DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL,
CAPT. ROBERT TAGGART,
Of Warren County.

FOR STATE TREASURER,
HON. JOSEPH POWELL,
Of Bradford County.

County Ticket.
ASSOCIATE JUDGE
DR. J. R. SMITH,
Of Pine Grove Mills.
DISTRICT ATTORNEY
W. C. HEINLE,
Of Bellefonte.
COUNTY SURVEYOR
ELLIS L. ORVIS,
Of Bellefonte.

Sylvester D. Ray, is the name of the rad candidate for county surveyor. We have not yet known any one carrying the cognomen of "Sylvester" to be elected to any office. Lots of fellows by the name of "Ellis" have been thought.

The millionaire Vanderbilts was thrown from his fast rig the other day, and strange to say did not make a heavier thump where he landed than the poorest cuss would if he were similarly pitched.

The colored people of West Chester held a meeting a few days ago for the purpose of condemning the civil rights decision. As it was a republican bench that upset the thing for them, the colored man and brother will again see that they were only used "to be the nigger in the wood-pile" for radical politicians. Let the blacks show their indignation by voting for the Democratic nominees, Powell and Taggart, on Tuesday, 6.

Judge Orvis is not likely to be a candidate for re-election, in which event he will return to the practice of law which will be more lucrative than the bench, which is the case with all first-class lawyers.

Adam Hoy is mentioned in connection with the Judgeship in case Judge Orvis declines to run. Mr. Hoy possesses all the integrity of character to keep spotless the judicial ermine.

A. O. Furst will possibly be presented by the Centre county Republicans as their choice for President Judge. Mr. Furst is an able lawyer, but the "votes" may be again him.

Every independent of last year who votes this year for Taggart and Powell will vote for a condemnation of the infamous policy of the republican senators by which it is hoped to retain the old apportionment of the state in order that Boss Cameron may succeed himself in the United States senate.

When the Grand Old Republican Party rises wearily and casts its watery eye over the vast field of American Politics it sees but one green oasis, and that is Iowa, which flies a badly used-up flag inscribed "12,000 maj." The young doctor who went west and hung out his shingle as a practitioner wrote to his old preceptor in describing his first case of obstetrics: "The child is dead, the mother is dead, but with heaven's help I will save the old man." With a little divine assistance the "Grand Old Party" will probably be able to preserve Iowa.

The case of Rev. John White is not yet settled, and may lead to agitation in the church to which he lately belonged. A dispatch dated Pittsburg, Oct. 21, says: The celebrated heresy trial of Rev. John White, of the Huntington Presbytery, will likely be reopened. Mr. White is the minister who drifted into Swedenborgianism and whose trial attracted the attention of the Presbyterians throughout the United States. The sentiment of the Synod favored a much harsher punishment than was inflicted on Mr. White, and the matter was referred to the Presbyterian Records Committee, which is composed of rigid disciplinarians. The case will come up before the Synod tomorrow, and will probably be remanded to the Presbytery of Huntington for a rehearing, which can scarcely result in less than the expulsion of the offending divine.

This Luther Memorial will long be remembered by all—it was a rich treat, and the finest literary and musical affair that was had at Bellefonte for a long time.

the Reporter office wanting to know what office Martin Luther was running for as they were holding so many meetings for him, and he said he believed he'd be elected. We said, Boy, Martin is already among the elect.

At Harrisburg, the other day, a laborer while digging struck his pick into a lady's gold watch which is supposed was buried a number of years. We only wonder whether it was like a lady's tongue—still going?

Attorney General Cassidy, on 23, filed an application before Judge Simpton, of the Dauphin Common Pleas, asking a mandamus to compel the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners to invest the sinking fund in State or United States bonds, agreeably to the provisions of the Humes act. The writ was made returnable on Nov. 5. The Treasury Ring, it is stated, proposes to contest the question to the bitter end. They are making too much money out of the State funds to let go their grip. The people should vote a mandamus at the coming election, and end the matter.

