CENTRE HALL, PA., MARCH 10 1880.

THE INSTRUCTOR.

Not till we meet with Love, in all his beauty,
In all his solemn majesty and worth,
Can we translate the meaning of his duty,
Which God oft writes in cipher at our birth.

Not till Love comes in all his strength and terror,
Can we read others' hearts; not till then
we know

A wise compassion for all human error,
Or sound the quivering depths of mortal woe.

Not till we walk with him o'er stormy oceans
Have we seen tempests. Hidden in his hand
He holds the keys to all the great emotions;
Till he unlocks them—none can understand.

Not till we walk with him on lofty mountains
Can we quite measure heights! And, ah, sad truth!

When once we drink from his immortal fountains

We bid farewell to the light heart of youth.

Thereafter our most perfect day will broaden
A dimming shadow from some drowsed night.

So great grows joy, it merges into sorrow,
And evermore pain tinctures our delight.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in Good Cheer.

CHARACTER OF COLONIAL RACES.

The Population of the United States Will Always Be Aryan.

However much it may be mixed, the population of the United States will always be Aryan, at the bottom, for all the heterogeneous elements are absorbed, almost without leaving traces of themselves, in that immense sea of civilization, which has no parallel in history. The English have been no less happy in the settlement of Australia, a colonization the energetic expansion of which has not been checked except toward the north, where the conditions grow unfavorable as the settlements approach the equator. Hence it comes that, in the northern part of Queensland, European colonists are not in a condition to endure the fatigue of agricultural labor. This fact has had much to do with the efforts made of late years to annex New Guinea and New Britain, whence it has been proposed to draw the manual force required for the tillage of the soil.

In the south African colonies the Dutch have been solidly established for some 300 years, and, in a few countries of South America composed of people of various European origin have prospered, though unequally. There are also some young colonies founded by the Germans on the Rio Grande, in Brazil, which a fancy still needing confirmation has placed in the rank of healthful countries and suitable for our people. Reviewing the results that have been obtained in the colonies thus briefly enumerated, which embrace the sum of the more or less fortunate enterprises of the kind, we see that their success has been in inverse proportion to the difference in isothermic latitude between them and the mother country of the colonists. But in every case it is not probable that the organization of the colonists has escaped having to pay, at the expense of profound alterations, for acclimatization in foreign countries.

Men of Science, as well as tourists, have been interested for many years in the study of the Yankee type, which, according to the general opinion, is not wholly comparable either with the English or German, or with a cross of the two with the Irish race. The peculiar physiology of the Yankee is yet to be made out, and I can not insist too strongly on the great value of the scientific results that might accrue from the study of this delicate ethnological problem. It is ascertained that the transformations of this type grow more pronounced as we go from northern to southern states.—Popular Science Monthly.

Women Crossing the Picket Line.

Women, as may be imagined, were altogether the most difficult subjects for pickets to deal with. They were always endeavoring to cross the line; some times, indeed, more often on horseback, or, perhaps, driving in a carriage or wagon, and frequently accompanied by children. They had all sorts of excuses or pretexts, and only a few of them ever had what alone the pickets were allowed to recognize; that is to say, a pass from the proper authority. They were nearly always amateur mail agents, and many of them were amateur spies. Personal search was out of the question, of course, and even when a competent pass compelled the picket officer to let them cross the line, he nearly always felt certain that these women were employed in carrying news for the enemy, and contradictory articles as well.

But a picket line, for all but the ladies, was a dangerous thing to trifle with, especially at night, when the countessign was on. The man who approached it from the outside at night needed to be self-possessed and skilful, for he could never be quite certain exactly where and at what moment he could come within halting distance of a hidden vidette, whose "Halt!" would be instantly followed by a shot unless the response were quick and satisfactory.—Chicago Herald.

A Water Lily from China.

Sam Lee runs a laundry in Macon. Sam is a Mongolian dude. Passing along the street I could see something green and growing in his window inside, and not knowing but what Oriental had a peculiar way of growing onions on a small scale, I went inside to investigate. A number of large bulbs resting in shallow glass vessels of water, with a few pieces of broken stone to support them, were the objects upon which I rested my curious eyes.

"What are they?" I asked.
"Chinese water lilies," replied Sam, as he came forward.
And so they are. The flower stalks look something like those of a buttercup, and the three little white blossoms that grow the top, are dainty little things, and look quite refreshing amid the dull, dreariness of their wintry surroundings. They are typical lilies of the valley, for they toil not, neither do they spin, may, they do not even trouble themselves about taking root.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Partial List of College Colors.

The following is a list of some college colors in the United States: Amber, white and purple; Bowdoin, white; Brown, brown; Columbia, blue and white; University of California, pink; Cornell, cornelian; Dartmouth, green; Hamilton, pink; Harvard, crimson; University of New York, violet; University of Pennsylvania, blue and red; Williams, royal purple, and Yale, blue.—Philadelphia Record.

