How General Scott's Life was Saved and How His Driver Twice Escaped Death

The traveler of the present day, as he is hurried along by the lightning express, in its buffet cars and palace sleepers, seldom reverts in thought to the time when the stage coach and packet were the only means of communication between distant points. It is rare that one of the real oldtime stage drivers is met with now-a days and when the writer recently ran across Fayette Haskell, of Lockport, N. Y., he felt like a bibliographer over the discovery of some rare volume of "forgotten lore." Mr. Haskell, although one of the pioneers in stage driving (he formerly ran from Lewiston to Niagara Falls and Buffalo,) is hale and hearty and bids fair to live for many years. The strange stories of his early adventures would fill a volume. At one time when going down a mountain near Lewiston with no less a personage than General Scott as a passenger, the brakes gave way and the coach came on the heels of the wheel horses. 'The only remedy was to whip the leaders to a gallop. Gaining additional momentum with each revolution of the wheels the coach swayed and pitched down the mountain side and into the streets of Lewiston. Straight ahead at the foot of the steep hill flowed the Nisgara river, towards which the four horses dashed, apparently to certain death. Yet the firm hand never relaxed its hold nor the clear brain its conception of what must be done in the emergency. On dashed the horses until the narrow dock was reached on the river bank, when by a masterly exhibition of nerve and daring, the coach was turned in scarce its own length and the borses brought to a stand still before the pale lookers on could realize what had occurred. A purse was raised by General Scott and presented to Mr. Haskell with high compliments for his skill and bravery.

Notwithstanding all his strength and his robust constitution the strain of continuous work and exposure proved too much for Mr. Haskell's constitution. The constant jolting of the coach and the necessarily cramped position in which he was obliged to sit, contributed to this end, and at times he was obliged to abandon driving alto-

Speaking of this period he said: "I found it almost impossible to sleep at night; my appetite left me entirely and I had a tired feeling which I never knew before and could not account for." "Did you give up driving entirely?" "No. I tried to keep up but it was only with the greatest effort. This state of things continued for nearly twenty years until last October when I went all to pieces "

"In what way?" "Oh, I doubled all up; could not walk without a cane and was incapable of any effort or exertion. I had a constant dethough I felt like passing a gallon every ten minutes only a few drops could escape and they thick with sediment. Finally it was near."

"What did you do then?" What I should have done long before; listen to my wife. Under her advice I be color. Try it. gan a new treatment."

"And with what result?" "Wonderful. It unstopped the closed passages and what was still more wonderful regulated the flow. The sediment vanished; my appetite returned and I am now well and good for twenty more years wholly through the aid of Warner's Safe Cure that has done wonders for me as well as for so many others."

Mr. Haskell's experience is repeated every day in the lives of thousands of American men and women. An unknown evil is undermining the existence of an innumerable number who do not realize the danger they are in until health has entirely departed and death perhaps stares them in the face. To neglect such important matters is like drifting in the current of Niagara above the Falls.

"Now," said the justice to the witness, "you will please tell just how it happened."

"Yes, sir, I'll try. The prisoner and that man were eating dinner at the same table, and they got to quarreling, when the prisoner just up with a dab of mashed Irish potatoes, and hit that other man on the head with it."

"Do you, sir," said the justice ternly, "pretend to tell the court that sternly, a dab of mashed potatoes, even when thrown with the greatest violence, can make a gash five inches long on a If you trifle with the court you will be locked up."

"Judge, I reckon I forgot to say that when the prisoner threw the dab of mashed potatoes at the man, he forgot first to take the dab out of the dish."

Boudors incident: "How very warm it is this morning!" said a New Haven belle to her friend, into whose boudoir she had intruded. "Yes, it is very, very warm, Cicely, dear. You surely are not out for a walk this morning?" "'Why, cert'nly,' to borrow a phrase from Mr. Burnand. You know in such a morning one has ample opportunity to prove the genuiness of her com-plexion." It she hadn't have glanced suspiciously at the various articles of toilet on the dressing case there would have been no trouble. But at it is, words cannot be coined to express the coolness existing between these two charming women.

Mysreny explained: Gus De Smith called at a very fashionable house on Austin avenue a few days ago, and is the matter with young De Smith? He acted so strangely. I think there must be a screw loose about him somewhere." "Reckon not. I saw him this morning, and he was light all

AGRICULTURE.

