Every honest Democrat should subscribe for the REPORTER, it is not muzzled by the oats agents and was not hired to break down the Democratic nominations.

The Philadelphia Times endorses chairman McClain's letter on the conferee system. A change is needed, to prevent the abominable deadlocks in making nominations for congress and senator.

The county commissioners of Chicago, have been indicted for claiming percentage on contracts. The law can always be made to reach dishonest men in office, no matter what the position, from a town council up to the president of the U.S. Many are now being put through the machine and landed in the penitentiary: those who flee to Canada, of course excepted. Any species of malfeasance, or fooling in office, is punishable.

The coke strike just ended was one of the most stubbornly contested battles ever fought between capital and labor. For eleven weeks and four days the fight went on, and now that it is over the feeling between the men and operators is, if anything, more cordial than it ever was before. The amount of money lost by the long idleness cannot be accurately calculated, but it runs up into the millions. When the strike began fourfifths of the 11000 men in the region had money of their own, but very few of them have enough money now to take them out of the district if they wanted

The Ohio Democrats had a harmonious convention last week, endorsed Cleveland's administration and nominated a strong ticket. General Thomas E. Powell, of Delaware county, was nominated for governor on the second ballot. Only Congressmen Campbell and Foran were voted for in opposition, and the strength of the latter after the first ballot (when Powell lacked but nine votes of a majority) went to Powell on the second ballot, when he led Campbell a hundred votes. The nomination was made unanimous with the utmost good feeling. The contest throughout was a friendly one. General Powell comes from the centre of the State, is generally well The table linen was spotless, and the service unthought of by the people irrespective of exceptionable. There were flowers in a little vase party, and is both a brilliant and strong stumper. Hon, D. C. Coolman, of Portage county, in the northeastern part of the State, was nominated for lieutenant

A REMARKABLE TRIP.

New York Times, June 23d, 1887.

Hon. Wolfe Rahill, of Chicago, looking for all the world as though he had just issued from the proverbial band-box, was stumbled over last night at the Windsor Hotel, where he was engaged in searching the tape line for the last quotation for July wheat. The set of Mr. Rabill's clawhammer coat was faultless; his shirt bosom, from the centre of which a lustrous opal shot forth moonlike rays, was immaculate and narumpled; while his trousers, marked by that latest freak of gentlemanly folly, the Prince of Wales crease, fitted him in a way that at once filled with envy all the heavy swells of Gotham who were buzzing about the wide corridors.

"It beats the world," Mr. Rabill remarked, looking up from the paper ribbon that he held between his thumb and fore-finger, "it is the greatest accomplishment of the century.'

'Nonsense!" he returned, dropping the line, and thrusting both hands into his trousers' pockets. "The Chicago wheat deal is an old story. The same thing has been done over and over again. No, sir; I was speaking of the train on which I left Chicago last evening, and on which I came into Jersey City to-night—one of the new Vestibuled Trains that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has just put on between the two cities. It's the novelty of the age, it's the-but stop. let me tell you about it and you yourself will have to bunt for terms sufficiently glowing to describe it. I came back to Chicago yesterday afternoon after a busi-ness trip west as far as Omaha. I was dusty, dirty, and weary, and I longed for nothing so much as a bath and a good sound sleep. I was tired of the rumble and rattle of the cars, the flying cinders, the cramped sitting posture, the dust over everything, the railroad lunch-rooms, and the railroad sandwiches. I made up my mind that I would settle down in Chicago and never stir ont of it again until I had to. Well, what do you suppose happened? When at four o'clock I rushed into my office in State street and dropped into my chair, there among the letters on my desk before me I found an invitation to a friend's wedding in New York. Time: to-night; 7.30. I railed at my unlucky start. Much as I despised railroad traveling I would have gone double the distance to have seen that man married. In days gone by we were as were Damon and Pythias. I stated the case to my partner, and growled like seven bears because I had not come home a day earlier. "'Well,' said my partner, after a moment's hesitation, 'if you'd stop growl-ing and hustle about a little you might get there yet."