A Watch-Guard of Black Silk.

The prince of Wales now wears a black silk ribbon as a watch-guard, and about the first of next July the Anglo-maniac in this country will affect the same style.—Inter Ocean.

The Inventor of the Scales.

Thaddeus Fairbanks, the veteran inventor of the Fairbanks scales, still lives at St. Johnsbury, Vt., where he recently celebrated his 90th birthday.

WHAT CHINAMEN EAT.

ALL THE KINGDOMS OF NATURE RANSACKED TO PROVIDE FOOD.

A Long List of Culinary Vegetables—Catalogue of Fruits—Beverages—Fish, Flesh and Fowl—Insects and Other Miscellaneous Articles—Sereals.

The proportion of animal food consumed is probably smaller among the Chinese than other nations in the same latitude. Rice in the south, maize, millet and wheat in the north, furnish the cereal food. The first is emphatically the staff of life, and is considered indispensable all over the land. It is thoroughly cooked without forming a pasty mass, as is so often the case with us. The diet is sufficiently varied, wholesome and well cooked. Much vegetable oil is used in its preparation, which makes it unpalatable to us, as a rule. To Europeans unaccustomed to it, as Italian millet or canary seed furnishes a large amount of nutritious cereal food in the north. The flour is yellow and sweet, and might with advantage be imported into this country, and in our diet, alternated with oatmeal.

The Chinese have a long list of culinary vegetables, and much of their agriculture consists in rearing them. More than twenty different sorts of peas and beans are cultivated, and occupy the largest part of the kitchen garden. Soy, used as a universal condiment instead of butter and jam, is made from beans. Bean curd takes the place of cheese, gypsum being employed to precipitate the casein of the beans. The consumption of cabbage, cross and cruciferous plants is common. Garlic, onions, leeks and others of this class are eaten by all classes, detected upon all persons, and smelt in all rooms where they are eating or cooking. The variety of cucurbitaceous plants extends to nearly twenty that are cultivated among garden vegetables. Water chestnuts are extensively consumed. The sweet potato is the most common tuber. The Irish potato is not eaten except on the borders of Mongolia. It is considered a food only fit for famine periods.

FRUITS AND NUTS—TEA AND SPIRITS.

The catalogue of fruits is indeed formidable. Grapes are plentiful in the north, and are preserved all the year round. Among common nuts are the chestnut, walnut, and ground nut. The first and last are largely eaten. The former, roasted or used as meal, forms a valuable and nourishing food. The jujube is largely grown, and eaten in dumplings, etc. Preserved fruits are common. Ginger, lotus roots, bamboo shoots, and even the common potato and other vegetables are thus prepared for export as well as domestic use.

The Chinese have no butter, milk, or cheese. They have no cattle except for agricultural purposes, which has made them comparatively dear, and therefore meat from this source has fallen into disuse except among the Mongols and Manchus. The European is dissatisfied with a meal with neither bread, butter, nor milk, and he is disgusted with the oily and alliacious stews set before him. The Chinese would be equally shocked at a soup, which we sometimes eat, which can almost walk. Women's milk is sold on the streets in some cities for the sustenance of infants and old people, it being believed peculiarly nourishing to aged persons.

The common beverage is tea. Our sitting down to a tea meal seems strange to them, and they can not understand our spilling the beverage by making it so strong, black, and oily. The jujube is largely grown, and eaten in dumplings, etc. Preserved fruits are common. Ginger, lotus roots, bamboo shoots, and even the common potato and other vegetables are thus prepared for export as well as domestic use.

FLESH-EATING—FISH AND INSECTS.

The Chinese eat a larger variety of meats than the people of other countries, and at the same time very little land is appropriated to rearing animals for food. Beef is only eaten, when it can be had, by the very lowest classes. No respectable person eats so useful and sacred an animal. Buddhist prejudice restraining the flesh-eating propensities of the people. Mutton, except in the extreme north, bordering on the lofty grass plateau of Mongolia, is dear and poor. There is a large Mohammedan population in the north. The flesh of the buffalo and goat are still less used. Pork is the principal meat consumed, and surpasses all others, and no meat can be raised so economically.

The Chinese are perfectly omnivorous with respect to aquatic production. Here nothing comes amiss. All waters are vexed with their fisheries. Every possible way of catching and rearing fish is practiced. Fish are usually sold alive in tubs in the streets, so as to guarantee their freshness. All sorts of crabs, prawns and shrimps are very largely eaten, either fresh, or simply dried in the sun. Both salt and fresh water shell-fish are abundant. There is much insect food consumed, such as locusts, grasshoppers, grubs, and silk worms. We can not mention all the different things the people eat, the products of earth, air, and sea. The gelatinous birds' nests are well known. Shark's fins and fish maws are boiled into gelatinous soups that are both nourishing and palatable, and different parts of animals are sought after as delicacies.

