A CRASH AND PANIC.

A Runaway Team Dashes into a Street Car.

A Scene of Wild excitement Follows—Women Fainting and Men Injured—Eight Passengers Hurt by the Collision.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A terrified cry of mingled voices issued from car No. 71 of the Third Avenue line as it rode over the crossing at Fifty eighth street yesterday morning. The car was crowded, many being on the platforms. Overhead the steam cars were rumbling by, but the noise was not sufficient to drown the warnings that came from scores of pedestrians to the driver of car 71. Too late, he saw that a team of horses, attached to a heavy coach, were dashing down Fifty-eighth street and must inevitably collide with the car.

At about the same time the passengers saw their danger and a terrific yell of terror arose from them. It was partly drowned by the collision. The driver lashed his team to make way for the runaways, but he was too late. Horses and coach struck the car not far from the rear platform, knocking it across the up track and plumb against one of the pillars of the elevated track. There was a fearful jumble of men, horses, wheels, shattered harness, glass and fragments both of coach and car. The scene for the moment is indescribable. There was not a whole pane of glass left in the car, and the frantic efforts of the men and women to get through the broken doorways blocked them and added greatly to the terror of those within. Men climbed out of the windows, many of them cut and bleeding, while women screamed.

An immense crowd soon gathered, and with the help of the police those in the car were released. Seven of them, all men, were cut about the face and hands, and were assisted by the police to their homes. Mrs. Tillie Goldsmith of 500 Third Avenue, sat at the very point where the horse and coach struck. She was pitched headlong across the car and partly through a window. She was taken out insensible and was found to be badly cut in the face and head. She was at once taken to Mount Sinai hospital, where, after having her wounds dressed, she remained awhile and was taken home.

Mrs. Goldsmith was the most seriously injured. The others refused to give their names. Capt. Mount, with a squad of police, was on the scene, and rendered much needed assistance. It puzzled everybody who saw the wreck to understand how such a tremendous shock should have resulted. The car was rendered utterly useless, and had to be taken on a flat to the repair shop. The side struck was completely stove in, and where the car struck the iron pillar on the other side there was a deep and splintered indentation. The car horses, however, were not hurt, while the driver, William Brady, escaped with but a little shaking up.

The coach, which belonged to a livery stable, was smashed out of all shape. One of the horses was so severely injured he had to be shot soon after the accident. The other limped away, looking very sore after his exciting trip. The team broke away from in front of the stable, where they had been standing some moments. Drivers, they sped away at will, becoming more frenzied at the yells of pedestrians as they went. When they dashed into the street car the team was going at their fastest run.

The collision is described by those who saw it as something terrific. Car horses and coach were only stopped by the iron pillars, and the belief was that had the cars not been so stopped, both coach and horses would have gone rolling over the car. "It is the greatest wonder in the world," said Capt. Mount, "that several were not killed in the collision. I wouldn't have believed that such a tremendous wreck would have resulted from such a collision, but it is explained by the simple fact that the horses were going at their fullest speed. There were many severely hurt who were chary of accepting medical aid at our hands. There were just four women in the car, and three of them fainted. Talk about a demonium, but I tell you they had it in that car until they were released. A panic in a theater is nothing to it."

Bit Her Assailant's Tongue in Two.
PHILADELPHIA, N. J., Oct. 24.—Mrs. Josiah Kirkendall was attacked on a vacant lot in Philadelphia and roughly handled. Her assailant placed his hand over her mouth to prevent her from giving an alarm and said: "Now I have you. I've been looking for you for several years." He attempted to throw her on the ground, when Mrs. Kirkendall released his hand and showed fight. During the struggle the woman got her assailant's tongue in her mouth and bit it in two. He begged pitifully for mercy. When Mrs. Kirkendall arrived home she found the front of her dress saturated with blood, evidently from the man's wounded tongue. She said she knew the fend's name and would have him arrested.

The Famous Fat Bride Dead.
BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—Mrs. David Moses, formerly Miss Blanche Gray, of Detroit, Mich., who was married a few weeks ago, amid great excitement, in a Bowery mansion in New York, was found dead in her boarding house in this city this morning. She was passing her honeymoon at the Dime museum in this city, but for the past two weeks had been ill. This morning her manager called to see her on business, and on entering her room found her dead. She was seventeen years old and weighed 517 pounds. Death is supposed to have been caused by fatty degeneration of the heart. She was engaged to appear in Philadelphia next week.

Forty Persons Injured.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 23.—An accident occurred this morning on the Louisville and Nashville Air Line, about six miles from East St. Louis. A passenger train struck a broken rail, and the engineer, feeling the shock, put on the brakes. All the coaches passed over in safety, except the last two, which were both crowded. They tipped over and were dragged a short distance, when the couplings broke. The scene was terrible. Reports state that over forty persons were injured, but only one fatally.

Slowly Starving to Death.
BELVIDERE, N. J., October 27.—Peter C. Scmill, the young man imprisoned in the Warren county, N. J., jail on a charge of stealing horses and who for two weeks has refused to take any food, seems to be determined in his threat to starve himself to death. Yesterday his pulse was down to sixty, and the physician thinks that if he continues to refuse to eat for another week he will die.

"Poker a Felony."
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—In the court of correction Judge Noonan decided, in the case of the state against Donnelly, that "poker" was a game of chance, and that as such it came under the Johnson law, which makes gambling a felony. Donnelly is the man who claims to have lost $5,500 during the fair week in a game of "faro" conducted by Jacob Gardiner and Dick Davis.

STARTLING RESULTS OF TAILORING

The Clothing Business of the Period.

The demand is for a great stock, for novel styles, for finer workmanship, for better finish. The day has passed in which mere goodness will do in a clothing stock. It must unite goodness with bigness, variety with style, and top all with economy. If Oak Hall did not do all this in the strongest and best way we could not claim your business. We do offer you the biggest, best, and cheapest retail clothing stock in the United States, and we simply want to tell you that it will not pay you to go elsewhere for your winter outfit. If you do not propose to visit Philadelphia, send for our new catalogue.

ENCOURAGING.

Having been encouraged by the steady increase of business, I have remodeled and added to the external as well as to the internal appearance of my DRUG HOUSE, thereby making it more attractive to my customers. I would now thank my customers for their liberal patronage in the past, and solicit a continuance of the same. My stock is as near full as possible. I am in complete communication with the principal Drug Houses of New York and Philadelphia and am supplied with cuts and price lists, and anything in my line not kept in stock will be sent for at once and delivered at the same prices that it could be bought at if you want or sent yourself. I buy my drugs for cash, pay no discounts, which enables me to sell just as cheap as any other drug dealer in the country. All business between dealer and customer strictly confidential. J. D.