Compounding Dust Baths, -I have been trying several kinds of material for sand bath inside the poultry house. From close observation I find that they dislike to wallow in sand and wood ashes when unmixed-my fowls have dug into the ground floor and made a wallowing bath, and left both wood and coal asnes sand, dug from the floor, and mixed with equal portions of old lime, wood, and finely sifted coal ashes, is very good. The poultry seem to enjoy it very much, -besides wallowing, they constantly keep picking, no doubt for the old lime, Since I have used this compound my fowls have dusted themselves yery much more than I have known them to do during any former winter, So far I have had every egg hard shelled also; not one soft or partially formed shell. I feed mornings boiled turnips, carrots, petatoes, raw cabbage, all well mixed with dry, coarse bone meal. I knead all with my hands, mixing well, not using a drop of water beyond what may be poured upon hard crusts of stale bread. In no winter bave my poultry done better, so far, in all respects with regard to eggs, health, etc.

In preparing nests place a few inches of earth in the bottom or invert a sod. "If the hens are troubled with lice," says a poultry monthly, "put a spoonful of sulphur on the bottom of each nest before you put eggs under them, a layer of fine-cut straw, then more sulphur over it. It would be well to place a few medicated or porcelain eggs under each hen before you trust them with valuable ones, and when they show an inclination to fulfil their tasks faithfully, then carefully place the choice eggs under them at night. A supply of corn and oats, fresh water and a convenient dust box are important necessaries in the management and care of sitting hens. A dust bath at hand is an excellent thing for broody bens, for at this time. if at all, they are infested with lice, the feverish state of their bodies being favorable for their propagation. Frequent dusting with sulphur and carbolc powder is necessary.

A WASH FOR FRUIT TREES. -Some of the agricu!tural papers are advertising caustic potash, or strong lye made from wood ashes, as a wash for fruit trees. This will remove all the moss and rough bark, but trees on which it has been used look red and sort of burned, and soon have rougher bark than ever. The following we have long used, and know it to be much the better preparation. Buy common caustic soda if you can get it; if not, buy sal-sods or common washing soda; place it in an iron kettle and over the fire; gradually heat it, stirsire to urinate both day and night and al- ring often until it turns red, when it becomes caustic. Dissolve one pound of this in from one to two gallens of water, as the trees have more less rough bark ceased to flow entirely and I thought death and moss attached, and with it wash trees. It will remove all foreign matter as effectually as the potash wash, and will leave the bark of a healthy green

ALL French draught horses are Norman horses, from whatever province in France they may come. There are different tribes of families in the different provinces, all tracing in their origin to the ancient Norman war horse. The Percheron, the Boulonnais and other tribes have their admirers, and are they called by their local names, but the National Norman Horse Association, comprising nine-tenths of all the importers of French draught horses in America, recognizes them all as Norman.

ONE of the very finest effects of phosphate on wheat was the result of drilling previous Fall. No phosphate was applied when the grain was sown. The good effect of the Spring dressing was, doubtless, in part owing to the cultivation which the drill teeth gave the wheat plants going between the rows. Both the cultivation and the manure united, and each probably made the other more effective.

IT is found in practice that beans are reason possibly is that they leave soil in too loose a condition or the roots will not hold in Winter. But the chief obtection to beans as a fallow crop is that they rob the soil of precisely the food man's head, and knock him senseless? that the wheat plant requires, phosphate and nitrogen. Farmers who grow beans this Summer should save their land for Spring again, which will give opportunity for more plant food to accumulate

In growing cabbage one of the conditions is the thorough pulverization of the soil, and it should be deep. Set out the plants in freshly-plowed land and allow plenty of manure. The crop is one that responds to liberal and frequent cultivation. In fact it cannot be worked too often. Well-rotted compost is the best to use where there is a tendency to club foot, but as the cabbage is a grass feeder it will thrive on any kind of rich

THE tramp ascended the front steps, and after taking the precaution to read the doorplate, rang the bell with a free-and-easy confidence born of previous successes. The door was opened by a woman, as the tramp had anticipated. "Is Mr. Brown in?" he asked. The woman took an inventory entirely untouched. After experiment- of his face and clothing, and replied ing I find that a bath consisting of fine sharply, "No, Mr. Brown isn't in; but Mrs. frown is. I've just sent Brown for a cent's worth of yeast; when he comes back he'll have to put out the line and hang up the wash; then I shall send him out with the baby, and after that he will have his sweeping and dusting to do. No, you can't see Mr. Brown to-day, and 'twouldn't make any difference if you could; I attend to business here." The tramp said he guessed he'd mistaken the house, and Mrs. Brown, as she slammed the door, said she reckoned he had. Then the tramp shuffled away from the house in search of another where the women were not so self-poised and high-spir-

