THE G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

Bellefonte Lively and full of Soldiers.

This is a big week for Bellefonte. The Grand Army boys of the state pitched their camp on Saturday and will remain the greater part of this week. The number present is 1200 to 1500 with tents pitched on the fair ground. The town is handsomely decorated—Bellefonte never loes things by halves. The boys are enjoying themselves immensely and thus far have been well behaved: There are about a dozen brass bands present from different parts of the ttite. The camp has been named Camp Curtin, in honor of the great war governor.

The national officers are: Surgeon General, W. D. Hall of Altoons and Quartermaster General, John Taylor, of Philadelphia. The State Department is represented by Commander F. H. Dyer; enior Vice Commander, Austin Cartin unior Vice Commander, Daniel Caldwell; H. G. Williams, Assistant Quartermaster General; Colonel E. Sellers and W. C. Johnson, Council of Administration; Aid-de-Camps, Rigg, Boyer, Edliott and McCormick.

The town was a perfect jam on Saturlay. The soldiers marched to the courthouse yard where Gov. Curtin delivered an address of Welcome. He said : I am assigned the very agreeable duty of wel oming you to Bellefonte. I welcome you for Centre county, I welcome you for Pennsylvania welcome you, veterans of the war, for the great covernment you have saved to liberty and equality for all humanity. Veterans of war, we have net before some twenty years since. I gave you he blue uniform and the classic eagle of liberty I handed the regiments of Pennsylvania the flag of the State and sent you to service to serve liberty to humanity in this country and teach liberty o all the world. Early in the war the governmen of Pennsylvania determined that the flag should have the coat-of-arms of this great loyal State in the field and surrounded by stars and the thirteen stripes of the National Government. I gave that flag to over three hundred thousand men myself. Two hundred and seventeen flags and only two were lost in the struggle, for the flag of he nation was taken and borne by strong, stalwart and patriotic men of Pennsylvania, who reserved the flag of this great State, brought it back and it remains in the archives of this State at Harrisburg now. I saw you all once before and our nationality and power and liberty, and thanks be to God it was never stained by cowardice. [Cheers and applause.] And when Pennsylvania decided that the orphans of the soldier should be maintained and educated my heart went out in thanks for the great benevolence.

The imposing feature of the encampment is the evening parade. During the day-time the boys stroll about town, ome go on excursion to the cave, to the mountain above Centre Hall and to Snow Stoe, and have various other ways of enjoying themselves.

MURDERING MORMON ELDERS. Nashville, August 14 .- A dispatch om Centreville corroborates the report of the murder of Mormons in Lewis unty by masked men Sunday. The raiding party numbered about forty. In the effort to disarm him, one of the raiders was struck with a gun, unacross the mountain to visit Mr. J. C. masking him, but he drew a pistol and Condon in the bowels. He then fired his remaining load at a Mormon elder named Berry, hiding behind a bed, killing him instantly. Another Mormon elder, who was in the house, ran out by a back door and was pursued. After killing Berry three masked men started and just as they got out of the house J. R. Hudson fired and killed Dave Henson, one of the masked men. One of Henson's party stood over the body and fired two loads of buckshot at Hudson, literally riddling bim. The Both are dead. place. A SENSATION.

[Mt. Union Times.]

Mount Union had quite a sensation the other week. The Fast Line on Wednesday evening brought to our town a run-away couple, consisting of a middleaged married man and a young woman, and the next train brought the indigrant wife of the elder of the twain. The run-away couple stopped at the American house and engaged a room for the night. The young woman was about 21 years of age, good looking, and gave her name as Smith, claiming to hail from Buffalo, N. Y. The man was Irvin Wil-kie, of Reedsville, Mifflin county, Pa. The girl said she had been corresponding with Mr. Wilkie and had come on from Buffalo to marry him, and had ome here with him from Lewistown for that purpose, having met him at Lewistown. The wife came on the Huntingdon accommodation. There was fire in her eyes and she did not want for words. She denounced her husband and the girl in unmeasured terms. Finding them sitting together in the parlor of the American house she took up the organ stool to strike the girl, but her husband took it out of her hands, and then beat an inglorious retreat, denying as he went that Mrs. Wilkie was his wife, but leaving the poor girl to her fate. A crowd was soon gathered on the side walk and at the railroad station, and more than one careful wife looked around to see whether her husband was still safe.

The wife notified Mr. Crownover not o harbor the two, then called on Police nan Printz to have him arrest them, but left for Lewistown on the train without waiting to get a warrant. She said her husband was a candidate for Sheriff of Mifflin county and that he had told her he was going away on an electioneering tour. She had followed him unobserved to the station, found that he met the girl and got tickets to Mt. Union, and she followed on the next train. The couple were ordered to leave the American house. The girl went to the Seibert house for the night and took the morning train for the west. Wilkie must have left during the night as he was not seen again.

Two days after came a Mr. Wolfkei from Reedsville or Milroy, purporting to be the uncle of the girl. He said she was from near Reedsville, that he had partly raised her, and, not finding her here, he returned to Lewistown for the purpose of arresting Wilkie. We learn that he had him arrested and that he has given bail for a hearing. Policeman Wimer, of Lewistown, was here and sub poenead Messrs. Charles Printz, W. T sell, S. F. Nightsinger and Wm. Bice as witnesses to appear at the hearing. [We learn that a compromise has since een effected.]

HORRORS OF THE ARTIC.

The Acts of Cannibalism by the Greely Survivors Talked of Freely.

Here, on this very spot, one of the survivors eld us through all one night telling, if words can 20augst tell, of his first taste of human flesh. He would give years of his life to forget it, but he said, that first tase, the sensation of having between his teeth the flesh of one who had been once his friend, was with him always. Walking or sleeping he seemed to feel his lips pressing the smooth, flabby meat that must be choked down somehow if he would live. And then the inhuman, savage way of getting it! Each feeder upon such food must cut off his own shreds of flesh. No friend way of getting it! Each feeder upon such food must cut off his own shreds of fiesh. No friend will be found to perform this horrible office. Every man, if he would eat, must necessarily be his own butcher. And these cannibalistic orgics, these midnight-feasts, were secret. The little beaten path, worn mooth between the graveyard and the wretches tent, told its own tale. But every dweller in that tent shut his eyes and refused to see. Body after body was stripped of fiesh, but none of those that trod that little path dated speak of this. No man asked a question at the too common sight of a starving wretch, creeping up to the only fire at midnight, carrying in his hand a strip of fiesh. As he thrust this into the fiame on the end of a pointed stick, no one of his companions says a word. And when tearing the smoking flesh with his teeth, he lies down and another of the would-be sleepers rises up and goes silently down that mysterious path, knife in hand. It is easy to guess his horrid purpose.
