WHITMER & CO'S

Two Stores (connected by telephone) that ain't beat anywhere "in this neck of the woods" buy WHEAT, RYE, BARLEY, &c. SELBARD and SOFT COAL. Manufacturers' Agents for Furniture and Farm Implements. G. R. S. & Co., WHITMER & Co., Spring Mills.

AN OPEN LETTER.

Office of D. GARMAN & SON. BISH'S ARCADE, Bellefonte, April, 1884. TO OUR PATRONS:

This week we enter upon our second year, and we have to thank the people for their very liberal patronage. Our success proves that "honest goods at honest prices" are bound to take, and it has built up the finest retail trade in the county. It is a platform that admits of no deception, in advertising no petty tricks to draw people to our store; nothing that is in any way fraudulent. We use the papers as do other honest advertisers before the public, and referring to these we are very careful to tell the truth. While we are no less careful to avoid the mention of prices where they will be likely to create a false impression, we shall still tell you that anything you buy of us that is not exactly as we say, you may return it and have your money refunded.

Respectfully, your obedient servants, D. GARMAN & SON.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Mr. Michael Bierly, of Madisonburg, is on the sick list.

There are cases of diphtheria at Rock Spring. The "Watchman" says Mr. B. Crane died of the terrible disease.

James Steffy, an old acquaintance of the editor and one of Rebersburg's oldest citizens, died on 20, aged 84. He had his home with Judge Frank.

John Hull, a veteran of the war of 1812, died last week at Valentine's works, aged 90 years.

The proposed railroad thro' the Brushvalley Narrows to some western connection would strike Centre Hall square. The REPORTER is ready to put in its best bids for it.

Miss Alvida Long, of New Berlin, intends opening a new millinery and fancy store about April 3, in Gift & Elroy's room, two doors below Hinges & Reber's store. Miss Long has had a long experience in millinery in Philadelphia and comes highly recommended.

Dr. Ed. Miller, son of Rev. J. K. Miller, has finished his course at the Baltimore Med. College, and graduated with honors. The doctor paid his respects to the REPORTER the other day, and will, no doubt, put out his shingle somewhere one of these days. We wish Ed. abundant success.

Contractor Vandvke has made Odenkirk's hotel, at the Fort, headquarters for his railroad hands.

In Mr. Duck's correction last week the compositor made an error. The following sentence should read 1875, not 1876: Instance, Mr. Alexander was not a member of the school board April 1, 1875 and order No. 58 was not paid by Mr. A. after.

We learn that Colonel D. H. Hastings, of Bellefonte, formerly lieutenant of the Fifth regiment, National Guard, and at present assistant adjutant general of the Second brigade, will be brought forward as a candidate for colonel of the Fifth regiment, to succeed Colonel S. W. Davis, who has resigned.

The REPORTER is in for Col. Hastings as usual. He is a son of Mars—a soldier in stature, bearing, voice, can eat hard tack, sleep in a furrow, and tell a joke, and will invite a fellow into his tent.

Mr. Wm. Neace, of Gregg, is still seriously ill. Mr. Levi Murray, of Centre Hall, has recruited sufficiently from a serious attack of pneumonia to be up again. Dr. Fisher, of Boalsburg, is slow in recovery from a stroke of paralysis which he had several weeks ago.

One night last week a Huntingdon county Methodist church was broken into and robbed of the collection money. That thief is as mean as the one who will take a paper regularly for years and then dodge the subscription.

Having recently employed an additional first-class workman from an Eastern city, I am now prepared to furnish all fine Monuments and Head-stones at as low prices as can be got in the state. I respectfully solicit the patronage of the public in general. S. A. STOVER.

Mr. Wm. J. Thompson, of Pottery Mills, spent an hour with the REPORTER the other day. We were pleased to observe that he has recovered from an attack of paralysis some months ago. Our friend Thompson is one of the best and most worthy citizens of Potter, and we trust he will keep his regained health for future usefulness.

If you are suffering from a sense of extreme weariness, try one bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will cost you but one dollar and will do you incalculable good. It will do away with that tired feeling, and give you new life and energy.

New styles Derby and Sedora hats just received at the Bee Hive.

Raw silk goods for curtains and lambrequins—Garmans.

Dress goods at Garmans.

White goods and embroideries at Garmans.

Any active, energetic young men who desire employment in a paying business can learn something to their advantage by addressing Lock Box 15, Lewisburg, Pa. Work is respectable and good wages guaranteed. School teachers and others who will be out of employment during the summer months can find lucrative employment. $125.00 in three weeks.

125 bushels shelled corn, good No. 1, for sale by A. J. Groves. Garmans.

Parties that have grain to sell should be sure to sell to or call on the undersigned who will always pay the best market price, at Spring Mills and Co., Burn, 11 Oct 1884. I. J. GRENOLLE.

