For the past three years we have had a standing offer of $5,000 for any statement of cure published by us which was not, so far as we know, bona fide. We did this in order that all readers might know the absolute truth of all our assertions and that they were based upon the value of our remedy and not upon idle words. Below we give a few extracts from recent letters which speak for themselves. We will only add that we could furnish one hundred thousand more of a similar nature did occasion require, but we believe the entire American public is now convinced of the positive value of Warner's Safe Cure. All the parties sent out by the various governments at the suggestion of the International Polar Commission bave returned home safely with the exception of three. The Russian station at the mouth of the Lena in Siberia will continue its work for another year on account of the delay from storms in reaching its destination. The Finnish station at Sodankyla, although it has finished one year's good work, will remain for another, as the Government of Finland has supplied the necessary funds. The misfortunes of the Greely p rty are too well known,

John Walker, of Stockton-on-Tees, in:1833 made the first Lucifer match in England. So very popular did they become that his business grew rapidly. A manufactory was started in Vienna the same year. For the next fourteen years those engaged in works suffered greatly from phosphorous necrosis, a most terrible disease. When amorphous phosphorous was introduced the disease disappeared.

D. C. Royce, of Williamstown, Vt., is not one of the farmers who think that the West is the only place where a farmer can live and prosper. Ho writes to an agricultural paper: To the man who has judgment, energy and muscle to back it, New England offers as great inducements as any part of the farming world. Land can be bought here from $10 to $20 per sere, with good houses, skeds, barns, plenty of wood, and good, pure running water and all other necessary conveniences thrown in. Vermont raises sheep, cows and ! orses that sell for $2,000 each. She has cows that furnish milk enough to make 500 pounds of butter a year; she has sheep that shear twenty-eight pounds of wool, and horses that will go a mile in 2:15. And when we farmers get it through our thick skulls that the silo has come to stay, and all adopt them, we shall raise more beef, pork and mutton to the square mile to sell than any other state in the Union.

KEEPING Eggs. - When an egg stands long in one position the yolk gets down against the shell, and if there is any evaporation it soon either adheres to the shell, or becomes tainted. Eggs may be greased and packed in oats in barrels headed up tight, kept cool and dry and rolled or inverted, or both, every few days. Thus they will keep, and when wanted for market they must be rolled in bran or meal to get the grease off, and perhaps dipped in time water to give them a fresh look. How long they may be kept thus we do not know, but several months at least, Eggs will keep in lime water, but it is difficult to turn or roll the barrels and so the yolk gets against the shell, and besides the shell looks very chalky and their sale is hurt. The best way is, probably, to pack the fresh eggs in a barrel with meal or bran, setting them on end, using no grease, for the meal absorbs it and turns rancid. Head up the barrel and in vert once a week, and "me caused by dropsy. Yen bottles of keep in a cool place.

> A SIMPLE EGG TESTER. -If you do not already know how to perfectly test an egg, take a copy of this paper, roll it up a little smaller than an ordinary egg, tie a string around it near the center, and place an egg in one end (sideways, not endways, for in the latter case you must look through the air end of the thick shell end), place the other end of the roll to your eye, and look through to the sun or to a lighted lamp holding the egg close down and within an inch of the blaze. You can see very plainly every stage of the progress of incubation, even to the pulsations of the heart in some cases, and trace the branching blood vessels in every direction as they spread over the yolk. Try this, and you will waste no more money on looking glass toys advertised as egg

Economical feeding is an important factor in stock breeding. In regard to grinding grain for feeding, it has been "all hope I began the use of Warner's Safe | shown in every case in which a test has "Cure, and have not felt so well and been made that meal is worth about "strong for twenty years." J. J. WRIGHT. one-third more than whole grain. The same as true, too, of hay, of which fifmeal are equal to twenty pounds fed in Cabin on this country." (ground oil cake) is an excellent food for stock when fed with grain and rough feed. It is specially adapted to rapid fattening and healthy growth. Don't neglect a regular supply of salt and a constant supply of good, clean water.

> MILCH cows due to calve soon should receive more care now than heretofore. Extra rations of wholesome food with good shelter and pure water is very important and necessary. Bran fed now will have the tendency to increase the flow of milk when the cow comes in, and should be given regularly each day. During the warm days of approaching spring a run in some high, dry lot or field is desirable. Do not try to force your young heifers with overfeed of rich food. Many a promising young animal has been ruined in this way by parties caring more for an abundant and unnatural yield of milk than for the health of their animals.

Look well to your cows as they approach calving time. Be careful and do not overfeed, and thereby promote too great a secretion of milk. Milk fever and garget are frequent results of such practice. Allow the cows to have plenty of exercise and all the sunshine they can get. As the cow approaches the period of parturition, the wise and humane dairyman will give her a box stall where she can have entire freedom of action. Take pains to promote the comfort of your cow, and she will answer nobly to your kindness next summer in the milk pail. Don't attempt to become a dairyman unless you are willing to make a study of the cow and all proudly of her twenty-five-year-old her wants.

An agricultural writer, speaking of the best methods of feeding cornfodder and other coarse foods, calls attention to the fact that since these are in themselves incomplete foods, liking the nishould invariably be supplemented with some food which will supply these. He cake, as among the best, as they not only supply the needed elements, but also greatly enrich the manure.

HOUDAN and Polish are endowed with huge crests, which become wet and freeze. Roup may be the result under such circumstances, and such fowls should be kept under good shelter and free from exposure.

Mr. A. G. Alford, Junior Vice Department Commander of Md., G. A. R., Baltimore, Md., writes; "I have kept St. Jacob's Oil by me and always found it a ready remedy for pains, aches and bruises. In the fall of 1875 my sufferings were ter rible. I was swollen to such proportions that I feared my limbs would burst. I had the best medical talent obtainable, and at the worst stage of my illness, when my husband and many friends had given me up to die, the late Dr. John Woodbury made a thorough examination of my water, and pronounced my case acute kidney disease, bordering on Bright's disease, and accompa-nied by gravel, and recommended the im-mediate use of Hunt's Remedy. At this time I was suffering most terrible pain in my back, iimbs and head, and could find no rest day or night for weeks, and I was grow-ing weaker daily until this kind physician ordered me to take Hunt's Remedy. Before taking half of one bottle I commenced to improve, and after taking six bottles was ennrely cured. This was nearly eight years ago, and I have had no return of the disease. I have recommended Hunt's Remedy to others in similar cases, and it has never failed to cure. I have also used it for sick headache, and found in it a sure relief. Remarkable Escape,

John Kuhn, of Lafayette, Ind., had a very narrow escape from death. This is his own story: "One year ago I was in the last stages of consumption. Our best physicians gave my case up. I finally got so low that our doctor said I could not live twentyfour hours. My friends then purchased a bottle of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, which benefitted me. I continued until I took nine bottles. I am now in perfect health, having used no other medicine."
