CITIES UNDER WATER.

The Added Terrors of Famine and Want.

The Cry for Help Beginning to be Heard-Food Giving Out and Fuel Submerged-Business Prostrated.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 9 .- The sudden fall in temperature with the prediction of colder weather coming, raises hope that the worst was over. This feeling was strengthened by reports from the water works. It is impossible to tell to any degree of certainity what the river will do. The situation of the railways, as affected by the flood, remain about the same but breaks on the Cincinnati Washington and Baltimore at Athens and on the Pan Handle near Mingo, temporarily involving, as it did, through travel, some what complicated the situation. Gas was furnished last night in limited pressure, but sixty-two and a half feet of water stopped the supply. The police aided the militia in guarding the city.

The villages between the city and the mouth of the Little Miami are in a deplora ble condition, more than half their population being either driven from their hor penned in upper stories. Business is com pletely prostrated, even including the vitrol establishment. There are no words of consolation to offer in behalf of Newport, Lawrenceburg, Aurora or Cumminsville, all o them struggling to keep their heads above water, while the residents on the river front between this point and Aurora are all driven from their homes. The fire department has made ample provision for fire in the submerged districts. A Bold Negro Robber. PITTSBURG, Jan. 30.—Intense excitement was raised on Sixth street, one of the most prominent thoroughfares of the city, by the robbery of S. Levein's jewelry store. The proprietor was absent and had left his wife in charge. She was in a rear room, and happening to hear a noise in the store, observed that the front door was open. She started to close it when she was confronted by a burly negro man who presented a revolver and drove her back into the room. After securing the door he made his escape, taking with him jewelry, diamonds and watches to the value of $1,500. An attempt had been made to open the inner door of the safe, but the noise attracted the attention of Mrs. Levein. Her screams attracted a large crowd in front of the store, but the thief escaped with his plunder.

A plate of SOLID GOLD 14 2-10 karats fine is soldered on each side of a plate of hard nickel composition metal, and the three are then passed between polished steel rollers. From this plate the various parts of the cases—backs, centers, bezels, etc. are cut and shaped by dies and formers. The gold is thick enough to admit of all kinds of chasing, engraving, and engineturning. The composition metal gives it needed strength, stiffness and solidity, while the written guarantee of the manufacturers warranting each case to wear twenty years proves that it contains all the gold that can possibly be needed. This guarantee is given from actual results, as many of these cases have been worn perfectly smooth by years of use without wearing through the gold.
