HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable. Oil people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

A BAD GOVERNOR.

The St. Louis Grand Jury Present a Breezy Report.

They Find Gov. Crittenden, of Missouri, has been in League with Gamblers and Criminals—Abuse of the Pardoning Power.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 3.—The grand jury, after returning a number of indictments, made their report. They exonerate Gov. Crittenden, and in referring to the wholesale pardoning of the gamblers by him they say:
"Pardons have been granted by the executive to persons convicted of felonies in the criminal court of this city. Pardons have been granted to many persons convicted of felonies, not upon doubtful or untruthful testimony, or by partial or prejudiced juries, but upon their self-confession, after advising with counsel of the highest ability. These self-confessed felons had, for many years prior to their conviction for the offenses of which they were pardoned, openly and defiantly violated the law. Though often convicted during that time of misdemeanors, no substantial punishment was ever inflicted upon them. Their persistence in flagrant violations of the law and the demoralizing and debasing results of these violations caused the legislature to make felonies of these offenses, which had heretofore been misdemeanors. Under the new law they continue in the same open and defiant course, and when brought to justice are forced to admit their guilt they were unconditionally pardoned by the governor in the most unseemly haste, without any consultation on his part with the officers of the state, through whose efforts their conviction had been secured. Such action of the governor is inconsistent with the principles which should regulate the granting of pardons, and tends to bring into disrepute the administration of justice. We therefore recommend an amendment to the constitution which shall withdraw from the governor the power to grant reprieves, commutations, and pardons for offenses against the common laws of the state, and vesting the power in a board of pardons."

The grand jury returned indictments against Henry W. Moore, managing editor, and Florence D. White, reporter of The Post Dispatch, under the statute concerning the abstraction of court records. It was White who stole the stenographer's notes of the testimony taken before the grand jury, which, when published in The Post Dispatch, revealed the existence of a gambling ring. Other indictments were also found. Joseph H. McEntire, Edward Butler and Police Commissioners Ca. and Lutz being indicted for conspiracy in having threatened to quit the chief of police if he did not follow their instructions concerning the raiding of houses of prostitution and gambling dens. Henry A. Newman, the commissioner of labor statistics in this state, is indicted for brokerage in office in connection with the sale of his notaryship. Hugh Brady, a member of the legislature, is indicted for bribery in connection with his securing a job for John Gunn on a patrol wagon. Warren F. McChesney is indicted for his attempt to secure money from the Saloon Keepers' association in connection with Judge Noon's decision. Mr. Fickard, who kept a tea store on Fifth street, where prizes were given, is indicted under the gambling law. All these are felonies, and the indictments will not be made public until the arrests are made.

OUR LITTLE ARMY.

General Sherman's Plan for its Re-organization and Improvement.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Gen. Sherman takes with him to his retirement the good wishes of the American people. An old army officer says that the plan of reorganization of the army, which Gen. Sherman leaves as a legacy to Gen. Sheridan, is the best plan which Gen. Sherman has ever suggested, and that it certainly ought to receive the attentive consideration of congress. Under it, without the addition of a single officer to the lists, as Gen. Sherman puts it, "by the mere scratch of a pen and the magic wand of money," the skeleton could be extended to "the respectable force of 96,000 men." It is not known whether Gen. Sheridan approves of this plan or not, but congress is not likely to enter upon any system of army reorganization in the winter before a presidential election. Gen. Sherman, to a friend who asked him if he felt as if he had been treated like an old horse turned out to die, said: "No, no, I feel as vigorous as I ever did. There are a great many years of good work in me, I hope, but it is all right just as it is. That is the way I wanted it to be. I am very glad to turn the command over to Sheridan."

Gen. Grant Consents to Speak.
CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 30.—The Commercial Gazette prints the following correspondence:

CHICAGO, Oct. 24, 1883.
DEAR GEN. HICKENLOOPER: On Friday morning, at Cleveland, I received from Gen. Grant the following dispatch:
NEW YORK, Oct. 19, 1883.
Gen. William E. Strong, Army of the Tennessee, Cleveland:
Please thank the society for the compliment of selecting me as orator for next reunion, but excuse me. I should be unhappy for a whole year if I knew that such an ordeal awaited me at the next reunion. I regret exceedingly not being with you on this occasion, but hope to be with you next year.
U. S. GRANT.

After consulting with Gen. Sherman, Logan and Leggett, it was thought best I should write to Gen. Grant upon my return to Chicago, urging him to reconsider the matter, which I did on Saturday last. Yesterday I received the following dispatch:
NEW YORK, Oct. 23, 1883.
Gen. William F. Strong, Chicago:
Your letter received. Under all the circumstances I feel compelled to accept the responsibility put upon me by the Society of the Army of the Tennessee.
U. S. GRANT.

This settles the matter, and Gen. Grant will be the orator at our next reunion. Yours truly,
WILLIAM E. STRONG,
Gen. A. Hickenlooper, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Fastening Horse Thief.
EASTON, Pa., Nov. 2.—Peter C. Small, the fastening prisoner confined in the Belvidere N. J. jail has not as yet shown any desire to discontinue the attempt to beat the record of Dr. Tanner. He says he is troubled with shooting pains in his head, eyes and stomach, and when he moves about in his cell he does so in a half stooped fashion. His pulse is seldom alike on two consecutive days. He regards himself as a curiosity and is pleased to have many visitors, especially ladies.

Caught in a Shaft.
LYNN, Mass., Nov. 3.—Ellen Logan, while working in Theron Blanchard's stitching room, caught her hair in a revolving shaft, and the scalp was lifted from the skull from near the forehead to the base of the head. She also received a severe cut on the head. It is thought she will recover.

STARTLING RESULTS OF TAILORING

The Clothing Business of the Period.

The demand is for a great stock, for novel styles, for finer workmanship, for better finish. The day has passed in which mere goodness will do in a clothing stock. It must unite goodness with bigness, variety with style, and top all with economy. If Oak Hall did not do all this in the strongest and best way we could not claim your business. We do offer you the biggest, best, and cheapest retail clothing stock in the United States, and we simply want to tell you that it will not pay you to go elsewhere for your winter outfit. If you do not propose to visit Philadelphia, send for our new catalogue.

ENCOURAGING.

Having been encouraged by the steady increase of business, I have remodeled and added to the external as well as to the internal appearance of my DRUG HOUSE, thereby making it more attractive to my customers. I would now thank my customers for their liberal patronage in the past, and solicit a continuance of the same. My stock is as near full as possible. I am in complete communication with the principal Drug Houses of New York and Philadelphia and am supplied with cuts and price lists, and anything in my line not kept in stock, will be sent for at once and delivered at the same prices that it could be bought at if you went or sent yourself. I buy my drugs for cash, pay no discounts, which enables me to sell just as cheap as any other drug store in the county. All business between dealer and customers strictly confidential.
