FARM NOTES.

WHAT CAN BE DONE ON FIVE ACRES .- A farmer near Santa Paula, California, having but five acres of and, has demonstrated the oft-asserted fact that small farms well tilled are much more productive in proportion to labor and capital invested than large ones. And if this be true when the farms are unskilfully tilled it is doubly a little over two years ago, he has phosphate of carbolic acid enough to fenced it, built a good comfortable give it a strong odor. This is made dwelling and a chicken house, and put into a thick wash and is laid on with a out 133 trees of the following variety: brush. Then there is an acre in sweet potatoes, onefourth of an acre in Irish potatoes, from which 1150 pounds have been sold and a family of eight persons supplied. Of onions there is half an acre, and they are magnificent; never saw better anywhere. An eighth of an acre is devoted to strawberries, 66 tomato plants, one of them being of the 'Turner's hybrid" breed, a splendid plant, 250 cabbage plants, one of them measuring three feet across, one main- the sun is simply an enormous measuring three tree, one flowering pine, moth siquoia tree, one flowering pine, globe of glowing gas possibly 100 hills of marblehead and mammoth liquid at the centre in consequence Chili squashes (one of these latter of the enormous pressure existing at though not grown yet is more than one | that part. HOW BEST TO TREAT THE POTATO BEETLE.-Again some writers are ignorance. talking of the economy of hand picking potato beetles. "If this is well attended to, there will be no eggs deposited on the leaves," they say. Do they speak from experience, or do they write such stuff because it seems plantible? Years druggles of the stuff because it seems plantible? Years druggles of the stuff because it seems plantible? Years druggles of the stuff because it seems plantible? stuff because it seems plautible? Years ago we diligently picked and killed, once every day, every potato beetle to be seen on a patch 300 feet square, and yet there were, so far as could be judged, just as many eggs deposited and hatched as if this tedious work had never been done; while the soil between the rows was kept hard up, being walked over so often. The fact is that the beetles are to be found in every crack of the soil, under little clods and stones, about the stems and creeping everywhere. One may pick off all the beetles from the plants at 10 o'clock, and at 11 o'clock they will be as thick as ever. Hand-picking destroys just so many beetles certainly; and there are just so many less; but it is like removing a mound of earth pebble by pebble, or emptying a tub of water drop by The work has no appreciable effect. We have tried every method of killing potato beetles, For one entire season we tried London purple, but found that if applied the least bit too strong, it would injure the foliage, because the water collects wherever the leaf will hold it, and evaporates, leaving a film of Paris green. We now use pure Paris green and plaster—one pound to a barrel of plaster-and see that it is thoroughly mixed with rake and hoe. The first application is made as soon as the plants get well out of the ground, and the second when the grubs make their appearance. A fourth is not needed for early pot itoes,

TREES are plants, like all other farm crops, and if the soil containing the one should be cultivated and manured, what reason can there be for making an exception in the case of the other? It takes exactly the same plant food to build a tree and form an apple as it does to manufacture any other farm crop; and yet many farmers expect to keep on crepping the orchard and get the trees and fruit thrown in for nothing; they think they should not plow without planting.

A cold damp soil, with hard impervious subsoil, is not suitable for a garden and before it can be properly utilized should be well drained. For garden purposes, if the tile drain has been laid, the trenching system is best for such soils. Any method that permits it to rid itself of surplus moisture, and allows the heat and air to enter will be beneficial.

ORCHARD ON WET SOIL .- An orchard will not thrive on wet soil. The trees will be mossy, the leaves will yellow, the fruit will fall off, and in a few years the trees will die. Such land should be drained or not planted with fruit trees. The drains should be made between the rows of the trees and be put four feet deep. Tile drains will be the most durable and the bes all

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., May 28, 1886. Pardee Medicine Co.: GENTLEMEN:-Nearly all winter I was confined to my room with inflammatory rheumatism. I commenced using Dr. Pardee's Rheumatic Remedy, but after taking it for a time the pain became more intense, and I was alarmed and feared the remedy was making me worse, but continued its use and soon the pain left me, and I gradually improved, the soreness leaving my arms and shonlders and seeming to pass out at my toes. It has completely cured me. At the time I commenced using the remedy, I had a throat difficulty and the catarrh, which I found to be better after taking it, and it occurred to me to use it as a gargle, which I did, and to my great satisfaction I improved rapidly, and to-day am free from both rheumatism and catarrh. I consider it indispensable as a family medicine. I take one teaspoonful after breakfast, and find it a splendid tonic. I would advise you to recommend it as a gargle for throat trouble and catarrh, for I know it will cure. I have seen some remarkable cures from the use of this remedy, and it is one I can recommend to all. I am, very truly yours, E. R. MCCALLA
