STABBED EVERY ONE THEY MET.

Two Brothers with a Bloodthirsty Conception of the Way of Having Fun.

Scranton, Sept. 22.—Patrick and Thos. Walsh, brothers, of Winton, 25 and 20 years old, respectively, attended a pic-nic in the school house grove near Jessup, a few miles north of Scranton. One of the brothers stepped up behind Patrick Lynch at the pic-nic and plunged a knife into his neck. Later they stabbed Owen Loftus in the neck, making a wound nearly two inches in length.

When they left the picnic for Winton, at 11 p. m., they were accompanied by another young man. They had gone but a short distance up the public highway when one of them threw a stone at a party ahead of them. It hit James Burke on the head and knocked him senseless. Burke was accompanied by his brother Edward and James Cawley. Edward Burke told Cawley to take care of his brother, and he ran back to see who had thrown the stone. One of the Walsh boys grabbed him around the waist and stabbed him five times before they let him go. He was wounded under each shoulder blade, in the neck and back and in one arm. He was taken to a house near by, and this morning it was thought that he would die.

IN TIME OF PEACE PREPARE FOR PEACE.

Changes of climate, diet and water, ofttimes atmospheric changes alone, will subject some member of the family to cholera morbus, dysentery, etc., when that wail of misery in the "wee sma' hours of the night" announce the fact, and you are sent from your comfortable bed across lots or down back alleys for a doctor, 'twould be a good time to reflect that had you only secured a bottle of Curtis' Carmelite Cordial in time, you could with a few drops have headed off the attack, and saved a doctor's bill, and secured a peaceful night's rest. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

CURED BY LAYING ON OF HANDS.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 20 .- The particulars of a remarkable cure by the laing on of hands comes from Lancaster twp., Lancaster county. Miss Carrie Linter, an only daughter of wealthy parents, was afflicted with spinal disease. Her case was considered hopeless. She was cou-fined to bed unable to move. Twelve physicians were tried, including many from New York and Philadelphia, but then induced to try a cure by the laying | haven't got sense." on of hands. No medicine was administered. She almost immediately sat up, they have heard.

THE DIRECTIONS FOLLOWED.

The celebrated Dr. Rankin says, recently, an old German, by the name of Nunsen, called at my office for treatment for an ill-conditioned ulcer on the leg. I prescribed carbolic acid, one-half ounce in one quart water; bathe ulcer twice daily. The druggist, W. L. Leland, who filled the prescription, attached to the bottle the customary poison label, which read as follows :

CARBOLIC ACID, POISON.

ANTIDOTE .- Emetic made by mixing one tablespoonful of mustard in warm water, or grease in warm water. Afterward whisky or other stimulants.

W. L. LELAND, GOOD LUCK DRUG STORE, CALLOPE, IO.

In about two weeks the patient who lives with his not over-wise son-in-law, sent the bottle back by his son-in-law to have the bottle refilled. When it was presented the following conversation ensued :

"I want a pint of fiskey," said the son-in-law.

"We don't sell it," replied the druggist. "What do you want it for?"

"Vhell, I guess it don't make some difference. Vhat you dinks about dot?"

"What do you want it for ?" "Vy. Dr. Quigley's directions said to nse it.

"No, you must be mistaken, for the directions don't mention it." Pointing to the antidote on the label :

"You read dot." "Did you do as this reads?"

"Yaw ; ve gif him der grease und der mustard, but don't haf der fishey." "I should have thought it would have made him sick." "Yaw, it make him sick enough, but we don't haf der fishey to gif him."

"How often did you give him the mustard and the grease ?"

"Efery time we wash the leg-two ames a day."

JONES TOOK IT BACK.

"Say dear," said an Evansville wife to her husband, "that dime you gave me this morning for milk was no good." "Didn't give you no bad dime," growled Jones.

"You did too, I guess I know,"

"No, I never. You've been getting some danged ribbons or something down town, and they gave it to you in change. Women ain't got no sense no how." "But you handed it to me yourself." "Didn't."