LUTHER.—The Luther memorial, at Bellefonte, on Friday, was a success, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather. The morning services did not have a crowded house on account of the rain, which deterred many from distant points of the county from attending. There was a goodly attendance of Lutheran ministers. An able discourse on the Reformation and Luther's work was preached by Rev. Henry, of Millinburg, which was favorably commented on by members of other denominations who listened to the address. The music rendered by the choir was excellent.

The afternoon services were attended by a crowded house—the spacious court room having every seat occupied. The choir sang several choice pieces from the Hymnal. The opening piece was charming, and the famous piece, "Ein feste Burg," by Luther, composed a few days before the diet of Worms, was sung by the choir amid the breathless silence of the vast audience; it is a difficult piece, yet the choir mastered it, and Dr. Morris, in his opening remarks, said that he had heard it often before but complimented the choir by saying that he never heard it so well performed. Bellefonte has some fine voices, both male and female, and their efforts upon the occasion of the afternoon services were a credit to the town as well as to the members of the choir. Dr. Morris' address was an able and interesting one, and related to the life and character of Martin Luther which the distinguished divine depicted most vividly and in a manner to hold his hearers spell-bound for nearly an hour. Luther and his war upon superstition and error were ably handled; the great results in the foundation of true religion were shown, and the debt the world owes to the great author of the Reformation were strikingly portrayed. Dr. Morris is an entertaining talker; he has traveled much, and is a profound theologian with the gift of tongue to command the utmost attention of his hearers.

In the evening the attendance was immense—the isles and windows were packed. The Bellefonte orchestra and choir acquitted themselves nobly in rendering the most charming music. Dr. Morris was again put in the harness for a talk and entertained the audience with both solid, instructive as well as amusing incidents in the life of the great Luther. He was followed in brief talks by Revs. Tomlinson, Heilman and Koser. The Zion band was also present and did itself credit.

This Luther Memorial will long be remembered by all—it was a rich treat, and the finest literary and musical affair that was had at Bellefonte for a long time.

A NOTABLE RECORD.

"By Their Fruits Ye Shall Know Them."

Jerome B. Niles, the Republican candidate for auditor general, is a member of the present Legislature. His record is worthy of study. These are some points from it. The references are to pages in the Legislative Record:

On page 551. Voted to tack on an amendment to night school bill, to secure its defeat.

Page 778. Not recorded as voting on liability bill on final passage. Dodged, which is the same as voting "No."

Page 853. Voted for amendment to same in order to defeat the purposes of the bill.

On motion to take up apportionment bill out of order, so as to carry out the constitution, (March 19, 1883, page 1083.) he said: "I hope that this motion to make a special order will be defeated." Voted against the motion, page 1092. On the same page voted against making a special order for the congressional bill.

Page 1184. Voted against the "Pilot Bill," to increase their rates of compensation to living wages.

Page 1480-81-82. Voted against bill No. 128, (eight-hour law), voted against it all the time.

Page 1431. Niles says—talking on Congressional apportionment: "But when we have made it as nearly uniform in population as it is possible to do, we find that it gives us what we are entitled to have under the Garfield vote—16 Republicans and 12 Democrats." He insults the Jews by inference. Speaking on the same subject on page 1432, he says: "The only way I can reconcile such acts of infamy, is on the same principle that the Jews sell clothing, asks enough to be can fall half and make 50 per cent. profit."

Page 1626. Voted against House Bill No. 88, extending the provisions of the general license law to Allegheny county, reducing their license charges to the same as other parts of the state.

Page 1,930-34. Spoke and voted in favor of the constitutional amendment, prohibiting the sale or manufacture of liquor.

Page 2062. Dodged the vote on the amendment to protect miners in the bituminous coal mine bill, which is equivalent to voting against the bill.

Pages 21, 41, 45-66. Spoke and voted in favor of general revenue bill No. 344, tax farms.

Page 2168. Ayres, Republican, says: "Niles misrepresents the farmers of Tioga county, and it is unfortunate for the workingmen to be represented by Niles."

Page 2174. Voted to kill the amendment of Ammerman to make the taxes uniform. Voted against the bill, after amended, on final passage. Pages 2181-2233.

Page 2106. House bill 229. Voted and spoke in favor of exempting corporations from taxation.

Page 2212. Voted against bill No. 57, to provide for neglected and destitute children.