PLAYING with the baby: In the steam car, the other day, was a bright little four-year-old lady. An elderly gentleman, a few seats back, every time the little ope turned around, would shake his finger, or duck his head, or "cluck," or do some one of the score of things that are supposed to be especially pleasing to babies. The little girl answered these kindly attentions with a vacant stare, until, apparently sur-feited and grown tired of them, she exclaimed, in a voice loud enough to be heard half through the car, "Mamma, I really believe that old fool is trying to make love to me." The old gentleman stopped at once.

A Ruinous Blockade.

The blockade of the intestinal canal caused by ons tpation should be broken as speedily as possible, as it ruins the general health and bodily comfort. But while relief is most desirable, it should not be attempted by the use of violent purgatives like calomel, p dypbyllin pills, and salts and sanna. These and like antiquated catharties, which enlightenment has banis led from the domain of rational meditati m, unduly relax the bowels, while Hostetter's S'omach Bilters no the bowels, while Hostetter's Stomach Bliters not only relieves, but invigorates the organs, besides regulating the stomach and liver, upon the health and activity of which the regularity of the bowels is largely dependent. Moreover, as constipation ten a to aggravate or beget other bodily disorders, it is of great moment to overcome them at the outset. Hostetter's Stomach Bitter: is not only specially adapted to its permanent emoval, but it is an invaluable remedy for theumatism, kioney and bladder complaints, want of stamina and loss of appetite. Residents and visitants of fever and ague localities bear testimony, also, to its prevenague localities bear testimony, also, to its preven-ti e and remedial properties.

WHEN an Austin schoolmaster entered his temple of learning, one morning, he read on the blackboard the touching legend:

"Our teacher is a denkey." The pupils expected there would be a combined cyclone and earthquake, but the philosophic pedagogue contented himself with adding the word "driver" to the legend, and opened the school with prayer as usual.

Mrs, Ann Lacour, of New Orleans, La., writes: "I have a son who has been sick for two years; he has been attended by our leading physicians, but all to no purpose. DOMESTIC AMBER PUDDING .- One dozen large tart apples, one cupful of sugar, the juice and rind of two lemons, six eggs, four tablespoonfuls of butter, enough puff or chopped paste to line a three pint pudding dish. Pare and quarter the apples. Pare the thin rind from the lemon, being careful not to cut into the white part. Put the butter, apple and lemon-rind and juice in a stew-pan with half a cupful of water; cover tightly and simmer three-quarters of an hour, rub through a sieve, add the sugar and set away to cool. Line the dish with paste. Beat the yolks of the eggs, and stir into the cooled mixture. Turn this into the lined dish. Bake slowly for half an hour. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, and gradually beat into them three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, Cover the pudding with this; return to the oven, and cook twelve minutes with the door open. Serve either hot or cool.

To DYE KID GLOVES BLACK .- Stuff the fingers with small seeds or bran. and the hand with rags. Put one-half ounce tineture muriate of iron into a teacup of warm water, and with a rag brush the solution over the glove, being careful to touch every spot.
With a clean rag brush the dye all over the glove that has been wet with the iron solution, and hang it up to dry. After drying, repeat the operation, and if necessary give it a third coat. It will take only a few moments. When the color is satisfactory and the gloves dry, put them on the hand and rub firmly over every portion until the dull black becomes glossy, then finish by rubbing with a rag slightly oiled.

KALSOMINE. - Eight pounds of whit ing and one quarter of a pound of white glue make the right proportions. Soak the glue over night in cold water, and in the morning heat till it is perfectly dissolved. Mix the whiting with hot water, stir the two thoroughly together, and have the wash the consistency of thick cream. Apply warm with a kalsomine brush, brushing it well in and finishing it as you go on. If warm skim milk is used instead of water, the glue may be omitted. Before the wash is applied all holes and crevices should be stopped with plaster of Paris mixed with water. Colors to tint the walls may be procured at any paint store. If zinc white is used instead of whiting, it will last for years,