SPRING MILLS ITEMS.

Mr. Samuel Harter is putting up a fine new residence near the Georges Valley church. Mr. M. Guise is putting up a new dwelling at Penn Hall. Our town had plenty of mud and to spare. Wm. Pealer, one of our best business men, has retired from business.

A POPULAR FALLACY.

Many people think that rheumatism cannot be cured. It is caused by a bad state of blood which deposits poisonous matter in the joints and muscles causing lameness, stiffness and swelling of the joints and excruciating pain. Kidney-Wort will certainly effect a cure. It acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels, stimulating them to a healthy action, purifies and enriches the blood and eliminates the poison from the system. Go to the nearest druggist, buy Kidney-Wort and be cured.

LEFT HIS HOME.

The Lock Haven Express says that Mr. Henry Wolfe, postmaster at Boonville, a little town in Sugar Valley, after changing the mail the other morning left his home in a very mysterious manner, leaving a letter to his son asking him to be kind to his mother and little sister, and telling him to take care of the postoffice, as he did not expect to return. Mr. Wolfe has always been known as a good citizen, in good circumstances and his family and neighbors have no idea whatever of the cause of his sudden movement to parts unknown.

MADISONBURG.

Sorry that Dr. I. J. Reber leaves us; he goes to Seiglerville; the doctor had made many friends here and we wish him continued success.

A sister town in our valley solemnly warns the young men of that town that its pining, pinched-up, wasp-waisted, doll-dressed, consumptive mortgaged, music-murdering, novel-devouring daughters of fashion and idleness are no more fit for matrimony than the pullet is to look after a brood of fourteen chickens.

The entertainment by our teachers was a very interesting affair; the pupils did well and many thanks to the teachers. The house was crowded; the music was furnished by the Rebersburg band, and was the very best. Miss Ida Reber and Geo. Limbert were dressed in Quaker costume and sang a Quaker duet, which was very pleasing. Misses Maggie and Ella Miller sang "Six Cents per Quarter for Schooling" in very clear voices. Mr. Lew Wolf acted as village barber to perfection, the razor being three feet long. Miss Oker playing "the Columbia" and "Yankee Doodle" at the same time was much admired. MILES.

Mr. John Emerick, formerly of this place, now of Karlsruhe, is here on a visit, and gave us a call.

We saw some very handsome fancy work done with a scroll-saw, by the clerk in Lewins' clothing store, a nephew of Lewins. The article is a handsome chandelier with figures of birds and men, artistic curves, etc., all original in design with this young artisan. One of the handsomest birdcages we ever saw was also made by the skillful hands of this young man with his scroll-saw.

Mr. John Rihel reports that his fine top inspection is pronounced best of any delivered.

Don't you know that Garmans is the cheapest store in the county.

Now that sudden and violent changes of weather occur every 24 hours almost every one is troubled with coughs and colds making a reliable, effective and trustworthy cough medicine a desirable article. In this connection Dr. Kessler's Celebrated English Cough Medicine is especially worthy of note—it never fails; it never disappoints. Instructions for treatment of croup and whooping cough accompany each bottle. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded. Sold by J. D. Murray.

Largest line of gent's furnishing goods at Garmans.

Stover's Bellefonte Marble Yard is doing the largest business in that line in this county. They turn out the best work and charge the lowest prices and are the most accommodating fellows. They put up monuments and tombstones equal to any furnished in the city. Try them.

Henry Booser opened the campaign for fresh meat on Monday morning.

Sunday last was wet Monday and Tuesday were fine and like spring.

Mote 50 gingham at Garmans.

The roads are drying up.

Delicate and Feeble Ladies.

Those languid, tremulous sensations, causing you to feel scarcely able to be on your feet; that constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity; driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continual strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful, can easily be removed by the use of that marvelous remedy, Hop Bitters. Irregularities and obstructions of your system are relieved at once, while the special cause of periodical pain are permanently removed. None receive so much benefit, and none are so profoundly grateful and show such an interest in recommending Hop Bitters as women.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system; headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old. We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, in Providence, Bradford, Pa., May 8, 1878.

It has cured me of several diseases, such as nervousness, sickness at the stomach, monthly troubles, etc. I have not seen a sick day in a year, since I took Hop Bitters. All my neighbors use them. MRS. FANNIE GREEN.

$3,000 LOST.—"A tour of Europe that cost $3,000, done me less good than one bottle of Hop Bitters; they also cured my wife of fifteen years' nervous weakness, sleeplessness and dyspepsia."—B. M. Auburn, N.Y.

High Authority.

Hop Bitters is not, in any sense, an alcoholic beverage or liquor, and could not be sold for use except to persons desirous of obtaining a medicinal benefit.

GREEN B. RAUM, U.S. Com. Inter'l Rev. So. Bloomsburg, Co., May 1, 79.

