WIDESPREAD COMMOTION CAUSED BY THE TERRIBLE CONFESSION OF A PHYSICIAN.

The story published in these columns recently, from the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle, created a deal of comment here as it has elsewhere. Apparently it caused even more commotion in Rochester, as the following from the same paper shows:

Dr. J. B. Henion, who is well-known not only in Rochester, but in nearly every part of America, sent an extended article to this paper a few days ago which was duly published, detailing his remarkable experience and rescue from what seemed to be certain death. It would be impossible to enumerate the personal inquiries which have been made at our office as to the validity of the article, but they have been so numerous that further investigation of the subject was deemed necessary.

With this end in view a representative of this paper called on Dr. Henion at his residence on Andrews street, when the following interview occurred: "That article of yours, Doctor, has created quite a whirlwind. Are the statements about the terrible condition you were in, and the way you were rescued, such as you can sustain?"

Every one of them and many additional on s. I was brought so low by neglecting the first and most simple symptoms. I did not think I was sick. It is true I had frequent headaches; felt tired most of the time; could eat nothing one day and was ravenous the next; felt dull pains and my stomach was out of order, but I did not think it meant anything serious. The medical profession has been treating symptoms instead of diseases for years, and it is high time it ceased. The symptoms I have just mentioned or any unusual action or irritation of the water channels indicate the approach of kidney disease more than a cough announces the coming of consumption. We do not treat the cough, but try to help the lungs. We should not waste our time trying to relieve the headache, pains about the body or other symptoms, but go directly to the kidneys, the source of most of these ailments.'

"This, then, is what you meant when you said that more than one-half the deaths which occur arise from Bright's disease, is it Doctor?"

"Precisely. Thousands of diseases are torturing people to-day, which in reality are Bright's disease in some of its many forms. It is a hydra-headed monster, and the slightest symptoms should strike terror to every one who has them. I can look back and recall portions of the country working horses hundreds of deaths which physicians declared at the time were caused by paralysis, apoplexy, heart disease, pneumonia, malarial fever and other common by Bright's disease."

symptoms at first?"

establi-hment on North St. Paul street, spoke very earnestiy:

It is true that Bright's disease had mereased wonderfully, and we find, by reliable statistics, that from '70 to '80, its growth was over 250 per cent. Look at the prominent men it has carried off. and is taking off every year, for while many are dying apparently of paralysis and apoplexy, they are really victims of kidney disorder, which causes heart disease, paralysis, apoplery, etc. Nearly every week the papers record the death of some prominent man from this scourge. Recently, however, the increase has been checked, and I attribute this to the general use of my remedy." "Do you think many people are sflicted with it to-day who do not realize it?" "A prominent professor in a New Orleans medical college was lecturing before his class on the subject of Bright's disease. He had various fluids under microscopic analysis and was showing the students what the indications of this terrible malady were. 'And now, gentlemen,' he said, 'as we have seen the unhealthy indications I will show you how it appears in a state of perfect health,' and he submitted his own fluid to the usual test. As he watched the results his countenance suddenly changed-his color and command both left him and in a trembling voice he said: 'Gentiemen, I have made a painful discovery; I have Bright's disease of the kidneys.' And in less than a cations of any kidney difficulty should be enough to strike terror to any one." "You know of Dr. Henion's case?"

"It is very wonderful, is it not?" "No more so than a great many others | crop. that have come to my notice as having been cured by the same means," "You believe then that Bright's disease can be cured?" "I know it can. I know it from my own and the experience of thousands of prominent persons who were given up to die both by both their physicians and friends."

"You speak of your own experience; what was it?"

"A fearful one, I had felt languid and untitted for business for years. But I did not know what ailed me. When, however, I found it was kidney difficulty, I thought there was little hope and so did the doctors, I have since learned that one of the physicians of this city pointed me out to a gentlewithin a year.' I believe his words would have proved true if I had not ence between the price of poor cheese providentially used the remedy now and of good. known as Warner's Bafe Cure."

