EXCURSION TICKETS TO PENNSYLVANIA STATE FAIRIAND NOVELTIES' EXHIBITION. —The annual fair of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Society will be held in Phil-adalphia from September 23d to October 14, and the Novelties' Exhibition of the Franklin Institute will be opened on Sept. 15, continuing until October 31st. Both of these exhibitions offer attractions of unusual interest.

The State Fair, held on the grounds of the society near the Germantown Junction station of the Pennsylvania Railroad promises to be the most successful event of the kind ever held in Philadelphia. There will be an unusually large display of various products of farm and garden, articles of domestic handiwork, fine stock, cattle and machinery, and trials of speed participated in by gentlemen ri-ders of Philadelphia and vicinity. A special feature is the dog show of the Philadelphia Kennel Club, which bids fair to surpass all previous shows in the extent and variety of its exhibits.

The novelties' Exhibition, as its title implies, is designed to be an exposition of all that is new in the field of mechanics, electricity, and industrial selence. The exhibition will embrace a large and comprehensive display of machinery and appliances, illustrating the progress and advancement in electrical and other sciences. Apart from this, special features, as lectures and practical illustrations of the work, will be introduced; and music dispensed by a cele-brated band will form a part of the ceremonies of each afternoon and evening. The buildings are commodious, easily accessible to the railroad, as well as to all portions of the city.

For the benefit of visitors the Pennsy's vania Railroad will sell excursion ticky ts from September 23d to October 14th, in-clusive, to Philadelphia from all stations on the Philad. & Erie Division and from all stations on the Northern Central R. R. between Hanover Junction and Troy, Pa., both inclusive, at a liberal reduction from the regular rates. The tickets will bear coupons of admission to either of the exhibitions. Special trains will also be run as the amount of travel warrants.

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH OUR DAUGHTERS ?"

This question is asked by a well known. lady lecturer. Well, we can do a great many things with them; one thing, we must take good care of their health, and not let them run down and become enfeebled. For the feminine ailments, which may be summed up in one worddebility, we have a sovereign remedy in Brown's Iron Bitters, which has done much good. Miss Mary Greenfield, of Galatia, Ill., writes, "Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of nervousness, indigestion and general poor health." Let the other young ladies take a hint.

A sad affair occurred about one mile south of Ramey, Clearfield county, Pa, Monday afternoon, 14. Two bre, thers, Henry and Wm. M'Gowen, in co mpany with three or four men or large boys, were discovered in an orchard b elonging to Samuel Whiteside. Isaac W/off, who farms for Mr. Whiteside, too's his rifle and fired at the intruders, the ball strik- point. Half an hour before the aping Henry M'Gowen, enterir ,g thej right side above the hip bone and 1 lodging in his body. The wounded n ian was taken to his home in Houtzdale , where he lingered for a few days what n death ended his sufferings. Wolf, who fired the fital shot, claims that these other parties, had been in the habit of stealing his ap ples and claims to habit of stearing his ap ples and claims to have warned them vo leave before he fired. His friends say that he also sent his wife to the orchay d and told her to invite them to the house and he would give them all the ap ples they wanted, for which act of kindne as she was insulted. This provoked Wol f and he fired upon them, with the abt we result. Wolf was taken to Clearfield ; jail on Monday night where he awaits trial for his deed of blood. He is spc.ken of as being a good citizen, but posse ases a most violent temper.

THE PRESERVATION OF FORESTS.

A correspondent suggests that as a message of preserving our trees the taxes on growing timber land should be reduced or removed entirely. It is doubtful if this would be practicable. It would be difficult to persuade the Legislature to take any action in this direction, and even if taxes were romoved from all growing timber land it would not prevent the destruction of trees. The owners of timber land have been told many times over that the preservation of forests is not only advisable for sanitary purposes, but that timber land is a positive source of income. But with an exhibition of ignorance or obstinancy that is surprising, these men seize the dollar of to-day and throw away the golden egg of to-morrow. The white pine requires but little soil and will grow in any part of the State. For the first few years of its life its growth is slow and it is liable to be destroyed by forest fires. When about twenty years oldsit is often cut down, as it then attains assize that permits of its use as firewood: This is a great blunder, for the white pine obtains much of its nourishment from the air, and after attaining.accertain sizedis rate of growth rapidly/increases, and in the second twenty yeals of its existence its growth is three titues as great as in the proceeding period. After a pine forest is half a cen-Vary old it may be decimated annually and will give much better income than could be obtained from any other crop ; while the healthful influence of a large tract of strees, and their prevention of droughter and freshets cannnot be estimated."

