THE DISADVANTAGES OF LIVING IN BY-GONE YEARS.

What Our Fathers and Mothers and Their Ancestors Endured in Other Days-The Petty Inconveniences of the "Good Old Times" of Long Ago.

We often wonder how many of us are conscious of our advantages in living at this stage of humanity's achievement rather than at an earlier one. How much more cleanly and convenient is life now that we eat by the help of forks than it was 250 years ago when forks were unknown, and fingers were daubed with whatever there was with which to daub them! How much more agreeable is life now that the newspaper is the common visitor of the poorest house! What was it that our fathers and mothers suffered when the tallow dip and the whale-oil lamp, whose failing wick had to be picked up every now and then with a pin, made darkness visible rather than dispelled it! One marvels in remembering it not only that they did not become blind themselves, but that we also were not all born blind.

WHAT OUR ANCESTORS ENDURED. What tedium was that which these same fathers and mothers, and all their ancestors before them for many years, endured in the long journeys when the nardships of the saddie and bridle path were succeeded by the passing luxury of the stage coaca, in which, jammed in together and with no matter whom, the day and night's corney lum-bered along in a misery of which nobody ing out a chapter in her Bible.

ing out a chapter in her Bible.

But these affairs bring us upon the great things of life; and to return to the smaller things of which we began to speak, can any of us imagine how in the world we got along before needles were as common as grass spires, and pins put careless sewing at a premium, and when thorns were in domestic demand for fasteners of slight material! How did our young aunts make themselves look pretty when calico prints

I LOVE YOU.

She climbed upon my willing knec, And softly whispered unto me, -"I love you."

Her dainty arms were round my neck, Her sunny curls were in my face; And in her tender eyes I saw The soul of innocence and grace.

And like a sunbeam glinting through The clouds that hide the skies of blue, Her smile found access to my heart, And bade the shadows all depart.

O moment of apocalypse, In which I saw the stately ships, That erstwhile sailed away from me, Come riding back across the sea, I would you might return and stay Within my lonely heart alway.

God bless the darling little child, Who looked up in my face and smiled; And wrought upon my heart a spell More sweet than songs of Israfel.

Oh, angels, listen while I pray That you will make her life as sweet As that brief moment was to me, Whene'er I heard her lips repeat,

"I love you."
