TERRIFIC BOILER EXPLOSION

Several Killed and Others More or Less Injured—Loss to Property $40,000. Natchez, Miss., May 30.—The boiler of the Natchez Cotton factory exploded with terrific violence, entirely demolishing the engine room and the pickery, which was above it, and bursting in the wall of the main building, causing the roof to settle in the centre. The smoke stack was almost entirely demolished and the large factory injured to the extent of many thousands of dollars.

The wildest terror prevailed among the 450 men, women and children in the factory. When it became known that several persons had been killed, and many more or less injured, the anxiety and grief of those who had friends and relatives in the building was heartbreaking.

The fire organization of the city was soon on hand, and a relief party was set at work. All but two of the sufferers, Henry Mullins and George A. McNeal were soon taken from the ruins. These two were deeply covered with debris, and the relief parties were several hours in reaching them. McNeal was found dead, his head being smashed to a jelly. The casualties are as follows:

KILLED.—George A. McNeal, A. R. Foster, Jesse Hathcock, and Ernest Alexander (colored.) Mullins is doubtless dead, as he is still beneath the ruins. INJURED.—Maggie Welch, seriously; Emma Scott, seriously; Nelly Sims, bruised; George Thompson, scalded; S. S. Loes, engineer, bruised internally; Evans Jones, thigh crushed, and Munroe Price, bruised internally.

Others are more or less injured, but none fatally. The company's loss is estimated at $40,000, including loss of time in working the mill.

Two Laborers Burned to Death. MERRITT'S CORNERS, May 30.—Yesterday morning one of Brown, Howard & Co.'s shanties at shaft 2, new aqueduct, caught fire. About seventy-five men were sleeping in it at the time. All escaped except two, James Connolly and a man, who were burned beyond recognition. Connolly was 60 years old. Michael Baker escaped safely from the burning building, but immediately thought of his pocketbook containing $80, which he had left under his bed, and rushing into the shanty to save his money he was burned on the face, arms, and back, so badly that he will probably die from the effects of his injuries. James McGee was also badly burned. Both Baker and McGee were taken to Bellevue hospital, New York. The fire is supposed to have originated from a lighted cigar or a gasoline lamp. Several men lost all they had.

The New French Ministry. PARIS, May 30.—Several changes have occurred in the personnel of the cabinet since the list was announced. This official list of the new cabinet is now presented:

- M. Rouvier, president of the council, minister of finance and minister of posts and telegraphs. M. Flourens, minister of foreign affairs. M. Bousquet, minister of justice. M. Spuller, minister of public instruction. M. Fallieres, minister of the interior and of public worship. M. Heredia, minister of public works. M. Dantemes, minister of commerce. M. Barbe, minister of agriculture. Gen. Sausser, minister of war. No one has yet been chosen for the marine portfolio.

On His Final Homeward Journey. WASHINGTON, May 30.—The remains of Major Benj. Perley Poore, the veteran correspondent, who died here at 12:45 o'clock yesterday morning, were conveyed to the station yesterday afternoon and placed on the train bound for his Massachusetts home. There were no funeral exercises here. Representatives from the leading papers and delegates from the Loyal Legion and Masonic Order acted as an escort to the station. Major Poore was the leader of the correspondents in Washington, and will be greatly missed.

Universal Suffrage Denied. BRUSSELS, May 30.—A congress of delegates from all the radical associations of Belgium was held here yesterday under the name of the progressist liberal conference, to take action upon the suffrage question. After discussion the conference, by a vote of 371 to 127, adopted a resolution against universal suffrage.

The Strike Becoming General. BRUSSELS, May 30.—The strike in the Mons district is becoming general. At Verriers the anarchists at a meeting discussed the strike, and incited the strikers to plunder. A mob attempted to parade the streets but was dispersed by the police with drawn swords, and the gendarmes with fixed bayonets.

The Thistle's Victory. LONDON, May 30.—The Thistle arrived at Harwich after her 50-mile race far ahead of all competitors. She passed the line at 10:53 Saturday night; the Genesta at 1:34 Sunday morning; the Irex at 1:47 Sunday morning; the Sleuthound at 1:49; the Wendur at 2:23; the Sibyl at 2:37; and the Mary at 2:51.

The Cyclone in India. CALCUTTA, May 30.—The cyclone which visited this section of the country was very destructive. A local steamer, with 750 persons aboard, was caught by the cyclone and is missing. It is feared she is lost with all aboard. The district of Grissa was completely devastated.

A Woman on Trial for Murder. BUFFALO, May 30.—A jury has finally been obtained for the trial of Hattie Penney, charged with the murder of her husband. Over 300 talesmen were examined and excused. The trial will proceed to-morrow morning.

Attacking Irish Constables. DUBLIN, May 30.—On Saturday last peasants attacked the residence of O Callaghan, at Westroff, where one hundred constables engaged in the body's evictions are lodged. Many windows were broken. Twelve arrests were made.

Gen. Robert Newton Dying. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 30.—Gen. Robert Newton is reported dying at his home in this town. Some days ago he had a paralytic stroke and has since been unconscious.

Earthquakes in Italy. ROME, May 30.—Four shocks of earthquake were felt yesterday at Teal, one being of great violence. Shocks were also experienced at Ancona.

Weather Report. WASHINGTON, May 30, 6 a. m.—Indications for 24 hours covering Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and New England. Warm, fair weather, followed Tuesday by local rains, southerly winds.

A CANINE THIEF.

