We do not hear of many cases of western fever hereabouts just now.

George Meyer, of Linden Hall, has a grocery in operation at Coburn.

The farm of John Love, dec'd, near Tazewille, will be offered at public sale on Dec. 20.

Rev. W. C. McCool, of Neb., gave the Reporter a call. He makes a sale of his personal effects at Spring Mills, for which see adv. in Reporter.

A queer co-incidence, to have a Short station on the L. & T. within a short distance of two distilleries.

Ice, on the mill dams, has reached a thickness of 10 to 12 inches, making the crop much earlier than for many years.

Mr. Calvin Solt, of this place, has located at Patterson, Pa., where he is employed in the tailoring establishment of Cottie Bros.

Traveling on the pike to Potters Mills is some what difficult and dangerous on account of the drifts which in some places have made the road very irregular and uneven.

S. R. Gettig now makes daily excursions between Coburn and Spring Mills—watching over the distillery at Coburn by day and over Grenoble's books at Spring Mills by night.

The Pennsylvania State College has issued a bulletin on "the composition and food value of desiccated apple pomace" in which "desiccated" is spelled wrong five times. A college should do better than this.

The refuse timber on the Van Trier lumber tract, on which Huyett, Livingood & Co., were sawing for about a year, near Linden Hall, has been purchased by one of the furnace companies, on the other side of the county, for burning charcoal.

Relative to the new railroad that is to come in this direction from Milton, we learn that the men at the head of the enterprise are now in London endeavoring to get English capitalists interested in the enterprise. The matter will probably lie dormant until their return.

Much to the disappointment of the public, the evening train west does not make connection at Bellefonte with the train for Tyrone. This connection can and should be made; the traveling public have a right to every possible convenience and no good reason exists for this short coming in the schedule. Let our railroad officials give heed to the public needs.

Centre Hall folks must haul their ice almost five miles, or do without it. Won't some enterprising fellow with an eye to business construct an artificial lake, or get a machine and make it? There's millions in it. The latest that Simon Zible is thinking of moving the Stone Mill dam over here. All he would need to do would be to cover it with saw dust and open it up next summer.

Last week the jury commissioners Messrs. Hess and Rhoads filled the wheel with new names, putting into it 650 names of citizens from the different districts of the county. The jury commissioners say they have taken pains to obtain the names of men of intelligence and sound judgment, leaving out a class who are unfit for so important a position for want of proper qualifications. According to this we may presume that men who are afraid of having justice done in going to law, had better not get into court.

The business men of Sunbury have organized for mutual protection against men who buy on credit and fail to pay. If any customer fails to pay his honest bills at the proper time, his name is handed in to the association and reported to every member none of whom are allowed to sell him any thing on credit until he pays off the account where he has dealt. If any merchant violates this pledge by giving the delinquent credit he is fined $5. If this method of doing business is strictly adhered to parties who live by tick will find themselves headed off. These business men's protective associations are being organized in many towns.

SUICIDE AT PHILIPSBURG.

On Thursday, December 3, Mrs. Jas. Brewster, who resides in South Philipsburg, attempted to poison the whole family of four children, excepting the husband, who had not returned from his daily labor, by administering arsenic in a pot of coffee. Together with the mother the four young children sat down to partake of their supper, and thus far nothing unusual transpired, but during the latter part of the evening, and immediately after Mr. Brewster had returned from work, he was considerably surprised to see the whole family and his wife vomiting fearfully. His suspicions were readily made manifest in his mind that the sickness was not occasioned from natural causes, and knowing that ever since a fond and loving sister of his wife had died a couple of years ago, at frequent times, caused her to be subjected to rather sad and melancholy spells, he at once came to the dreadful conclusion that his always true and faithful and loving wife and mother had done the rash act in poisoning herself and children while in one of her dependent moods. She was often heard to remark that "some of these days I will be found dead." The poor unfortunate woman lingered between life and death until the following morning when the Grim Destroyer ushered her spirit into eternity. The next day a three-year old child also died from the effects of the poison. The others have recovered. The woman procured the poison from a drug store, where she informed them that she wanted to poison rats. On Saturday afternoon two hearses were driven up to the front door of the Brewster residence when they bore the mother and child to their last resting place. The community at large deeply sympathize with the heart broken husband and father in this his sad and horrible affliction.

THE NEW R.R.

The citizens of Millhall and Nittany valley have strong hopes that the new railroad will run up that way and aim for Washington furnace and possibly not strike Bellefonte. Sugar valley is excited and will put in its best links to obtain it while Brantley valley will, no doubt, put in a big pull for its route which has many important points in its favor, to which we have already alluded in the Reporter. And then there is the mooted route via Pine creek in Haines twp. The question is frequently put to us, Do you believe this road is to be built. Well, we know just as much about this road as we know about our L. & T. road 25 years ago, at which we kept hammering away until it became a thundering fact. We know a year ago, and mentioned it then in the Reporter, that capitalists were contemplating a railroad from Milton in this direction. Not two months ago a charter was granted, and our information now is, that agents are in London with a view to raise funds for building it. Now we intend to work up all the interest we can to secure the road on a route this side the county if it is to be built. To talk railroad, get a charter, put engineers in search of a route and send agents to London for a loan, looks as if the first steps had been taken within 18 months. It took our road 18 years to get along as fast as that.

DEATH OF EZRA D. PARKER.