Page 2230. Voted and spoke against House bill No. 122, known as the Jenkins bill, to provide for paying into the several county treasuries, moneys raised by license and not needed in the state treasury.

Page 2280. Voted in favor of increasing all liquor licenses.

Pages 2410, 2450, 2603, 2604. Voted and spoke against the bill to tax the Standard Oil Company.

Pages 2567, 2569. Bill No. 319. Voted against amending the revenue bill so as to turn into the county treasuries taxes received for license.

Page 2572. General revenue bill 344 which had been amended to tax moneyed capital for local purposes—he says: "Let us vote it down now; we can kill it in a minute, and be done with it, if we have the votes to do it."

Page 2604. Bill No. 230. A bill to take taxes off the corporations and put them on the people. Presented and advocated by him.

Page 2705. Voted against an amendment offered to his bill to take the tax off coal companies, but voted to take them off of all other corporations.

Pages 2745, 2762. Dodged vote on House bill 297, called by McClure the " repeal of the boss railway acts."

Page 3050. Dodged vote on House bill 272, entitled "an act to limit the hours of labor for conductors and drivers of street railways."

Page 3071. An act making eight hours a legal day's work in the mines. No. 291. Dodged vote, which is equivalent to voting "No."

No. 14. An act to protect farmers along the lines of railroads by compelling railroad companies to fence their roads, or pay for the stock they killed. Dodged the vote, which is equivalent to voting against the bill.

Vote against Niles. Cast your ballot for Capt. Robert Taggart, Democratic candidate for auditor general—a gallant soldier and an honest man.

BOTH ON THEIR FEET

With Blood in Their Eyes and Fight in their Looks.

Mr. Conkling and Mr. Gowen Cause a Little Scene in Court—An Altercation Which Nearly Led to Blows.

TRENTON, Oct. 27.—The Conkling-Gowen-Dinsmore fight was resumed in the United States Circuit court in this city. The question before the court was the motion made several months ago by counsel for Dinsmore for a preliminary injunction to stop the lease. Gowen stated that the defense was still engaged in taking testimony, and further that exceptions to the defendant's answer had been interposed by the complainant, and that it was manifestly impossible to discuss the subject of a preliminary injunction at present. He suggested that the thing to do was to argue the exceptions to the answer and get them out of the way. Conkling and Seward jumped at the chance, and were proceeding at once. Gowen said he was ready, but wanted a postponement of two or three days, until, say, next Tuesday or Wednesday or Thursday, and meantime the defense would agree to take no more testimony until the exceptions were decided.

Conkling sarcastically alluded to the gentlemen's readiness to proceed at once, some day next week, and mimicked Gowen's plausible earnestness so that everybody laughed.

"I cannot suppose," he said, looking at Seward Robeson, "that my august friend across the table, distinguished wherever he is, who has been in the case from the first, is unable to argue this question now."

A peculiar inflection on the word distinguished made Robeson move uneasily in his seat. Mr. Gowen afterward was explaining to the court what the defense expected to prove.

"What is the eminent counsel's purpose in making this statement now?" asked Mr. Conkling.

"I cannot undertake," said Gowen. "to furnish the counsel with the means of understanding my remarks. Perhaps, if he will wait two or three minutes, he may understand."

"If by listening for two or three minutes," retorted Mr. Conkling blandly, "I can understand anything that the learned counsel says, I will gladly pay the price for so unusual a privilege." Finally the court set down the argument upon the exceptions for Monday at 11 o'clock.

The taking of testimony was then resumed before Clerk Olyphant. Conkling took up the cross-examination of E. H. Faulkner where he had left it off in New York the previous day. His purpose was to show that the witness was not reliable, and had attempted persistently for several years to obtain money as the price of his silence. Mr. Robeson interrupted a question.

"I give you to the secretary of the navy," said Mr. Conkling, and sat down with a significant bow.

While Mr. Gowen was conducting a red-hot examination Mr. Conkling, in conversation with another gentleman, remarked, in a low tone, that the witness was a scoundrel.

Gowen overheard it, and said, excitedly: "That's that down. The counsel called the witness a scoundrel."