The London swells are the most inveterate betters in the world. Time hangs so heavy on their hands that in the excitement of uncertainty they find a grateful relief. A curious bet was made in one of the London-clubs, some years ago, that will doubtless point a moral. It was that a certain member could not within, two hours, on London Bridge, sell or is hundred new guineas at a penny apiece. The man took his place on the bridge 3 with a little tray on which he had had # he coins. He informed the passers by th at they were genuine gold coins for these ank of England, and that they were to be had for a penny each. The cartmen and policemen laughed at him. When the time had expired, such is hunnan incredulity, that he had sold but two, which a maid servant bought to amuse her two little charges. Amother peculiar bet made in London was by a well-known barrister, for a large amount, that he would, at a certain hour, block Fleet street in the busiest parts of the day, and at the narrowest pointed time he took his stand on the opposite side of the street from an insurance office which had a large lion over the-door. He was dressed like a necromanuter, with a long cloak, and wearing a tall, pointed hat, and large glasses over his eyes. Under one arm he carried an enor mous book, and in his hand he held a large telescope, which every few moment's he pointed at the lion, after inspecting the book. People gathered around, and he told them that in the Book of Balderdash it was written that in half an hour that lion-would wag his tail. Slowly walking up and down, and every few minutes. taking a look at the lion through his glass, he attracted the attention of everybody, and the awaiting crowdbgrew every moment denser. Then wagons stopped to see what the trouble was, and these jammed the others, until the whole street was crowded and impassable. The barrister slippped away in the crowd, but a most obstinate jam ensued, and it was more than an hour before the police could clear the thoroughfare.

ST. PETERSBURG AS A SEAPORT.

St. Petersburg was found in 1703, and it was a leading idea in the mind of Peter the Great that it was to be a seaport. For this he selected a site on the shores of the Baltia. Although this has always been perfectly well understood, it has never been fully realized till the present day. Cronstadt has been the real port all this time. No vessel drawing over nine or ten feet of water could ficat over the bar of the mouth of the Nota and reach the capital; all vessels requiring a greater depth of water than this had to deliver their cargoes at Cronstadt. The goods were then put into barges, which were either poled or tugged up to St. Petersburg. All commercial operations were carried on at a great disadvantage under such a mode of operations. This will be best understood by stating that goods can at the present day be sent from London or Hull in about a week, but the transhipment of them at Cronstadt, with the short but slow passage to St. Petersburg, the delivery there, where there has never been a proper harbor-these operations, to which has to be added a highly-developed system of custom house officialism, with all its forms to be attended to, usually occupied as much as three weeks, at times even more. Often the barges, which are large and unmaingeable, get aground or sink with their freight in the Gulf of Finland. Such a condition of things made contracts almost an impossibility, and the commercial prosperity and advancement of the capital has been much retarded. This will now be changed: sea-going vessels of almost any size will now be able in the future to proceed direct to St. Petersburg by the new canal, at the end of which dooks have also been constructed and connected with the railways. Ali the grievous delays of the past will be thus rooided. Cronstadt is to remain exclusively a port for the naval marine. It will henceforth be the Portsmouth of Russia.

This canal, which has just been opened between St. Petersburg and Cronstadt, may be said to have put the last finishing touch to the great design which Peter the Great had contemplated for the capital of the Russian Empire. The completion of the whole has been slowmuch more so than would have been the case in Western lands-still it is at last realized.

MANUFACTURE OF INDIAN GRAVES.

