But the extent of those practices, the more or less, and therefore the damage and danger arising from them, will depend upon the popular maintenance of that moral standard according to when corruption is branded as a dishonorable thing, condemned as a treat you to consider it well: what will the effect be if corruption not only ceases to be branded with dishonor, but if men stained with it are held up, not merely by some individuals, but by the people, as men to be admired and honored, as models for the emulation of the ambitious? There will, I admit, always be some highway robbery, There will not be very much, however, as long as highway robbers are treated as criminals and sent to prison. But what would become of society if highway robbers were honored as model citizens and made Presidents of trust companies ?

A SUNDAY EARTHQUAKE.

On afternoon of last Sunday, 10, at 2 'clock the distinct shock of an earthquake, with the accompanying vibration, vas felt at nearly all the points in a line near the coast, extending from Maine to Maryland. It does not seem to have reached far into the interior.

In Pennsylvania the shock was felt in more or less degree in nearly all the territory east of the Susquehanna. West of there is no evidence of any disturbance whatever west of the Allegheny Mounthe south in a northeasterly direction, and there is a little trace of it south of Pennsylvania.

THE CHARGES DISPROVED.

A Lot of Baseless Accusations Concocted Against the Governor-The Characters of His Culminators Shown in their True Light.

New York, August 8.-The refusal of dalons story published by Buffalo Telegraph about the candidate was found to be true has caused a great deal of discussion. At Mr. Beecher's solicitation Gen. Horatio C. King went to Buffalo recently to investigate the stories.

"The paper in which the story was originally published," said General King, "is an insignificant, sensational sheet, and one of the strangest things is that other papers in good standing seem to give credence to the story."

In an interview yesterday Gen. King said be left Brooklyn last Monday determined to get at the bottom facts of the case, if possible, for his own satisfaction these stories about the governor were false, because the whole character and life of the man repudiated the cowardly and unworthy actions attributed him. And my high opinion of him was fully ustified on finishing my investigation. learned enough to convince me that he had been wrongfully accused. I went everywhere and did quite a little bit of detective work on my own account. The facts seem to be that many years ago, when the governor was 'sowing his wild oats,' he met this woman, with whom his name has been connected, and became intimate with her. She was a widow and not a good woman by any means. Mr. Cleveland, learning this, began to make inquiries about her and discovered that two of his friends were intimate with her at the same time as himself.

A VICTIM OF CIRCUMSTANCES, "When a child was born, Cleveland, in order to shield his two friends, who were both married, assumed the responsibility of it. He took care of the child and mother like a man, and did everything in his power for them, and he provided for them until the woman became a confirmed victim to alcoholism and made it impossible by her conduct for him to the river it was less distinctly noted, and have anything to do with her. > A HEROIC ACT. "After the child was born the woman made a habit of visiting every man with whom she had been intimate and demanded money under a threat of exposure. Three of her four admirers-for she was an attractive woman-were mar ried, and the man who in reality was the father of the child had an interesting daughter whom he idolized. He was in constant dread least his offense should reach his wife and child, and Cleveland, being the only unmarried man, relieved him of his embarrassment by shoulderdead and the child is his perfect image in manner and looks. Cleveland acted a heroic part, suffering the obloquy that his friends might not bring unpleasantness to their hearth sides." MR. BEECHER SATISFIED. After Gen. King had concluded his researches he called on Mr. Beecher at Peekskill, where he related the result of his visit to Buffalo and Albany. Mr. Peecher said he had been wrongfully made to mistrust Gov. Cleveland and that now he could not do too much to show his appreciation of the man. Eighteen copies of the Buffalo Telegraph containing the stories had been mailed him by the man Ball and others.

The whole matter," said the general, having been explained to Mr. Beecher's satisfaction he will now support the governor, as the foolish peccadilloes of a young man committed fourteen or fifteen years ago will not weigh against his present life and political record.

SPRING WITHOUT BLOSSOMS. Late in Life to Look for Joy-Yet Never too Late to Mend

Readers of Hawthorne's "House of Beven Gales" will recall the pathos with which poor Clifford Pyncheon, who had been unjustly imprisoned since his early manhood, said, after his release: 'My life is gone, and where is my happiness? Oh! give me back my happiness." But that could be lone only in part, as gleams of warm sunshine ocasionally fell across the gloom of a New England intumn day.

In a letter to Messrs. Hiscox & Co., Mr. L. H. Tius, of Pennington, N. J., says: "I have suffered intold misery from childhood from chronic dieases of the bowels and diarrhoea, accompanied by a great pain. I sought relief at the hands of physicians of every school and used every patent and domestic remedy under the sun. I have found at last in PARKER'S TONIC a complete specific, preventive and cure.