"'Man alive!" I exclaimed, 'you're crazy. The Pennsylvania Railroad's New York and Chicago Limited, which makes the fastest time of any train east, leaves in less than an hour, and does not arrive in New York until seven o'clock tomorrow night. The wedding takes place and a look in less goods at Loebs.

in a church somewhere up Madison avenue. Now, how in the name of Heaven could I get shaved, put on a dress suit, and ride to the church in half an

"You're behind the century, said Tom-Tom's my partner, you know. Trust this matter to me, and I'll have you there before the organist strikes up the wedding march, or you can call on me for ten thousand bushels of July "Well, I just put myself trustingly into his hands. The first thing he did was to start a messenger off to my house with my satchel, and instructions to put in my dress clothes and two changes of underwear, and to be at the Union Station by five o'clock sharp. The next thing he did was to secure a section for me on the Pennsylvania's Vestibuled Train for that afternoon; and it was only by luck that he got it. Everything, I believe, had been engaged for days ahead, but some-body, who couldn't go, brought back his ticket, and so I was saved. At five o'clock, still dusty, dirty, and weary, I climbed into the most luxurious carit has ever been my good fortune to ride in. I found that the section of which I was the lucky possessor for the trip, was a little deliciously upholstered drawingroom, with cushions and hangings of a tint that I think I have seen described somewhere as crushed strawberry. The fittings were of satin wood, and the ceiling was decorated in silver. There were silvered lighting arrangements too. Not gas brackets, my friend, for that whole train is illuminated by electricity. Well, I found that there was a toiletroom connected with that section of mine, which, together with the section, could be cut off from the rest of the train, and so if I wanted privacy I could have all I wanted. I did want it, because I had a number of letters with me that I had found at the office and that I had no time to read carefully before I started.

I shut myself in for a while with my letters, after washing my face and hands, and getting the porter to give me a thorough brashing. Then I became aware of the fact that I was hungry, and so I made inquiry as to the dining car. It was forward, I was told, and I strolled thither, passing through another car on my way. Although we were running at the rate of fifty miles an hour, there was no necessity of catching hold of the seats to steady myself as I went. That train glided along as smoothly as a sleigh on polished runners over hard-packed snow, and I walked from one end of it to the other as I would walk through this corridor. I found the rest of the sleeping car in which I was located was upholstered in gendarme blue, with woodwork of Hungarian mahogany, and the way in which the two colors harmonized was a delightful change from what I had been used to on the western roads. The vestibule arrangement I found a most charming innovation. In passing from car to car, there was no banging to of the door with one hand, holding one's hat with the other to keep it from flying off, and then making a grab for the handle of the door of the next ear, in mortal terror of

Well, I should say I did, and sumptously too, in as pretty a little dining-room— lin, of Miles township, is a candidate for Register, subject to Democratic usages. sumptously too, in as pretty a little dining-roomexcuse me, car I mean—as man ever sat down in exceptionable. There were flowers in a little vase in front of a mirror over the table between the windows, and whenever I raised my eyes they fell upon a most ornate bouffe, that fairly shone with silver, glass, and polished brass. This dining car was fitted up in old oak, with blue green velours hangings and upoblstery generally. The dinner cost me a dollar, and was better than the best dollar-and-a-half dinner I ever ate in a hotel I had a pint of Pommery too, for which I paid the usual two dollars. I smoked a cigar after dinner in the smoking car, which, with its stained oak book cases and brackets, its bric-a-brac on the shelves, and its softly cushioned wicker chairs, house, than the interior of a car running across the country at a speed that a few years ago no to answer, and so I sat down there at a desk and answered them. If I was at a loss for the spelling of a word, a dictionary was at hand, and if I wanted an address, all I had to do was ask the porter for a directory of the city in which the lost party resided. Before I had finished writing, it was after nine o'clock, and we had passed Fort Wayne, and were thundering on towards Crestline, our next stopping place.