-So determined, indeed, are some of these fabricators of frauds, that the following incident is worthy of being published, to show the ingenuity they exercise in their peculiar calling. To discover an Indian grave is, of course, a red-letter day for archeologist. Now, Indian graves are manufactured to order, it would appear. At least the following recently occurred in New Jersey: A Philadelphia Flint Jack secured a halfdecayed skeleton from a Potter's field in the vicinity, and placed it in a shallow excavation on the wasting bank of a creek in New Jersey, where Indain relics were frequently found. With it he placed a steatite tobacco pipe of his own make, a steatite carving of an eagle's head and beads; with these were thrown numbers of gentine arrow heads and fragments of pottery. The earth was blackened with powdered charcoal. This " plant" was made in November, and, in the following March, during the prevalence of high waters and local freshets, he announced to an enthusiastic collector that he knew the location of an Indian grave, and offered to take him thither for $50, the money to be paid if the search proved successful, which of course it did. The cranium of that Philadelphia pauper passed through several craniologists' hands, and was gravely remarked upon as of unusual interest, as it was a marked dolichocophalic skull, whereas the Deleware Indians were brachycephalic !

AFTER DINNER.

Persons who suffer from Indigestion can arrest the progress of that painful nucledy by the use of an after-dinner pill, so composed that it will give tone to the stomach, prevent heartburn, rouse the liver to healthful action, invigorate the Eidneys, and thus, through the activity of these organs, promote the natural movement of the stomach and bowels. AYER'S PILLS are so compounded that their action, though mild, effectually pro-duces the above results. They also, in curing Constipation, remove the cause of Billiousness, Liver Complaint, Kidney Dis-case, Rheumatism, and many other serious allments.

To continue their effect in constipated or chronic cases, they need only be taken in diminishing instead of increasing doses. For seamen, and in-habitants or travelers in sparsely settled countries where physicians are not at hand, they are of inestimable value. There is hardly a sickness they will not alleviate, and in most cases cure, if taken alleviate, and in most cases cure, if taken promptly. THE BACRED SCARLET COLOR.

Both in Italy and other countries the archaic images of the deities were painted red, and the traditional practice was, in some cases, long continued. It has been said that this practice was intended to please "the color sense;" by which is meant that these images were regarded as pretty gew-gaws. This is not likely, and the true explanation is that the color red was sacred. All pristine creeds can, with probability, be tracedultimately to two origins. They are, in different disguises, the worship of the sun and the worship of humanity. Red bacame, therefore, an exceptionally odious color when the ascetic temper gained possession of religion. The author of the Wisdom of Solomon betrays a profound antipathy in the following: "Or made it like some vile beast, laying it over with vermilion and with paint coloring it red, and covering every spot therein." The coating of vermilion was plainly offensive to him, and he describes in another place the voluptuary as crying: "Let us crown ourselves with rosebuds before they are withered." Afterward a fresh association was added, and searlet typifled not only the sins of Babylon, but their punishment.

A cheerful face is as good for an invalid as healthy weather. To make a sick man think he is dying is to look half dead yourself. Hope and fear are as catching as outaneous complaints. Always look cheerful, whether you feel no or not.

NAMING THEMSELVES.

A Kansas farmer is the proud father of twelve children. As one after another comes to his happy household he is in doubt as what the infant, when grown up, would like to have as a prenomen. He does not like to call his budding boy Jehosaphat, nor is he satisfied with the ROOM! common name James. His daughter, who has not yet suffered with her first tooth, he does not like to call her Mehitthe ordinary name Ann, or Annie. Annie is pretty, and so is Marry, and so is a number of nice little names like will have none of these. He might name one of his boys "Leavenworth Titus," and others "Lawrence Cambodius," and still another "Atchison Sulpicius;" and he might have one of his daughters "Olathe" and another "Alicia Wyandotte," but he won't. He will merely number his offspring as they appear at regular intervals, and let each select a name for itself when it reaches the years of discretion. A character is the Kansas farmer. And the names selected by his "numerical" children. when the time comes for each to choose his own, may be more absurd than any that he could possibly have bestowed in baptism.

If a man could be conscious of all that is said of him in his absence, he would probably become a very modest man
