HOUSEHOLD.

MISS NIGHTINGALE gives the following advice: There is reason to believe that not a few of the apparently unaccountable cases of scrofula among children proceed from the habit of sleeping with the head under the bed clothes, and so inhaling air already breathed, which is further contaminated by exhalations from the skin. Patients are sometimes given to a similar habit; and it often happens that the bed clothes are so disposed that the patient must necessarily breathe air more or less contaminated by exhalations from the skin. A good nurse will be careful to attend to this. It is an important part, so to speak, of ventilation. It may be worth while to remark that when there is any danger of bed sores a blanket should never be placed under the patient. It retains dampness and acts like a poultice. Never use anything but light woolen blankets as bed covering for the sick. The heavy, impervious cotton counterpane is bad, for the very reason that it keeps the emanations from the sick person, while the blanket allows them to pass through. Weak patients are invariably distressed by a great weight of bed clothes, which often prevents their getting any sound sleep whatever.

SAUSAGE OMELET.—Six eggs, one cup milk, one small teaspoonful cornstarch, one cup cold cooked sausage, chopped very fine. Beat the whites and yolks of the eggs separately until each is as light as it can be made. Stir together until they are tolerably well mingled, add the milk in which the cornstarch has been dissolved, and pour the whole into a omelet pan, containing a tablespoonful of green lard, boiling hot. It must not have been allowed to brown. Tip the pan from side to side that the mixture may not burn, and with a knife loosen the edges when they show signs of sticking. When it begins to grow firm in the middle, sprinkle over it the chopped sausage, cook a moment longer, double one-half of the omelet on the other with the knife, and slip from the pan to a hot dish. Serve at once.

STEAM PUDDING.—Take one egg, one-half cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of melted butter or meat fryings, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and a pinch of salt, and stir well together, then add one cup of cold water, and one-half cup of dried fruit or raisins, and thicken some stiffer than cake. Mix it in the dish, that you cook it in and steam one and one-half hours. Have the water boiling all the time, and don't take off the steamer or lift the lid.

"As is the bud bit with an envious worm," so is many a youth cut down by the gnawing worm consumption. But it can be made to release its hold and stop its gnawing. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will if taken in time, effect permanent cures, not only in consumption, but in all cases of chronic throat, bronchial and lung diseases.

The greatest pressure in a steam boiler is at the bottom. The water adds one pound pressure for each twenty-seven inches depth.

"Good deeds," once said the celebrated Richter, "ring clear through Heaven like a bell." One of the best deeds is to alleviate human sufferings. "Last fall my daughter was in decline," says Mrs. Mary Hinson, of Montrose, Kansas, "and everybody thought she was going into consumption. I got her a bottle of Dr. H. V. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and it cured her." Such facts as the above need no comment.

Wines made from the wild oranges of Florida are alleged to have greatly prized therapeutic properties. The manufacture of these beverages is very simple.

Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. # That Tired Feeling

The warm weather has a debilitating effect, especially upon those who are within doors most of the time. The peculiar, yet common, complaint known as "that tired feeling," is the result. This feeling can be entirely overcome by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives new life and strength to all the functions of the body.

"I could not sleep; had no appetite. A took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling; and my appetite improved." R. A. SANFORD, Kent, Ohio.

Strengthen the System

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown, and conferring new and additional evidence.

Send for book containing additional evidence, and how to make me up. J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, as well, needs, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold. I. BARRINGTON, 120 Bank Street, New York City.

NO LADY IS REALLY BEAUTIFUL Without a Clear, White Complexion. This Great American Remedy for Beautifying the Complexion and Healing the Skin.

To a large extent complexion is the criterion of age. A few applications will make the skin beautiful, soft, and white. It is not a paint or powder that will fill up wrinkles, but a directly clear liquid, which cleanses the skin, such as pimples, etc., and is a valuable discovery that causes the complexion to rival the youth in whiteness. It is impossible to overstate the beauty it confers. It cures Oily Skin, Pimples, Freckles, Face Urinals, Black Heads, Itches, Scalds, Chapped Hands and Feet, Barber's Itch, etc. It frees the pores, oil glands, and tubes of the skin from the injurious and irritating matter which it contains, and restores the skin to its natural and youthful appearance. It is conceded by connoisseurs in the art to be the best and safest beauty-remedy ever produced. For sale by Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers. A HARVARD student who got into a quarrel on a young lady's account, and came out considerably the worse for it, was complaining to her of the rough usage he had received for her sake.

"Oh, well," said she, "it ought to console you to know you are more than even in the fashion."

"How do you mean?" "Why, beaten brass, you know, is all the rage."

