of it. It was to the prisoner's wife, and read as follows: "DEAR WIFE: I contracted for part of the work to-night in order to commence sending to you. I think I can send some by to-day week. I will prepare the goods before I send to you. All of the work will cost me $1,500, but it must be done very careful, and use good judgment. Now, I will send the silver goods first so you can practice on that kind of goods till I send you some more. Keep things going, and when I get my hand in it will go. Now, Mary, never say a word about a bill being good or not. When you pay out a bill never look at it. Just throw it out and walk off. Never pay out a bill when there is any stranger about, and don't be about the warehouse when Will is. When you go to put a bill in the drawer don't let any one stand by or they might blame you. If any one should say the bill is not good—"

The prisoner took his arrest very calmly. He was taken to Ludlow street jail and on being arraigned before the United States Commissioner was held in $5,500 bail. Being unable to furnish this he was returned to jail. OUTWITTING AN OLD LADY. A Marriage Under Peculiar Circumstances in Atlanta. ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 11.—A party of young people registered at the Markham House from Gainesville, among whom was Miss Estelle, daughter of Peter F. Lawhu, editor of the Gainesville Southern. The lady was accompanied by her brother Norman and two sisters. At two o'clock Mr. Charles Vanveck of Cincinnati, a gentleman of means, who is largely interested in North Georgia mines, made his appearance, when the story leaked out of his imprudent marriage was about to take place. Mr. Vanveck's advances toward Miss Estelle were not approved by the old folks at home, the mother, Mrs. Lawhu, always making objections to the marriage of her children. To avoid a scene the young folks deliberately made up a program which the mother should not be present to spoil. The party took carriage and drove down to the First Methodist church, where they were joined by the Rev. Clement A. Evans and Gen. James Longstreet. Gen. Longstreet took charge of the bride as best man, while the Rev. Mr. Evans performed the ceremony. Two elder sisters of the bride experienced difficulty in getting their mother's consent to their marriage, and it seems to be conceded that whoever married a Lawhu must steal the bride from her.

Killed by a Chicken Bone.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 10.—Mrs. J. J. Prior, the actress, died at the United States Hotel. For the past two years she has been with Maggie Mitchell's company and has played the old lady's roles with great success. She has been on the stage for nearly forty years and was very well known and highly respected by all in the profession. Thirty years ago she played in the National Theatre in this city as leading lady. Her death was caused by the effects of getting a chicken bone lodged in her throat some weeks ago.

Successful at Last.

THOY, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Hermann Hass recently attempted suicide by shooting. The result was not necessarily fatal, and he was sent to the Marshall Infirmary. This morning, proceeding to a platform on which was a drinking fountain, he wound the chain connected with the fountain drinking cup about his neck and jumped off. At dawn he was found dead. He had been reduced to poverty by bad investments, and declared repeatedly that death was now the only resource for avoiding pauperism.

AN EXECUTION.

A Wife Murderer Hanged in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 4.—James McSteen was hanged in the jail yard this morning for the murder of his wife. The morning was cold and disagreeable and a large crowd stood shivering around the scaffold. McSteen was accompanied to the scaffold by Father Ward. His death was calm and quiet. It was a perfectly successful hanging, and Sheriff McCallin did his work well.

The murder took place at Glenwood, five miles from the city. Mrs. McSteen was his second wife, she having been a Mrs. Mary Tool before she married him. In an old diary found on the ground owned by Mr. Blair the family had their domicile, McSteen worked on the night shift at the Glenwood Steel Works, and was noted in the vicinity for cruelty to his family, and that, too, without the usual poor excuse of being given to rum, as he was not in the habit of drinking intoxicating liquors. Matters progressed in this unnatural fashion until the afternoon of June 9th, 1882, between 4 and 5 o'clock, when a gang of trackmen employed on track making repairs just in front of McSteen's home, were notified by a neighbor named Mrs. Welsh that McSteen had killed his wife with an axe. The chief witness was McSteen's four-year-old son, who said his father struck his mother after a quarrel.

EIGHTY AND TWENTY-FIVE.

Venerable Judge Camden Wedded to a Charming Young Widow.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 5.—The marriage of Judge Gideon A. Camden, who has been prominent in the politics of West Virginia, and is one of the heaviest landowners in the State, has created a sensation at Clarksburg. The Judge is over eighty and his charming bride is but little more than twenty-five. Notwithstanding the great disparity in their ages and the strong opposition of the Judge's sons and daughters, who are all people of middle age, with families of their own, the old gentleman persisted in his courtship, which was a very ardent one, and crowned all by marrying the fair young charmer. She is a widow, and thus knew best how to win her way into the Judge's affection. Owing to the violent opposition of a son and daughter, residing in Clarksburg, the marriage ceremony was performed with the greatest secrecy. Only a minister and the necessary witnesses were present. His children now threaten to annul the compact on the ground of insanity.

The old gentleman was Judge of the Harrison Circuit Court before Virginia became a State, and he was also a member of the West Virginia Constitutional Convention. In Virginia Clarksburg social circles, where all the parties are well known, the wedding is an absorbing theme of conversation. It is said that the happy couple will spend their honeymoon at the Hot Springs, Arkansas.

THE PITTSBURG TRAGEDY.

The Dead Woman a Relative of William Cullen Bryant.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Oct. 2.—Mrs. Fannie Bryant Newton, the putative wife of Dr. Orin Newton, of Pittsburg, Pa., whose tragic suicide, after his death, caused such a sensation, was related to William Cullen Bryant, the poet, on her father's side, and to Alexander Campbell on her mother's. She was a niece of the latter. Her sister Jennie, who is married, lives in Chicago. Her sisters, Clara (who is also married) and Dora, live with their mother, Mrs. Stuebel, of this city. Her brother Thomas is a farmer near Chicago. Her youngest brother, George, committed suicide in this city seven years ago on account of being retrograded in the public schools. Mrs. Newton was for years an honored teacher in the public schools of this city, but she had been heard of her since. Her remains will be buried at Pittsburg, where she died.

John Cox, a young man living in Bellefonte, met with a painful and fatal accident on Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock, at Snowshoe intersection. He was unaccompanied cars and while in the act of jumping from a car accidentally got on the track, and was run over. The cars passed over both his thighs almost entirely severing the right leg and crushing the other so badly that amputation would have been necessary had not death relieved him a few hours after the accident.

The opening on Saturday and Monday, at the Bee Hive, was a grand affair. It spoken of as the best opening ever had in this county. Over 2,000 souvenirs were given away to customers, who came and went in streams from early until late. Goldsmith Bros. may well feel proud of this successful opening; their liberality in giving presents has won them many friends, and renders their hitherto popular store still more popular. The most extraordinary bargains are to be had there in all kinds of dress goods.

TROUBLE IN CLEARFIELD CO.

Bradford, Oct. 13.—There are no new developments in the strike of the Rochester and Pittsburg coal miners at Dubois. Sixteen more of Finkerton's men arrived to-day and were sworn in as deputy sheriffs. The company now has fully one hundred special officers employed and are determined to protect their property. The railroad hands have also been sworn in and armed. Nothing was done at the works yesterday or to-day, but it is the intention to put miners at work on Monday.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system. For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the following relief. It has cured numerous cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

ULCEROUS SORES.

"At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcers running sore on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore. Physicians told us that a powerful cathartic medicine must be employed. They utilized in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results. Yours truly, E. F. JOHNSON."