"Did you ranke a chemical analysis of the case of Mr. H. H. Warner some three years ago, Doctor?" was asked thirty-eight inches in thirty-eight days, Dr. S. A. Lattimore, one of the analysts or at the rate of an inch a day.

"No, sir. I did not think it pos-

"Do you know anything about the remedy which cured him?" "I have chemically analyzed it and find it pure and harmless." Dr. Henion was cured five years ago and is well and attending to his professional drties to-day, in this city. The standing of Dr. Henion, Mr. Warner and Dr. Lattimore in the community is beyond question, and the statements they make cannot for a moment be doubted. Dr. Henion's experience shows that Bright's disease of the kidneys is one of the most deceptive and dangerous of all diseases, that it is exceedingly common, but that it can be cured if taken in time.

FARM NOTES.

WE HAVE learned many important facts regarding nutritive values of various foods for different kinds of stock. Corn is of course the great staple for fattening any kind of animals, but for growing them or encouraging milk production many kinds of feed are more economical. In fact, neither corn nor corn fodder, nor both together, should be entirely depended upon, as food for young animals of any kind. It is here, perhaps that one of the objections to a wholesale feeding with ensilage will come in. Corn will always be the staple food for ensilage in this country. So much more of it can be grown per acre than anything else that it will always have the preference, especially when the excessive amount of sweet juices in the cornstalk, which make it difficult to cure in any other way, constitute precisely the conthe silo. It is quite likely that an increasing proportion of our corn fodder will be made into ensilage, and when this is fed with other substances containing a larger proportion of nitrogenous food the feeding of ensilage will produce better results. It is no disparagement to the ensilage system that as this food is usually prepared it is not a perfect ration. This is a fault of the corn crop, which has been used for feeding too much to the exclusion of other grain. For growing stock, oats, barley or peas are each better than corn. So are the coarser parts of wheat commonly used for feeding stock. We have known horses kept in good working condition on bran and a small amount of hay. It is certainly a much more sensible working ration than feeding largely on corn, the effect of which is to encourage the accumulation of fat which is not needed, rather than of muscular development. Yet in large are fed mainly on corn.

SALT FOR POULTRY .- Hens often Bros., Owego, N. Y. have a habit of biting and pulling their feathers and greedily eating them until their bodies are bare. This practice, it is believed, is occasioned by want of salt, as when salted food is given them they make no attempt to continue the habit. Salt pork, chopped fine and fed twice a week, has been adopted with success, while others put a teaspoonful of salt with two quarts of meal shorts moistened, well mixed, and fed twice a week. The bottom of the pole is set into a claw-plate, upon which the earth is closely packed to a height of about two feet. Then another plate is put into place around the pole, and the earth is packed upon it to the level of the ground. The claw plates take a hold in the ground at once, so that the pole becomes solidly fixed immediately after being set, which desideratum is only obtained by the ordinary wooden pole after it has been in the ground for at least a year. A recent test is said to have shown the great strength of the pole, as a heavy, No. 6 Government wire was strung, and the poles subjected to the greatest possible strain, but without moving them in the least.

This solution instantly develops the picture, which is then washed in one or two solutions, to remove the chemical salts adhering to the paper.

Comparative tests of the granites of New England and Minnesota, instituted by Professor Winchell, with a view to determine their crushing strength, exhibit some surprising differences. The pieces employed for this purpose were two-inch cubes unpolished, and, crushed between wooden cushions, the average strength of twenty specimens of Minnesota granite was found to be 93,272 pounds, or 23,318 pounds per square inch ; crushed between steel plates, the average strength was 104,800 pounds, or 26,200 pounds to the square inch of surface. The average obtained for the same number of specimens of New England granite was 59,785 pounds, or 14,756 pounds per square inch. The age of Minnesota granites is archæan; that of New England granites is not definitely known.

He has also proposed a better substitute made in this way: Equal parts of the double hydrogen ammonium fluoride and dried precipitated barium sulphate are ground together in a porcelain mortar. The mixture is then treated in a platinum, lead or gutta percha dish with fuming hydrofluoric acid until the acid ceases to react.
