2ridium is a metal which is likely to have much more extensive employment than it now enjoys. Hitherto it has been chiefly used in alloy with osmium for tipping gold pens. But an American pen manufacturer has discovered that by fusing the metal at a white heat, and adding phosphorus, perfect fusion could be obtained, with all the hardness in the resulting material of the iridium itself. For mechanical applications this combination is exceedingly useful, as in the case of pen points; and its adaptability is being improved in many ways. Agate, which has hitherto been employed for fine chemical balances, is now giving place to iridium, which takes a finer edge and is not so liable to catch or break. Hypodermic needles for surgical use are now made of gold and tipped with the iridium compound, which is not subject to corrosion like the old steel points, and it is also being largely applied to instruments for surveyors and angineers and to electrical apparatus. Iridium can be obtained somewhat abundantly from the Russian platinum mines in the Ural, and it is found in combination with gold in California. Mr. Dudley of Cincinnati is engaged on experiments with the object of plating vessels with iridium, and as the metal resists the action of acids, it is likely that such vessels will be very useful in many chemical operations.

A distinguished New York neutrologist is preparing a paper on trance spontaneous and bypnotic, in which he lays down the principle that complete unconsciousness probably never occurs in the human brain during life. Unconsciousness may be so nearly complete that memory fails to make any record of what is going on; but he believes that this apparently absolute completeness is only relative, and that in our deepest sleep dreams occur, although too indistinct to be remembered. Sometimes, on the other hand, one is conscious of having dreamed on waking up, but can recall nothing of the nature of the phen-