Sirs—I have suffered ten years and I tried your Hop Bitters and it done me more good than all the doctors. MRS. S. H. MOORE.

Baby Saved.

We are so thankful to say that our young baby was permanently cured of a dangerous and protracted constipation and irregularity of the bowels by the use of Hop Bitters by its mother which at the same time restored her to perfect health and strength.—The Parents, Rochester, N.Y.

AN ODD ORDER.

Wyoming ranchmen embrace all sorts of people, from the sons of English lords, learned professors and graduates of the best colleges in the country, to the man with a common school education and the individual who has no education at all to speak of, other than that acquired since he was kicked out of the back door of the paternal mansion and told to rustle for himself. They are an enterprising, industrious, level-headed set of men, however—all of them—and when they set out to accomplish anything are pretty certain to succeed. For instance, we herewith present an order from a well-known resident of North Albany county, received by one of our leading merchants recently.

It will be seen that he seems to know just what he wants, but that his manner of expressing his wishes, is somewhat irregular and eccentric and peculiar, as it were.

Please send me by the Rock Creek stage 100 pounds of salt, 100 barrels sugar, 10 pounds brown sugar, 100 45-calibre Winchester cartridges, 10 gallons best sour-mash whisky—like the first sent. Also send me two woolen undershirts for a lady quite thick, two hoop-skirts for a lady of some em bon point, and a corset for a girl of 15.

P. S.—Send 50 pounds of coffee, a few late copies of the Weekly Boomerang, a copy of the New Testament and Psalms bound together, large print, and be very particular about the quality of the sour-mash whisky. Yours truly,

TEACHING DOGS TO TALK.

Willis Cobb, the celebrated dog trainer, of Cleveland, Ohio, some twenty years ago demonstrated the possibility of distinct articulation from the throat of the canine. A large white English bulldog was taken as a subject for experiment and by a few months' training was made to say quite distinctly, "Oh, no!" "I won't!" and "Mormon." The method of instruction as related by Mr. Cobb to the writer, was very simple. The dog was taught first to sit in a chair and cry, or give prolonged howls, a trick easily attained and not an uncommon accomplishment. As he commenced to howl, Cobb would seize him about the nose, cutting the cry short and producing the "Oh," and instantly letting go would let out another short howl making the "No." A few days' practice and the trainer had only to pretend to seize the snout and the dog would cut the cry into producing very plainly the "Oh, no," and at last no motion was needed. Of course the dog had no notion of the value or meaning of the words, but spoke them like a parrot. Sir John Lubbock is now engaged in teaching a black poodle the meaning and value of words by means of cards, and the same strategy that let in the light of the language upon the brain of Laura Bridgeman, the deaf, blind mute, brings good results with the dog.

MOONLIGHT INJURIOUS TO FISH.

It is well-known in tropical countries that the moon's rays occasion the rapid decomposition of flesh and fish. A number of bonitas having been caught one evening near the line by a friend of mine, the spoil was hung up in the rigging of the ship, and was thus exposed to the moon through the night. Next morning it was cooked for breakfast. Symptoms of poisoning were soon exhibited by all who partook of it—their heads swelling to a great size. Emetics were promptly administered, and happily no one died. The natives of the South Pacific are careful never to expose fish (a constant article of diet in many islands) to the moon's rays by any chance. They often sleep by the seashore fishing, but never with the face uncovered. Aborigines of Australia do the same as well as they can with their fishing nets, etc. A fire answers the same purpose. May not the injurious influence of the moon, in addition to her beauty and utility, account for the almost universal worship of that orb throughout the heathen world.

A STRANGE COURTSHIP.

An old bachelor German immigrant, who is tilling the soil in Dakota, tiring of his solitary lot, but finding no helpmate near, wrote some time ago to his aged mother in Germ any, asking her to choose and send him a wife. She replied that she knew the right woman, but she was living in Brazil. She wrote to the woman, however, inclosing the son's photograph, describing him and his life, and proposing to her to share it. The suggestion found favor in her eyes, and through the mother the son was soon informed. Further correspondence followed, giving directions and the means of travel, and a few weeks ago the heroine of this singular triangular courtship came from Brazil to New York, and thence west to meet her husband.

REGULAR ECCENTRICITY.

An eccentric individual is Dr. Whitney Cleveland, formerly of New Haven, Conn., but now of Colorado. He always wears the garment of a Quaker. He carefully notes all the calls of his practice, but never sends out a bill. Only those pay him who choose to do so. He always uses salt instead of soap for washing his face and head. He never drinks tea, coffee, or intoxicating. Black clothes are his abhorrence, a cravat or necktie he never wears, and although he keeps his boots oiled he never has them blacked. He is very fond of the water and swims as well now although he is eighty years old as he did when he was eighteen.

Have you been in Garmans' store this spring? Everybody says it will pay to go there.