To sum up, let us generalize by saying that the everyday ordinary food of the Chinese is plain, simple, light, non-stimulating, and cheap. The people are most frugal and economical, making use of substances which would meet with culinary contempt in our country. A poor man in Glasgow would starve on the food which keeps a poor Chinaman and his family. All the kingdoms of nature have been ransacked to provide food for this remarkable people. Everything that lives and grows from the animal and vegetable world is laid under contribution.—Cor. Glasgow Herald.

Troubles of a Music Composer.

A composer of music whose halo did not fit on that particular day said to a friend: "To compose a piece of music is a serious affair. If a musical idea comes into your head, you won't happen to have any paper handy, and you have no paper you will find it hard to find a publisher, and even if you secure a publisher he may fail to pay you anything for your trouble, and besides very few will buy your piece, and if anyone should buy it he would not know how to play it, and in all probability if he played it he would not like it."—Exchange.

The Three Most Interesting Men.

Mr. Hainsbury, in The Academy, is authority for the statement that the three most interesting men in England, described in "Mustard Leaves," are Lord Tennyson, Mr. Labouchere, and Mr. Justin McCarthy.

"I tell you, husband, I want you to try it." I had suffered for years with a complaint the physicians called gravel, and they had given up the attempt to help me. My wife heard of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and spoke as above. To please her I got a bottle. Used that and two or three more, and presently the trouble vanished and returned. My wife had a sort of inspiration that it was a Washington Monroe, Catskill, N.Y. Faith like hers deserves its reward.

A Chambersburg brute was convicted of "systematic cruelty to his wife." There being no whipping-post punishment, Judge Rowe did next best thing and sent the rascal to jail for four months.

"You may remember I spoke to you about having been afflicted with severe sick headaches. Well, some time ago I began taking Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy in faint hope of relief. To my delight, and rather to my surprise, I have never had an attack since. How thankful I am I need hardly tell you. I trust with that of women tortured in this way know how certain and pleasant a cure Favorite remedy is.—Sarah J. Woodruff, Newburg, N.Y. mar

The indications are that there will be a combined movement of the operators and workmen (other than Hungarians) in the coke regions to "freeze out" the Hung and have them seek employment elsewhere.

Parker's Tonic kept in a home is a sentinel to keep sickness out. Used discretely, it keeps the blood pure, and the stomach, liver and kidneys in working order. Coughs and colds vanish before it. It builds up the health. No wise mother will be without it. mar

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES

Especially Desirable for Children.

A lady physician at the Child's Hospital, at Albany, N.Y., says: "We have been using Scott's Emulsion with great success, nearly all of our patients are suffering from bone diseases and our physicians find it very beneficial."

The clerks employed in different branches of business at Braddock united and organized an assembly of the Knights of Labor.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A McKeesport man, who was married a few days ago, has been prosecuted by his "best man" for the stealing of a gold ring from the latter while intoxicated.

From the mildest ailment of the stomach to the deadliest epidemic fever, Dr. Richardson's Samaritan Nerveine is conquering maladies which have defied the faculty, while dyspepsia, gout, rheumatism, urinary complaints, biliousness, nervous disabilities, and all disorders not organic, are obliterated by this chatless tonic and alterative. Who cares for the doctors' sneers when this infallible remedy is at hand? The afflicted will find it to be a constitutional specific and a fountain of vitality and vigor, as refreshing and exhilarating as a cool, pushing spring of water to the parched and fainted traveler in the desert. $1.50 at druggists.

A Hungarian, John Sofran, who was not as "soft" as his name would seem to imply, employed as clerk in a Nanticoke store, got away with $800 of the merchant's money.

S. B. Durley, mate of seamer Arizona, had his foot badly jammed. Thomas Electric Oil cured it. Nothing equal to it for a quick pain reliever.

Surface Indications

What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what lies beneath, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early summer. The effluvia accumulate during the winter months, now makes its presence felt, through Nature's endeavors to expel it from the system. While it remains, it is a poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula. This condition causes derangement of the digestive and assimilatory organs, with a feeling of nervousness, languor, and weariness—often lightly spoken of as "only spring fever." These are evidences that Nature is not able, unaided, to throw off the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces. To regain health, Nature must be aided by a thorough blood-purifying medicine; and nothing else is so effective as which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Scrofula.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

The medical profession endorse AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and many attestations of the cures effected by it come from all parts of the world. It is, in the language of the Hon. Francis Jewett, ex-Senator of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, "the only preparation that does real, lasting good."