"As I was tired I turned in early, and I slept as oundly as though I were in my own home. I went into breakfast, we were somewhere between Pittsburg and Altoona. After breakfast I went into the barber shop and---'

"The barber shop ! " interrupted his compan ion, "Where did you find a barber shop?" "On the train of course. O, I didn't speak of i before, did I? Well, that's another feature ex. clusively the property of the Pennsylvania's New York and Chicago Limited. Yes sir. There is a barber shop there, and a good barber too. I was shaved without a scratch, had my hair trimmed, and felt as fresh as a field daisy in June. I found a book in the library that interested me until lunch time, and just as I got through luncheon we arrived at Harrisburg, promptly on schedule time-1.55. There I got the New York papers, looked over the grain markets, wired an order to my partner to buy 5000 bushels of July wheat for my account, and settled down with a cigar between my teeth for an hour or two with the news of the day. About four o'clock I took my satchel made my way to the bath-room-O! yes; there's a bath-room, too-had a delightfully refreshing bath, put on clean clothes, and donned this black and white attire which, you now see. Before I had finished, we had stopped at Broad Street Station, in Philadelphia, for five minutes, and were shoot ing out over the Schurlkill on the last stage of the journey. Another delicious dinner occupied another hour or more. When I went into the smoking car, we were somewhere between Trenton and New Brunswick, and though there was no perceptable swaying of the train or jolting either, I was told shortly afterwards that we had made the run of twenty-five miles between those two points in exactly twenty-seven minutes. Pretty fast going that, ch? Before I had finished my second eigar we were in Jersey City. I took the upper ferry, arrived on the New York side at sarp seven o'clock, jumped into a cab and walked into the church to-night in time to get a good seat forward, from which I witnessed my friend's marriage from start to finish. "My verdict consequently is, that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's new Vestibuled Train beats the world. There's not another road on the face of this globe that could have afforded such a service as that, and I am willing to make any bet on it that you choose to propose." Then the Hon. Wolfe Rahill made the anncement that he intended to take the Limited back to Chicago at nine o'clock this morning and bade his friend good-night.

THE IMPROVED

Henly Monarch Fence Machine

COMMON SENSE REASONS WHY THE IMPROVED HENLY . MONARCH . FENCE' MACHINE

IS THE BEST AND HAS NO EQUAL. 1 Because the wire is stretched the full length of the field before the weaving is com Because any sized wire can be used, and either 2, 3, 4, or 5 double strands can be used, Because any sized where can be used, and ender 2, 3, 4, 675 double straints can be used, weaving all with equal facility.

3 Because any size, length, or style of picket, or slat, or board, can be used, weaving fancy iron pickets equally well and solid.

4 Because it will make a fence over rough and uneven ground, or up and down hill alike, making as good a fence as on even, level ground; and the machine being adjustable, the pickets are all woven plumb. are all waven plumb.

5 Because the Monarch machine stretches the wire tighter, thus making the strongest and best wire and picket fence. 6 Because any one, man or boy, can operate it, and there are no parts to get out of order and

Because it is made of the best materials, and, with proper care, will last a life-time. Because the price is within the reach of every farmer.

Because it is the only machine that forces the slat or picket firmly against the wire, thus g the slat in such a solid and and permanent manner that it cannot be pulled out, and re is impossible.

securing the slat in such a solid and and permanent manner that it cannot be pulled out, and breakage is impossible.

10 Because the fence made by this machine will turn all kinds of stock, and is much stronger than any barb wire fence, and completely obviates all danger of injury to stock.

11 Because by weaving past the post, and fastening the wire strands to the posts with stapins, and not nalling the slata to posts, thus keeping the wood parts from coming in contact with each other, it will not hold the moisture or rot. This is a very important matter, as all boards in board fences soon rot off at post, and occasion continued expense for repair.

12 Because all kinds of old material can be used for making new fence.

13 Because it makes the handsomest, best, strongest, and most durable fence, and is the only first-class, practical isnee machine in the world.