THE MUSTANG.

The wild horse of America, although now native to the soil, is descended from the tribes of wild horses that still rove the plains of Central Asia. When the discoverers of this continent first landed, there were no horses anywhere in either North or South America. Centuries before, the horse had been introduced into European countries from Asia, and had become common all over that continent.

When Columbus arrived here on his second voyage, in 1493, he was accompanied by one Cabes de Vaca, who brought with him a number of horses, which were landed in Florida. Cortez took horses with him to assist in the conquest of Mexico, as did Pizarro in his conquest of Peru. The natives were greatly frightened when they beheld these strange animals. At first they supposed that the man and the horse were one complete creature, something like the centaur of which we read in ancient fable. And when they saw the rider dismount and disengage himself from his steed, their amazement knew no bounds. In time, the savages learned that the horse was an animal that had been subdued by man, and that it was a separate creature; but they long dreaded the horse of the Spaniards as a beast of prey. And when the horses escaped from their masters, and made their way into the freedom of the forest as they did after a space, the natives avoided them as something to be shunned. The quarreling Spaniards neglected their steeds, which soon found homes on the plains of Mexico, South America, and the unexplored interior of North America. From these escaped animals have sprung the wild horses of America. The Mustang, as the native horse of the North American continent is usually called, is generally of a bright chestnut color. The horses marked with odd colors and patches are called "pinto," or "painted," by the Americans. The Mustang is smaller than the domesticated American horse; for we must remember that the larger horses now found in our stables are the direct descendants of later importations from Europe.

HUMAN LIFE IN MEXICO.

As an instance of how little regard the Government has for life, let me tell you a pitiful story: A child was missing from a mining settlement at the edge of Zacatecas, and as weeks went by bringing no trace of him, the distracted parents imagined that he had been kidnapped. Thereupon some thirty persons, most of them laboring men about mines, were taken out and shot on the merest suspicion that they might know something about the lost boy! About three months afterwards somebody happened to look down into a deep hollow (probably an abandoned prospect hole) not many yards from the father's house, and discovered something therein which excited his curiosity. Closer investigation revealed a small skeleton, the poor child having undoubtedly fallen in during one of the epileptic fits to which he was subject, and had starved to death within sight of home! I happened to be present when the little moulty jacket and muddy shoes were brought up, amid a crowd who wept with sympathy for the mourning mother; but nobody had a thought for the thirty victims—mostly fathers of families—who were sacrificed in the unavailing search.

CROWS IN WINTER.

In a letter on "Winter Meadow Life" a newspaper correspondent writes: It is a wonder to me how the crows manage to exist during our severe Winters. The chickadees find plenty to eat in the eggs of insects, which their keen eyes detect under the scales of bark and in the fissures of trees. The blue jays I have often observed in the Fall plundering the eaves of their acorns, and hiding them in hollow limbs, post-holes in fences, and other such places, in Winter revisiting these treasures and dining sumptuously upon their store. But the crows are neither provident like the jays nor able to enjoy the chickadee's bill of fare, and when the snow is deep upon the land they are often reduced to sore straits. Sitting in my study, I have seen a crow come feebly up from the meadows, emaciated and weak, his hunger overcoming his fear of man, catch up under the very window where I sat a crust of bread tossed out for the chickadees, and devour it greedily. No doubt these birds suffer severely at times; indeed, it is not uncommon to have them disappear altogether when the cold is particularly rigorous, and remain away until the weather moderates.

A HISTORIC HOUSE.

Mrs. Fitzherbert's house at Brighton, which has just been sold to the trustees of a Young Men's Christian Association, was built in 1804 by the architect of the Dome and Pavilion. Mrs. Fitzherbert paid $4,000 for the house and site, and this was the last money she ever received from George IV. It used to be said that there was an underground passage between this house and the Pavilion, but this was nonsense, and arose out of the fact that a passage was cut from the pavilion to the sea in order to lay pipes to bring the water up to the royal bath-room. For this work the country paid $1,000, and the King never once used the new bath—indeed, at the time it was constructed he had not taken a sea bath for fifteen years.

There is economy in using a two-wheeled vehicle. They are easily kept clean and kept in repair at little cost. J. T. Lee, of Centre Hall, Pa., is now manufacturing the "Perfection" on two wheels which has been pronounced by best of judges to be as near as it is possible to arrive at all the name implies (viz. perfect). It has also been endorsed by the best horsemen wherever introduced, as well as by all physicians, and business men who have tried it; one trial will convince the most skeptical that it supercedes all two wheeled vehicles out there—being no jolting, jarring or horse-motion and no weight upon the back of the horse, so that any ordinary buggy harness is entirely suited to use with these cars. It will therefore be to the interest of all who intend purchasing a vehicle to call and examine the "Perfection" cart before purchasing any other, and secure the best.