"No one would repeat a remark overheard as that was," said Mr. Conkling, quietly, "except a blackguard."

"Then you are the blackguard!" exclaimed Mr. Gowen, passionately.

"I made the remark in a low tone to another man. No gentleman would repeat it unless he forgot himself," he said, calmly, but with flushed face.

Mr. Gowen arose and faced Conkling, his beardless face distorted in anger, and almost as red as that of Mr. Robeson, who leaned excitedly forward. Mr. Clarence Seward half rose from his chair, a lock of his long hair hanging in disorder across his forehead. The other lawyers present stood up in their excitement. The crowd outside the railing pressed forward.

"They are going to fight," somebody exclaimed.

The two men stood not three feet apart. Mr. Gowen at length partially recovered himself, but shouted into Conkling's face: "I am perfectly willing to be assaulted in this way for protecting a witness from the outrage inflicted upon him by the counsel. I am proud of the humanity to do so. I am proud to have done so."

The examiner then interferred and restored order, and a few minutes afterward the court adjourned.

Flowing Up $30,000 on the Bender Farm.

CHERRYSBURG, Pa., Oct. 25.—The scene of the murders committed by the notorious Bender family, near Cherrysburg, Pa., is again the theater of interest and excitement. For a long time passed the farm occupied by the Benders has been owned and run by J. C. Murphy. About ten days ago Murphy, while plowing, unearthed a sealed tin can, which, on being opened, was found to contain a lot of greenbacks, silver, and gold, amounting in all to more than $30,000. It is supposed that all this money is the proceeds of a few of the many robberies and murders of the Benders. Murphy is elated with the "find," and proposes to keep the money. It is said that his claim will be contested by friends of the victims of the Benders, who assert that they can identify a portion of the money. Parties are said to be digging here and there on the farm with the hope of finding more money.

The Zora Burns Case.

LINCOLN, Ill., Oct. 26.—The coroner's inquest not being in progress yesterday the interest in the Burns' murder case is abating. There have been no developments of importance outside of the recognition of a photograph of Zora Burns as that of the girl who graphed August 11 with Carpenter at the Peoria house, in Peoria. Witnesses are constantly being discovered who claim to have seen Zora Burns on the Saturday evening before the murder, but when their testimony is sifted it is found to amount to little or nothing. One thing is still certain, and that is that she was not seen and recognized after she left the house, in Peoria. Carpenter's office and elevator are almost in the heart of the town, and it would not be strange if a woman had been seen in its neighborhood between 3 and 9 o'clock Saturday evening.

THE SEA SERPENT.

A Marvelous Monster Described by a Veracious American Whaler.

PANAMA, Oct. 25.—Capt. D. Seymour, of the American whaling bark Hope On, reports having encountered a strange marine monster off St. Elmo, one of the Pearl Island group, between forty and fifty miles from this town. The boats were out awaiting signals indicating the direction in which the whales were spouting. Suddenly the water broke at a short distance from the boat Capt. Seymour was steering, and he made ready to "cuttace" whale. But, to his surprise, an animal somewhat like a horse slowly rose out of the water and then dived, apparently alarmed at the sight of the boat. The glance which Capt. Seymour obtained enables him to describe it as about twenty feet long, with a handsome horse like head and two unicorn shaped horns protruding from it, with four legs or double jointed fins, a brownish hide profusely speckled with large black spots, and a tail which appeared to be divided into two parts. The animal was seen on two different days, and an effort would have been made to catch it had it not been that whales were about at the time. Capt. Seymour and his officers agree in believing the monster is peculiar to the locality, and that it could be easily killed with lances and bomb guns. Officers of the Pacific Mail company state they have seen this animal on several occasions, although they never had an opportunity for close examination.

GREAT FIRE IN PITTSBURG.

Plaining Mills and 1,000,000 Feet of Lumber Destroyed.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 25.—G. A. & A. S. Mandor's planing mills, on the south side, together with five two-story frame dwellings and 1,000,000 feet of lumber, were entirely destroyed by fire this morning. The flames were discovered shortly after 8 o'clock, and originated in the furnace room of the planing mill, where a furnace was being fed with shavings. The fire spread so rapidly that the employees barely escaped with their lives, the firemen and engineer receiving severe but not serious burns. In twenty minutes the entire mill, together with the dwellings and lumber, were burning fiercely, and in an hour nothing remained but smoldering ashes.