"Yes you did and I want you to take it back.'

"I won't."

"Yes you will, you old wretch." "Won't."

A NOTED REVIVAL.

Two young men began the work in the summer of 1799. They were brothers, preachers, and on their way across the pine barrens to Ohio, but turned aside to be present at a sacramental solemnity on Red River. The people were accustomed to gather at such times on Friday, and by praying and singing and hearing sermons, prepare themselves for the reception of the sacrament on Sunday. At the Red River meeting the brothers were asked to preach, and one did so with astonishing fervor. As he spoke the people were deeply moved, tears ran streaming down their faces. and one, a woman far in the rear of the house, broke through order and began to shout. For three hours after the regular preachers had gone the crowd lingered and were loth to depart. While they tarried one of the brothers was irresistibly impelled to sp ak. He rose and told them that he felt called to preach, that he could not be silent. The words which then fell from his lips roused the people before him to a "pungent sense of sin." Again and again the woman shouted, and would not be silent. He started to her. The crowd begged him to turn back. Something within him urged him on, and ho went through the house shouting and exhorting and praising God.

In a moment the floor, to use his own words, "was covered with the slain." Their cries for mercy were terrible to hear. Some found forgiveness, but many went away "spiritually wounded " and suffered unutterable agony of soul. Nothing could allay the excitement. Every settlement along the Green River and the Cumberland was full of religious fervor. Men fitted their wagons with beds and provisions, and traveled fifty miles to camp upon the ground and hear him preach. The idea was new; hundreds adopted it and camp meetings began. At the Cane Ridge meeting 20,000 were encamped. The excitement surpassed anything that had been known. Men who came to scoff remained to preach. All day and all night the crowd swarmed to and fro from preacher to preacher, singing, shouting, langhing; now rushing off to listen to some new exhorter, who had climbed upon a stump; now gathering around some unfortunate who, in their peculiar language was "spiritually slain." Soon men and women fell in such numbers that it became impossible for the multitude to move about without trampling them, and they were hurrigd to the meeting-house. At no time was the floor less than half covered. Some lay quiet, unable to move or speak; some talked, but could not move; some beat the floor with their heels; some, shrieking in egony, bounded about, it is said. like a live fish out of water; many lay down and rolled over and over for hours

DECIDED ACCORDING TO LAW.

Judge Sanford loves a good story, cf which his telling this to one of the jury at the recent term of the court is proof. Meeting a man recently when walking in the streets of Hartford, he was somewhat abruptly but cordially greeted, when the following conversation occurred.

"Don't you know me, Judge?"

"No, sir. I am sorry to say I have not that honor."

"I remember on one occasion I followed in a very fast frigate (my flagship) the Emperor of Russia's yacht Lieadia too near to the fire of the forts of Sebastopol. I say too near, because I drew on my ship such a fire that, had I not 'cleared pretty quickly out of that,' I should not have been here to-day to tell the story. Since the war a Russian naval officer, whose name was Capt. Makaroff, aid-de-camp to his Majesty, the Emperor of Russia, told me that he had under his command seven torpedo boats, with which he volunteered to go out-in the day time, it must be remembered-and attack me. We discussed at some length the probable result, and I think that even he admitted that he could have done nothing. Here is my view and argument. I said to him: 'When I saw you and your torpedo boats coming out, I should have run away. Now, I could go thirteen or fourteen knots. Ion could steam about nineteen. Thus your speed foilowing me would have been about five knotsno great speed at which to approach a vessel armed to the teeth with Nordenfeldt gnns-guns on barbette firing grape, shrapnel, etc. I am convinced that we should have destroyed all the torpedo boats, and this, I believe, would be the fate of any day attack attempted by them.' 'Well, then,' said my friend, 'I should have followed and attacked you during the night.' 'There again,' I said, 'I think you would have failed; because if you had been in range of my small guns as well as of shell, say at about 3,000 yards, before dark I should What do you mean!
