one of the he vantages wh men engaged the reporter outdoor men to the city' amusement said about th asked if that business he man a chane and gives him an u nature for which no other occupation affords as great an opportunity. This rain has knocked business for this day, but give me one hour's sunshine and I will COFFEES, SUGARS, TEAS, FISH start in again with the enthusiasm of a man who has just entered the business. In the East a good shouter gets $25 a. week, and they advertise and are advertised for just as any other class of talent. It is a regular business there and well followed. Shouters are generally decent fellows, but as their business is often precarious they sometimes will accept a situation with an unreliable showman, and that, perhaps, is one thing which has prejudiced so many people against our trade. But shouting is our business, and it does not make much difference to us. whether it is the amphibious and carnivorous dog or a panorama of the Holy Land. It is not an easy business to learn, but when once a man becomes accustomed to it he can shout before the crowned heads with the dignity and ease of a fish peddler in the most familiar alley on his business route. It is a great business in one way. You see, we don't have to pack any apparatus or carry any wardrobe. A man can start on a moment's notice. But hotel men are not apt to think any more of a traveler because he has no baggage. That is the way it goes -one thing balances another. There are advantages and drawbacks, ups and downs. The worst calamity of all, of course, is the failing of the voice. Did you ever see a shouter who couldn't shout? Well, he is the most melancholy man you ever will see. He pines away and dies. Before dissolution everybody abuses him. The curiosities whose praises he has sung for years refuse to recognize him, and the boys who steal in under the tents make him the butt of all their jokes. He is the embodiment of misery. You can knock him down with a straw. Try it."

THE REASON

We can sell Baugh's 25 DOLLAR PHOSPHATE so cheap, is simply this :

After 25 years we have discovered the cheapest process of making an Ammoniated Bone Super-Phosphate ; and having special advantages in the supply of raw material, we are enabled to produce this excellent standard brand of our goods at a lower cost than our other Standard Brands, which are manufactured by us from Cood Old Formulas, and they have secured a National Reputation after about 30 years' trial.

The $25 Phosphate is coming into general use, and its reputation-"The Cheapest and Best Crop Producer"--is extending rapidly throughout Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and other States. Manufactured only by

CANNIBALISM IN FIJL

Mr. St. Johnston, in "Camping Among Cannibals," furnishes evidence that can-nibalism is on the wane, even in the wild Interior of Fiji. On his way back to the capital he spent a night in the hut of an capital he spent a hight in the hut of an adventurous countryman who kept a store on the bank of the Wainamala—the first Englishman who had penetrated thus far. This man gave him a gruesome pic-ture of the state of things when he first far. This man gave him a gruesome pic-ture of the state of things when he first came to live in the sequestered and then trubulent locality. "Every man's hand was raised against his neighbor for the simple reason that he was his neighbor. Often past his little house he hasseen the cances go down the river bearing gifts from one chief to another of dead men for the oven, and sometimes bloody joints or limbs just torn from the victim, wrapped in fresh leaves for the erown of a feast." There is no question, Mr. St Johnston asserts, that the Fijian eannibal loved human flesh for its own sake and did not merely cat the slain enemy out of revenge. A chief would order to be clubbed some one he considered would be good for cooking, his plea being that his "back tooth ached," and that only his "back tooth ached," and that only human flesh could cure it. The subject is a repulsive one, and Mr. St. Johnston deals for the most part with far more cheerful topics, whither we will follow him after one final grim quotation :

The expression "long pig" is not a joke nor a phrase invented by Europeans, but one frequently used by the Fijians, who looked upon a corpse as ordinary butcher meat, and called a human body pyaka balava, "long pig," in contradistindiion to puaka dina, or "real pig." The flesh was never eaten raw, but was either baked whole in the ovens or cut up and stowed in the large earthen pots that they use for cooking. Certain herbs were nearly always cooked with the flesh, either to prevent indigestion or as a sort of savory stuffing. If a man was to be cooked whole they would paint and decorate his face as though he were alive, and one of the chief persons of the place would stand by the corpse, which was placed in a sitting position, and talk in a mocking strain to it for some time, when it would be handed over to the cooks, who prepared it and placed it in the oven, filling the inside of the body with hot stones, so that he would be well cooked all through.