On Friday morning last, the 3d, the sad announcement of the death of Ezra D. Parker, Esq., of Millintown, was received in this place with feelings of unfeigned regret. On Thursday evening in the full enjoyment of health, he stepped from the door of his residence in the yard, when he was stricken down with apoplexy. His long absence occasioned uneasiness to his family, and they went in search of him. They found him lying on the ground, and the night being very cold, almost frozen. He was carried into the house and tenderly cared for, and every effort was made to save the life that was evidently passing away, but all in vain. Before the dawn of another day he died, and the spirit of Ezra D. Parker fled to that "mysterious bourne from which no traveler returns." In his death Juniata county has met an irreparable loss, as he was regarded as one of her most enterprising and influential citizens. As a lawyer he had no superior at the bar before which he practiced. —Lewistown Free Press.

IN FLORIDA.

R. H. Duncan and wife have gone to Florida and located there. Mr. Duncan, formerly from Spring Mills and a prominent business man of this county some years ago, spending the last few years at Milton. Florida presents many inducements to northern people and among these keeping boarding house is found profitable as the number who go to that state from the north, some for health, some for speculation and others for pleasure, is great, and Mr. Duncan, in his well known shrewdness, sees a bonanza in keeping a boarding house, and we trust a bonanza it will prove for Bob. We do not know of any party who would render a boarding house more pleasant and home-like than Mr. and Mrs. Duncan, and it will be just the place Pennsylvanians in Florida would nestle for their headquarters, and to get posted and hear Robert tell stories.

A CENTRE CO. MAN GETS DAMAGED.

The following circumstance has been furnished us, relative to Thos. P. Fowler, of Jones county, Iowa, son of Geo. Fowler, (formerly of Haines township, this county.) His wife, last March, was driving over a bridge, in Strawberry Hill, with her two little children, and while on the bridge, the horse from sudden fright, shied, going off the bridge dragging the sleigh and those in it down about eleven feet. Mrs. Fowler receiving lasting injuries. She brought suit against the town alleging that the cause of her injuries was the want of railings on the bridge. The case was tried and the jury rendered a verdict of $1,540 in favor of Mrs. Fowler.

Wilmer D. Carlisle, son of G. M. Carlisle, of Williamsport, committed suicide on Friday, Dec. 3, by shooting himself through the head with a revolver. He was between 17 and 18 years old. He asked his mother for the revolver with which to shoot a cat, she gave it to him with the caution not to shoot any of the neighbors. Shortly after the report of the pistol was heard, and directly afterwards the young man's father discovered his corpse in a woodshed at the foot of the lot, the ball having penetrated the right temple. No cause is assigned for the rash act.

We have no remedy for the prevention of cruelty to animals at this place but we do believe that the law is clear enough on this point for some one to come forward and do what should have been done long ago. What we mean is this, that there are parties in this place and surrounding country who should be prosecuted for the manner in which they care for their horses.

From the appearance of some of these poor animals one would believe that they go without food for days and are forgotten long ago what a delectable meal is like. One day this week we noticed what resembled a shadow more than any thing else being led through our street and was a question to us how life could be nourished in such a mass of skin and bones. There are parties who are in the habit of keeping stock of this kind and we think it is about time that it is stopped.

To-day, Dec. 15th, is the last day of the deer season for this year. A number of our hunters have been in the woods after the fleet footed and keen scented animals this fall but always returned with much less than when they started from home, but it all goes in a life time, as they say. The last party of Centre Hallers went to the Seven mountains, on Tuesday last, and after scouring through the bushes and rocks and deep snow, they returned without even a smell of a deer; no one had a chance to get the buck fever, or snap a worthless cap. We believe we could get more deer than these fellows by scattering salt on their tails, at least that is the way our grandfathers used to do it.

Centre Hall has more money invested in Church property than any town of its size in the state. It has the purest water and freshest air in the world; is always free from epidemics and has no drunkards. Our town has good graded schools and all the religious and charitable societies and orders of the larger towns, namely, bible classes, missionary societies; odd fellow, masonic, good temple and grange lodges, all above the average standard.

There were only four post-masters, of whom Wm. Wolf was the first extending from the administration of Buchanan to Grant's, when C. F. Herlacher was appointed who was succeeded by A. Reesman after whom Wm. Wolf was appointed again by the present administration.

He was at one time a member of the law firm of Bush, Youm and Hastings.

John Abner Grimley, son of Benjamin and Margaret Gramley, was born Oct. 26, 1839, in Niles township, Centre county, Pa., in his grandfather Spangler's house. Afterwards the family moved to Madisonburg, in the same county.

In the spring of 1874 they moved west and located in the town of Kaneville, Kane county, Ill., where they still reside.

Abner went to Newton, Kansas, in July, 1884, and worked for his uncle, Simon and Uriah Spangler, for a year or more, and in December, 1885, he went on a homestead of his own, near Garden City, Finney county, Kan., where he was laboring to make himself a home. In July, 1886, his health, which previously had been pretty good, failed, and on August 27, he became home, as he told his mother, to die.

He had consumption, which was complicated with dropsy, and he lingered along in great suffering until December 31, 1886, anxiously longing for his release.

He died in the full hope and assurance of the Gospel.

When he lived in Madisonburg, he was a member of the Madisonburg Union Sunday school, and on removing from there the school presented him with a Bible, which he fondly cherished up to the time of his death, and he often talked with his mother about its precious promises. He left a special mark in it at the sixteenth chapter of Ephesians, and urged the attention of his brothers and sisters to its precepts.

He experienced religion when about 16 years old during a protracted meeting in Kaneville, but never came into its full and rich experiences until his last sickness. He died peacefully, leaving on record in the hearts of those around him an evidence of his triumphant faith.

He leaves a father and mother, four brothers and four sisters to meet him when his "ornary voyage is over."

A CAPTAIN'S FORTUNATE DISCOVERY.

Capt. Coleman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y. had been troubled with a cough, so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner.

RENEWS HER YOUTH.

Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay co. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed completely all disease and pain."