The Dishonorable Conduct of a Four-Footed Omaha Kieptomaniac. Prof. Nathan Franko's dog, says the Omaha Register, is a disgrace to its favored species. Exceptionally intelligent and good-looking, provided with the best of homes of the most indulgent of masters, he ought to be above reproach of humanity and in enjoyment of the esteem of a whole circle of canine acquaintances. But he isn't. He is a common thief. His name is "Faust." Massive of frame and handsome of feature, he is goodly to gaze upon. He is not the Sullivanian style of ponderous beauty, however, for his hair is abundant and his eyes gazelike. He is the sort of a dog that mules do not kick and little boys hate to equip with tin-cans. His countenance is open when he gazes. At all times he is frank and deceptive. It is not even redeemed by cunning of design and boldness of execution, like that of a hoodlum alderman or a speculative bank cashier. He steals without regard to the value of his booty, and in nearly every instance is detected. His owner says he is affected with incurable kleptomaniac, but his victims describe him as a miserable, petty larcenist, a scoundrel, a thief, the other indications are that he will continue to plunder and blunder until he sinks into an unwept and unhonored grave. He is an unwept, but antique in crime. When he was a diminutive puppy with big head and long ears, he was excused as a natural ebullition of the mischievous spirit of youth. In those days he stole slippers and shoes, but as he increased in weight and strength the articles he stole were heavier and more valuable. Now he carries off anything he can lift or drag. He attempted to steal a bicycle the other day, but it was too awkward for him to carry, and tears of anguish rolled down his cheeks as he turned away from it. A scarse upper lip bears testimony to the seriousness of an interview he had with a red-hot stove. The stove wasn't hurt very much, and is still there as it was during the interview.

If any householder misses a door-mat or a section of garden fence, or any thing of that kind, it might be to his interest to inspect the back yard of Prof. Nathan Franko's, his attorney, where Faust deposits his plunder he is unable to enter.

A HUMAN PUMP. The Wonderful Feat of a Darky Who Can Drink a Gallon of Water More Than Any Person in the United States, as he pushed a stout, well-proportioned colored fellow into the Cincinnati Enquirer office. "I back him for big money." "If you want that put in as a challenge!"

"Yes, I do, and am ready to make it good any time anybody finds a man that he thinks can beat him. Why, this fellow can drink a gallon of ice-water ever hour in the day, and feel none the worse for it. That is not all either. He can keep it on his stomach as long as he wants to, and when ready can without the slightest trouble expel it from his mouth."

A large tin bucket, of at least three quart capacity, was produced. It was filled to overflowing with ice-water. The colored man put his mouth to the rim, and, without once raising his head, drained it to the bottom. He then emptied his vest, and the bucket was again filled. Again he emptied it, only stopping once or twice to loosen his vest to make room in his stomach for the immense load of water. The aquatic feat then did a couple of jig steps on the floor, and after that a slip-bucket was given him, and he got down on his knees in front of it, and the water came from his mouth in streams.

At first it required only the slightest effort, but as he progressed he seemed to have more difficulty in making the water rise in his throat at his bidding. It was then that he took hold of one each, and twisting it in much the same manner that a faucet is turned he managed to bring up stream after stream of water. In this way he worked fully three minutes, and it was not long until he had expelled from his stomach every drop of water he had drunk.

The colored man's name is Samuel Johnson, and he hails from Baltimore. He claims that he does not care any thing about whisky, beer or any other intoxicating drink, but that he can gulp down more water in a day than a horse.

NOT THAT MURPHY. Edwin Gracefully Listens to Flattering Compliments Intended for Francis. Mr. Edwin Murphy, superintendent of the Gymnasium, was standing at Fourth and Walnut streets, when two gentlemen passed. One of them knew him and bowed, saying, according to the Cincinnati Times-Star: "Good day, Mr. Murphy." "Is that Mr. Murphy?" inquired the other. "Introduce me."

So he was introduced to Mr. Murphy and the other passed on, leaving them together. "Oh, Mr. Murphy," said the newly introduced gentleman, "I have long wanted to know you. I think you are doing a great and noble work in this city."

"Yes," said Mr. Murphy, "I am." "You are saving our young men." "Yes, I'm doing all I can to make them strong. A strong man is the noblest work of God."

"You are making them strong," enthusiastically cried the other, "making them strong to fight the battle of life, strong to resist temptation, strong to do the right."

"What a wh-a-a-t!" cried Mr. Murphy, aghast. "It is a great and noble work," fervently went on the gentleman, "and the Lord will bless it. Keep it up, and happy wives and children and generations yet to be will bless you."

Then Mr. Murphy "dropped." "I'm Edwin Murphy, head of Gymnasium," he said. "Not Francis?" "No." "Not the temperance apostle?" "No." "You are not that great, good man?" "No." "Ah, a-h-h-h—Oh, good-day." "This is a story that Mr. Murphy does not tell, but it is too good to keep."

Be Careful of Your Signature. A gentleman of wealth, while practicing penmanship one day, wrote his name upon a blank slip of paper and allowed it to lie on his desk. It attracted the attention of a neighbor, who, for a joke, filled the space above the signature in the form of a promissory note, and a few days afterward the joking neighbor presented the paper with an offer to allow considerable discount if the apparent drawer would cash it at the time. The gentleman perceived the joke, and the holder of the document, placing it in his pocket, departed and nothing more was said about it. Subsequently the holder was stricken with paralysis and died, and his executors, finding the note and having no knowledge of the joke attached to it, brought suit and recovered the sum for which it was drawn.
