A piece of livid flesh was scraped ly the blade of the tool, and laid bare t sight. A few moments later and a sms 1 piece of flesh in which the veins and nerves were visible was uncovered and laid beside the first. Superintendent Goff said: "I called at police headquarters and was told that there were still seven bodies missing. The doctors who have examined the shapeless, black portions of human bodies taken from the ruins reported this morning that all of fourteen persons are thus represented. The number of persons reported missing up to 11 a. m. to day was 21. Of the dead the bodies of Henry Durst, Adolph Mattes, Fred Eggar and Edward Butler bave been positively identified and men who worked in Wm. Durst's shop say that Henry Haffner is undoubtedly among the unrecog nizable bodies exhumed yesterday. It is the generally believed that 21 does not cover all the victims of the calamity and that when other parts of the ruins are searched more bodies, including those of several young girls, will be found. The place where the dead have been found is in the rear portion of the west extension, where the floors fell in, and the men in Durst's shop were buried in the wreck before the fire occurred. injured persons, including Mrs. Haas and her daughter Emma, and doing well, and will probably recover.

HORRORS OF THE SOUDAN.

OTTER'S BATTLE WITH INDIANS. How the British Soldiers Stationed There are Suffering.

London, May 7 .- The public fare beginning now to learn the truth about the Soudan, as the correspondents are returning beyond the reach of the censorship of the press, excercised by Lord Wolseley at the front, Charles Williams, the special correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle," who reached here a few days ago and left again for Afghanistan, has shown in a magazine article that the loss of General Gordon was entirely due to the inexcusable dawdling of the military and the ignorance of Sir Charles Wilsor, commanding the advance forces, who, I e says, bad no more notion of what should be done than a bugler. Wilfred Blunt's questions to the Gov-ernment have not been answered. He asks, "did not the English troops out the palm trees and burn the water wheels to fill up the wells and then offer a reward for every human hand brought to camp and fifty rounds for Ollivier Pain alive or dead; and did they not force the laborers under the lash to destroy the wells against the rules of the Arabs' warfare?" Nobody answers. He asserts that the tribes were set in a permanent feud. The whole country was corrupted by English money and the land positively left in a famine. Officers now at the front are writing to the newspaper correspondents begging them "for God's sake" to tell the people at home what they are suffering.