FACETIÆ.

"SHALL we—shall we consent to be slaves!" he said as he halted before a group of striking painters who were lounging on the City Hall fence Monday forenoon.

"Never!" shouted two or three in chorus.

"Of course we won't!" he continued. "The heel of the oppressor must be taken from our necks! Our forefathers died for liberty and we are ready to follow their examples."

"You bet!" "The tyrant Capital must be taught a lesson!" "He must!" "From the pine trees of Maine to the rolling surf on the seashore of Texas the laboring man is calling for justice. The worm has at last turned."

"That's so!" "The toilers have arisen as one man to demand that capital shall share its profits with the bone and muscle which have made our millionaires. Toilers of the great and glorious West, I—"

"Are you a painter?" suddenly inquired one of the men.

"Let me finish. Toilers of the great and glo—"

"Where do you work?" "Say!" he answered, as he came down off his high horse, "how many of you will chip in ten cents apiece to help me to Chicago, where I have a wife and five children?"

"They run him across the street in such a hurry that his hat fell off, but he turned at the curb, stretched forth his right hand and said:

"Toilers of the great and glorious West, I can lick any two of you with one hand tied behind my back! That's all—good-bye!"

"Do I love George," mused Clara, softly, "or is it simply a sister's affection that I feel for—"

Just then Bobby rushed noisily into the room and interrupted her sweet meditations.

"Get out of here, you little brat!" she shouted, and seizing him by the arm she shot him through the door.

"Ah, no," she sighed, as she resumed her interrupted train of thought, "my love for George is not a sister's love. It is something sweeter, purer, higher, and holier."

"HEAR you have been to New York, McGuffin."

"Yes, I have."

"What portion of the city reminded you the most of Chicago?"

"The vicinity about Castle Garden."

"Why so?"

"There is one block there that contains thirty-five saloons."

"Great Scott! That must have made you homesick!"

A YOUNG man had been arrested for kissing a pretty girl and she was on the witness stand.

"You say," said the attorney for the defendant, "that the young man kissed you against your will?"

"Yes, he did, and he did it a dozen times, too."

"Well, now, is it not true that you also kissed him during the affray?"

Objected to; objection overruled.

"Now answer my question," continued the attorney. "Did you not kiss the defendant also?"

"Yes, I did," replied the witness indignantly, "but it was in self defence."

A LITTLE incident in real life: "Be a man," said his friend.

"I am a man," said he; "but I've got to do it."

"Well, sober up anyway, before you go to make it up."

"That's why you see me thus. I am going up to her, I am going up to grovel before her; I am going to lie down and tell her to walk all over me."

"But not in this condition."

"If I were sober I wouldn't do it. I couldn't; that's why I'm full."

And he took a couple and drove up to the house of the girl who had quarrelled with him.

MARY (entering library, where Mrs. Knownought is seated)—"I found this book up-stairs, ma'am, and was told to bring it down to the library. Does it make any difference on which shelf I put it?"

Mrs. Knownought—"Why, all the difference in the world, Mary. We have had the whole library classified—scientific works, religious, fiction, and so on. What is the book you have there?"

Mary—"The Pursuit of Happiness, ma'am."

Mrs. K.—"Well, then, that goes right in with the books of travel."

Step aside a little oftener to talk with God and thine own heart.

TIRED, WORN AND WEARY.

Who can account for that tired, worn and weary feeling? It is not caused by mental or manual labor—Waking in the morning unrefreshed—Often with aching bones—Bad taste in the mouth—Somewhat bad breath—There may be no pain in the back—but there is a feeling of prostration—Approaching pain—Inactivity—The body and mind lack strength.—A recumbent position is preferred.

HAMMOND'S SLUG SHOT

JOHNNY, aged six, the son of a Congregational divine, had become possessed of a pack of cards, and bearing his mother coming, hastily thrust them into the pocket of his father's baptismal robe. The next day the minister having occasion to baptize some converts by immersion found himself in the creek surrounded by the whole deck floating about him on the water and next to him four aces. He nearly fainted and was with difficulty gotten out of the water. Johnny's mother took occasion to tell her little cherub how he had been, and that his father had nearly drowned, etc. "Well," said the young hopeful, "any man who couldn't get out on such a hand as that ought to be drowned."

How he got his mother's monkey into a scrape—He—"I want you to understand miss, that you can't make a fool of me." She—"I am not so irreverent as to suppose that I could improve on nature."

A CASE wherein the comparison was odious, indeed—"Judge—"What sort of man now was it, whom you saw commit the assault?" Constable—"Shure, yer Honor, he was a small, insignificant cratur, about yer own size, yer Honor."
