SCIENTIFIC.

Professor Bauschinger, of Munich, recently made a long series of actual fire-trials with pillars of both cast and wrought iron. He loaded them with the weights that they are usually allowed to bear in buildings, and heated them first to 300 degress Cent., then to 600 degrees Cent., and finally to a red heat, and let a stream of sold water play on them, exactly as would be the case in a fire extinguished by fire engines. The cast iron pillars were much damaged and cracked by this treatment, but continued to carry their loads quite safely, while those of wrought iron were much bent before redness was reached, and so twisted when cold water was squirted on them that they could not carry their loads. The conclusion is that cast iron is really far safer for buildings than wrought,

Professor Riatt, the Italian chemist, has brought torward a new kind of thermo-chemical battery, in which the production of the current results from the difference of temperature of two layers of strata lying at different levels in a vessel filled with liquid, This cell consists of a wooden box or vessel, traversed by two copper pipes, placed the one over the other, and separated by a distance equal to about half the height of milk, and make into a sponge with the the vessel, the latter being filled with a solution of the sulphate of copper. A sait, white flour, soda and lard, and current of steam passes through the upper tube, and a current of cold water in the lower, with the effect that copper is deposited on the latter, while the substance of the former is reduced. Experienced lumbermen have always held timber cut in the spring was not durable for building purposes. Recent scientific investigations sustain this belief. It is shown that the richer the wood is in phosphoric acid and potassium the more likely it is to rot and mould; wood cut in the spring contains eight times as much of the former and cut in the winter.

Several cases of poisoning by the fumes of nitric acid have occurred at Bonne and Halle, and have excited considerable interest. In one instance a metal vessel of nitrie acid inhaled the chop one tablespoonful of lard and butvapor and died of asphyxia in twelve hours afterward. In another instance a young chemist, who had been working mail, sprinkling won dry flour as they for some hours with fuming nitric seid, was gradually poisoned, and his recovery was very tedious.

Several household articles, such as glass fish-globes, paper weights made of a pyramid of glass balls and the lenses of the stereoscopes, have been found to act as a burning glass in the sun, and to have set fire to light materials, such as cloth and paper, thereby causing danger to life and property.

Brightly tinned or nickel wash dishes have also been known to focus the sun's rays by reflection, and tend to bring about similar consequences.

According to the Building News, manufacturers of wood mosiac say that they have found by experiments that hard maple on end is from four to five times as durable as marble, and equally as durable as the hardest baked tile. It is reported that two end-wood floors were laid in the elevators of a public building in Chicago about fifteen as good condition as when tirst laid, although each elevator carries from 1,000 to 2,000 persons daily.
