WARM cloaks and jackets are best made in elastic Jersey cloth, which looks well, fits well, and does not need lining. The jackets need only neat finish of buttons and feather-stitching, with interior facing of twilled silk or satin, or "farmer's" satin; but the cloaks may be ernamented with border and collar of plush or curled Astrakhan, with effective designs in braiding or with handsome ribbed silk braid in graduated widths, the "Molda" cloaks or the "Dauphine" or "Hildegarde" pelisse, furnishing excellent designs. Furs are not at all important, but they are great additions to comfort, a collar muff being the essentials. For headwill cover the ears, The felt pokes are the best, trimmed with a group of feathers or a wing, and a head of a bird combined, and a large bow of dull satin or velvet. In gloves there are now the fine long cashmere, which cannot be improved upon for color or quality, the shades being fine dark colors, wines, greens, browns, plums, and mouse gray. Do not get coarse woolen gloves; they are detestable and torture the hands. Get the best of the kind.

Where to see the Great Trotters of New York

[Cincinnatt Times-Sfar.] No two men in America have had more experience with fine trotting stock, and none are better judges than Calvin M. street near Fitth avenue, and Dan Mace, of the Excelsior Stables, West 29th street, New York, the champton double-team driver of the United States. Both of these gentlemen say, that for painful ailments in horses, such as cuts, bruises, swellings, lameness stiffness, St. Jacob's Oil is superior to anything they have ever used or heard of. This is also the opinion of Prof. David Robarge, the celebrated horse-shoer of the metropolis, and thousands of stock-owners throughout the country. As a pain-cure for man and beast St. Jacob's Oil has no equal. Mr. Priest recites the case of a valuable trotter, so stiff from rheumatism, that he could not move an inch. By one, thorough application of St. Jacob's Oil at night, the animal was completely cured, and was fit for the race-track, the next day.

As Strength Declines

The nerves grow more sensitive. The weak are always nervous. Is it at all anomalous, therefore, that a medicine which infuses vigor into the system by the medium of improved digestion and ssimilation, should be a valuable nervine. Such in fact, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which insures the acquisition of strength by an enfeebled physique, because it enables the digestive organ to thoroughly eliminate and convert into blood the elements of vigor contained in the food. As strength returns, such symptoms of nervousness as inabi ity to sleep, loss of appetite, nervous headache, ex reme susceptibility to annoyance by trivial causes &c., disappear. Nature does the rest, and renders the restorative process complete. By invigorating the system, the Bitters also furnishes it a defense gear in the country, get something that | against malaria, for which, as well as for con stipation and liver complaint, it is a superb remedy
