It is announced that one of the recently rescued Arctic adventurers wants to go again. There seems to be a fascinadraws men back to it who have once attempted it. Their hardships and sufferings always evoke great sympathy. The heart of the nation is wrung for them. But their desire to plunge again into the perils out of which they have been rescued suggests the possibility that there are personal compensations in this venture which render so much sympathy misplaced. There must be some onarm about the free life in the Arctic regions which greatly mitigates the personal experience of hardships.

It used to be the fashion to waste a good deal of sympathy on missionaries from New England to the East; and they got a great deal of credit for their abandonment of home and voluntary exile among foreign races. But it was noticed that whatever the hardships, and they were many, of their foreign residences, they in time liked the life

ATER'S SARSAPARILLA has demonstrated its power of cure for all diseases of the blood.

The Harpooner's Story.

New Bedford, June 1, 1883.

Dr. J. C. Aver & Co.—Twenty years ago I was a harpooner in the North Pacific, when five others of the crew and myself were laid up with scurry. Our bodies were bloated, gums swoiien and bleeding, teeth loose, purple blotches all over us, and our breath secured rotten. Take it by and large we were pretty badly off. All our lime-juice was accidentally destroyed, but the captain had a couple dozen bottles of Aven's Sarsarafilla and gave us that. We recovered on it quicker than I have ever seen men brought about by any other treatment for Scurry, and I've seen a good deal of it. Seeing no mention in your Almanac of your Sarsaparilla being good for scurvy, I thought you ought to know of this, and se send you the facts.

Respectfully yours, Ralph Y. Wingare.

The Trooper's Experience.

Maseen, Basuloland (S. Africa,) March 7, 1883.

Dr. J. C. AYER & Co.—Gentlemen: I have much pleasure to testify to the great value of your Sarsaparilla. We have been stationed here for over two years, during which time we had to live in tents. Being under canvas for such a time brought on what is called in this country "veldt-sores." I had those sores for some time. I was advised to take your Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which made my sores disappear rapidly, and I am now quite well.

Yours truly,

Trooper, Cape Mounted Riftemen.