The dwellings were occupied by seven families, who were unable to save any of their household effects, and consequently suffer severely. The loss will aggregate $55,000, on which there is insurance on the mill and lumber of $40,000. The household goods were uninsured.

Arrested for Stealing A House.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 25.—Wm. Gallagher, Denis Ryan, Charles Maginnie, John Ryan and James Quinn were arraigned before Justice Ricard on a charge of having stolen a house and barn belonging to ex-Alderman Ayres of this city. The house, in Elm street, below Adams, had been treated up to last Friday. Then a rumor was spread in the neighborhood that Mr. Ayres wanted the building torn down. Crowds of the residents proceeded, with hammer and hatchet, to accommodate him, and when he appeared on the scene Monday acting remained of either building save the foundations. The result was the arrest of the five men. Gallagher is said to be worth $50,000. The others are laborers.

Hostiles Seeking Winter Quarters.

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 24.—A special dispatch to The Star from Fort Bowie says: "Two Indians from the 'hostile' camp in Sonora came in. They stated that ninety Tinajas and four chiefs would arrive at Rucker during the night. Lieut. Hunter, with a party and supplies, goes out to meet them. Capt. Rafferty is near Rucker, with two companies ordered there six weeks ago, expecting the hostiles' return. It is reported that Gen. Crook has information of the coming in of the renegades. He, with his staff, is located somewhere between San Carlos and this line."

CLIMBING THE SPIRAL STAIRS.

Invisible Architecture in a New-England Parsonage.

"Yes," she said, "our children are married and gone, and my husband and I sit by our winter fire much as we did before the little ones came to the world. Life is something like a spiral staircase; we are all the time coming around over the spot we started from, only one degree further up the stairs."

"That is a pleasant illustration," remarked her friend, amusingly, gazing into the glowing coals which radiated a pleasant heat from the many window sashes. "You know we cannot stop toting up the hill, though."

"Surely we cannot, and for myself I don't find fault with that necessity provided the advance in life is not attended with calamity or suffering for I have had my share of that. Not long since my health utterly broke down. My system was full of malaria. My digestion became thoroughly disordered, and my nerves were in a wretched state. I was languid, ate little and that without enjoying it, and had no strength to perform my duties. Medical treatment failed to reach the seat of the trouble. The disease—which seemed to be weakness of all the vital organs—progressed until I had several attacks which my physicians pronounced to be acute congestion of the stomach. The last of these was a desperate struggle, and I was given up to die. As the crisis had partially passed, my husband heard of the merits of PARKER'S TONIC, an invigorant in just such case as mine. I took it and got its good effects at once. It appeared to pervade my body, as though the blessing of a new life had come to me. Taking no other medicine I continued to improve and now I am in better health than I have been for a long time."

DROWNED IN BEER.

Concerning this Popular Beverage Two Men Express their Minds.

"The fact is, and you may stick a pin there, that the people of this country are likely to be drowned in a flood of lager beer," shouted an enthusiastic teetotaler the other day into the ear of your earnest correspondent. That German drink has struck us hard. It is a second deluge.

"Yes, and the worst of this beer-drinking business is that it gets up kidney troubles, as a heavy wind raises the waves," added a city physician, who had a knowledge of the times and a tendency to metaphors. "The midnight scowmer leaves behind it a wake of furred tongues, headaches, torpid livers, nausea, and all that, and lays the foundation of Bright's Disease."

This melancholy fact accounts in part for the increasing sales of BROWN'S CATAPLASM. Put on it at once, and it will mitigate these symptoms. Price 25 cents. Ask your physician about it.

Ruin Wrought in the Forest.

How depressing it is to see acres of trees cut down in the midst of a noble forest. How sad, too, to see the American whaling bark Hope On, reports having encountered a strange marine monster off St. Elmo, one of the Pearl Island group, between forty and fifty miles from this town. The boats were out awaiting signals indicating the direction in which the whales were spouting. Suddenly the water broke at a short distance from the boat Capt.
